

Events in Society

Gerald Anthony, in Alameda, was complimented the first of the week with a sewing party given by Mrs. Frank Otta.

Mrs. L. W. Therkelsen and daughter, Miss Catherine Therkelsen, expect to leave next week for San Francisco to spend the winter in the south. Miss Mary Therkelsen is preparing for Stanford at Mrs. Hamlin's school in San Francisco, and Miss Hazel Therkelsen is also in the Bay City. Mrs. Therkelsen is shipping her car. She will first visit her mother, Mrs. M. A. Cahot, and then do extensive touring further south. Cahot Therkelsen remains in Eugene, where he is preparing to enter the university in February.

At the Elks memorial service in Salem on Sunday Mrs. Rose Courson-Road was the contralto and Miss Irene Flynn the soprano, with Miss Mamie Helen Flynn at the piano. Dr. Benjamin Young delivered the address.

War on "Ragtime."
A few representative musicians and club women will meet early next week at the home of Mrs. A. B. Clark to begin a campaign on "ragtime" music. They have already been in consultation with prominent directors and orchestra leaders who assure them of their cooperation.

Michigan Society.
Over 300 members of the Michigan State association of Oregon enjoyed the regular meeting last evening in Women of Woodcraft hall. The most important feature was the outline of the society's trip east. An interesting and amusing program was given by the "Veterans" quartet, violin, and a comedy and song act from the Empress. The society has been in existence less than a year and numbers over 300 members.

Wedding Anniversary.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Fross gave a surprise party Friday evening, November 23, in honor of the ninth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Mahan, who were married in Phillips, Wis., November 23, 1903. The marriage vows were solemnized again by the bride's brother, Harry D. Fross. The matron of honor was Mrs. William Skusa and the best man J. Hillis. Miss Nancy Onslow played the wedding march. Yellow was the color scheme of the wedding dinner, carried out with chrysanthemums. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Newton Fross, Mrs. Mahan's parents; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Connel, Mr. and Mrs. William Skusa, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hillis and daughter Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Dilly, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brinkley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Onslow and daughter Mary, and the Misses Mabel and Florence Skusa. Games and music formed the entertainment. Mr. and Mrs. Mahan spent the night at the Hotel Sorrento in Seattle, where they will pass the winter.

The many Portland friends of Miss Fanny Struck are delighted to know that she will spend some time here.

TEACHERS WASTE TOO MANY DAYS

Douglas County Grange Thinks School Should Hold 20 Days Each Month.

(Special to The Journal.)
Roseburg, Or., Dec. 3.—Pomona Grange of Douglas county believes school children should attend school not less than 20 days each month during the term and that teachers should teach not less than that number of days. At a meeting of the grange in Roseburg a resolution was passed favoring a state law compelling school teachers to teach not less than 20 days throughout their contract term, and a petition asking the legislature to enact such a law will be circulated among the subordinate granges of the county. This resolution was prompted by the practice of taking two or more days for some regular holidays and a week or more for Christmas, while county institutes keep teachers from schools even longer. The teachers draw their regular salary on such occasions, however, while the pupils receive no educational benefit. The grange is willing that in cases where less than 20 days of school have been taught in a month it may be compensated for by extra days of teaching in some other month.

The following grange officers were elected for the next two years: Master, C. H. Bailey; overseer, R. A. Busenbark; secretary, T. E. Grae; lecturer, Mrs. J. M. Ashcraft; steward, E. M. Mathews; assistant male steward, F. L. Green; assistant woman steward, Mrs. C. H. Bailey; treasurer, J. L. Sogge; chaplain, John Alexander; correspondent, Mrs. N. L. Lowry; Pomona, Miss Ester Blakeley; Flora, Mrs. John Alexander; gate keeper, W. D. Snider.

A cement that will bind rubber to metal is made of one part powdered shellac to 10 parts of strong ammonia, the mixture being allowed to stand several days before it is used.

An Hour of Music.
A SMART little coterie of society and musical folk gathered at the home of Mrs. Emma B. Carroll yesterday afternoon to enjoy an hour of music with her. One of the most interesting features of the program was Miss Frances Batchelor's playing of a group of compositions by Louis Campbell-Tipton, one of the really great American composers. Two songs, a legend and a sonata, were chosen. Other most enjoyable numbers on the program were a Chopin "Prelude" and Tchaikovsky's "Chanson Triste," little Miss Katherine Sailer; waltz (Schott); "A Minor Concerto" (Grieg); Miss Agnes Winchell; "Narcissus" (Nevin); Miss Margaret Porter; "In Deep Woods" and "To an Old Pine" (MacDowell); "B Minor Concerto" (Tchaikovsky); Miss Jessie Lewis. Mrs. Carroll prefaced each number with a few words throwing more intimate light on the composer and his work about to be given.

PORTLAND AUTHOR WINS HIGH PRAISE

"The Guardians of the Columbia," by John H. Williams, Lauded in Review.

Eastern Papers Lavish Oregon Metropolis Is Commended as "Very Beautiful, and Scenic Mountains of Pacific Northwest Called Inspiring."

High praise for Portland and a noteworthy appreciation, by a famous traveler and Alpinist, of the snow-peaks seen from this city are expressed by the New York Evening Post in reviewing a new Portland book, "Oregon and Washington Mountain scenery," by the New York newspaper. It is "unusually anywhere" it is destined to yield a vast and profitable tourist crop. The Evening Post's comments were called forth by "The Guardians of the Columbia," the illustrated volume which John H. Williams has written and published on the great scenery of the Columbia-Cascade region. Calling special attention to some of the book's fine illustrations, the reviewer declares "Oregon's metropolis one of the most superbly placed cities in the world."

In the story of the birth of the great mountain, told in the author's eloquent and graphic text. The Springfield Republican has this to say about the third section of the book, "The Forests," by Harold Douglas Langille: The interest and value of the book are much increased by the chapter which deals with the forest-visitor and yet with scientific accuracy of detail. The forests of Oregon and Washington are second only to those of the Sequoias of California, and in the depth of the Northern forest may not rival. In Washington and Oregon there are vast tracts of forest which may not rival. In Washington and Oregon there are vast tracts of forest which may not rival.
