

MONTANANS WIN LAND SHOW PRIZE

Hepner Man Gains Place Among First Ten Wheat Growers at Minneapolis.

(Special to The Journal.)
St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 18.—Joseph P. Nash and Charles Bridgeman, partners, wheat and now bonanza wheat farmers in the Shields river valley of Montana, 70 miles north of Yellowstone national park, have won the prize of $500 for the best five bushels of wheat grown in the American northwest during 1912 and exhibited at the Minneapolis land show.

It was "Turkey Red," and weighed the full 60 pounds and a few ounces more. The commercial score card gave it 92½ points. It milled 104.7. Fifty-nine and one third bushels per acre was the average on 32 acres.

This announcement was made by President Leis Penwell of the Northwest Development league, after the many samples of wheat of all varieties had passed under the eyes of four different judges, then been ground into flour and baked into bread. Affidavits were furnished by the growers from the county surveyor of Park county, Mont., who measured the field, and from the threshermen, who measured 3085 bushels of the wheat they threshed from 32 acres.

The prize winning wheat was not the highest scoring wheat by the commercial score card, but it was 4.7 points better than No. 2 northern spring, the millers' standard on the milling test. The wonderful yield which Nash and Bridgeman realized from carefully selecting their seed and the natural fertility of the soil of the Shields river valley, placed the prize, a big Four "30" gasoline farm tractor, and a set of Emerson-Brantingham lift gang plows, in the possession of the Montanans.

The exhibitor showing highest yield lost out completely in the milling test and commercial scoring, but he set the pace on yield with 75 bushels to the acre. This was considered a 100 per cent yield. Bridgeman and Nash therefore earned 12.9 points on their yield of 59 1/2 bushels to the acre. This made their final score 92.1 and their nearest competitor was Peter Deboer, Conrad, Mont., with a final score of 84.2.

Here are the scores of the first 10:
Nash and Bridgeman, Clyde Park, Mont. 92.1
Peter Deboer, Conrad, Mont. 84.2
C. K. Kane, Conrad, Mont. 81.05
Dick Hearn, Conrad, Mont. 80.85
J. V. Sharvold, Christian, N. D. 79.53
K. F. Ebnse, Cando, N. D. 79.02
W. McNamara, Amanda, N. D. 78.5
Fred Potts, Mont. N. D. 78.00
Frank Anderson, Heppner, Or. 72.61
Josephine Connolly, Power, Mont. 67.8

MAN WHO HAD RICHES IN HIS GRIP NOW IS IN UNCLE SAM'S CUSTODY

States commissioner has been set for tomorrow morning, at which time the charges made by the government will be threshed out. Not until that time will it be decided whether or not the man will be allowed to return to San Diego for trial there for embezzlement.

Used Girl's Name.

The arrest of Carney, in the first instance, grew out of a series of letters and telegrams that he sent to Miss Lettie Buckley of Curley, Idaho, urging her to come to Vancouver, where a position could be secured. In all this correspondence he signed the name of "May Boley." It is said, and the girl's mother asked that the officials of Vancouver determine who "May Boley" was. The investigation showed that it was Carney, who had authored the letters and telegrams, and a technical charge of vagrancy was placed against the man, but finally dismissed.

The money found in possession of Carney was ordered held by a bank at Vancouver, by Inspector Barbur, in spite of the hot fight made by W. C. Bates, an attorney, engaged by Carney, to prevent this.

During the investigation Barbur found on the necktie worn by the man, the name of a San Diego haberdasher. This, Barbur declares, proves to him, that the assertions made by Carney that he is but five weeks in this country, are false and that he is the man wanted in San Diego for the embezzlement there. Carney, who refuses to admit that he is Miller, is said to have agreed to return to California without fighting extradition. Burns and Pinkerton detectives, it is said, are searching between Vancouver and Yaqui for another trunk belonging to the man, in which, it is believed, more securities will be found.

It is reported there that Governor Johnson of California has issued extradition papers for the return of Carney to San Diego and that two officers are now on their way here to get him.

MISSING BRIDE IS BACK; PORTLAND GIRL KEEPS IN ARMS OF MOTHER

day night and yesterday, Mrs. Hunter was hurrying to Portland on the Shasta Limited. She had some money with her when she left her husband at the Manx hotel, and it was enough to buy her ticket.

The family telegraphed and then telephoned to Joseph Hunter, the young husband, at San Francisco last night. The wife was so overwrought that she had to take to bed and could not talk to him, but she expressed her love.

"I guess he's going to surprise her," smiled Mrs. Cotter, the bride's mother, this morning, when she read that young Mr. Hunter had disappeared from San Francisco. "As soon as Bessie is well she will live with him, for she cares for him very much. They had no quarrel. It was just illness and homesickness that made Bessie do as she did."

Mrs. Hunter would not see visitors today. She is still confined to her bed.

JAIL CUTS SHORT CAREER OF ASTORIA PUBLISHER

Astoria, Or., Dec. 18.—C. C. Crandell, who was arrested a few days ago on a charge of forgery, was arraigned in justice court yesterday and waiving examination was bound over to the grand jury and committed to jail. Crandell, who is about 26 years of age, came to Astoria two weeks ago and started publishing "The Plaindealer," a weekly newspaper. Only one issue appeared. The paper was printed under contract by a local publishing company. After he collected for his advertising, Crandell spent the entire amount the same night. In order to recuperate his losses, he is alleged to have forged a check on a local photographer for $4.80. He is also indebted to the publishing company for $70.

WRECKAGE, VEST, TELL FLIERS' FATE

Hope of Finding Kearny and Lawrence Is Abandoned by Friends in Los Angeles.

(United Press Special Wire.)
Los Angeles, Dec. 18.—With the identification by Builder Charles H. Day of portions of the Kearny hydro-aeroplane found off Redondo beach, practically all hope is abandoned that Aviator Horace Kearny and his passenger, Chester Lawrence, who disappeared during a flight from Long Beach to San Francisco, may be alive.

A pontoon, rudder and wing tip of the lost air craft were found off Redondo beach yesterday by fishermen. Floating near the wreckage were strips of a shirt and vest that friends of Lawrence say are portions of the clothing he wore when the voyage began. An expedition in the tug Collis, sent to Anacapa islands on a slender hope, has returned without finding a trace of the men. Even the most optimistic admit that they are lost.

In spite of what appeared to be a certainty that the aviators are lost, searching parties continued their work today. A watch is being maintained along the Redondo beach shore for the bodies.

WASHINGTON FARMERS UNITE TO KILL "SMUT"

(Special to The Journal.)
Washington State College, Pullman, Wash., Dec. 18.—The next annual meeting of the Washington Grain Growers, Shippers and Millers' association, commonly called "The Wheat Convention," will be held at the state college, in Pullman, on January 7, 8 and 9, 1913.

The report of the first year of cooperative experiments in eradicating smut, which have been carried on by nearly 50 farmers in different parts of the state this year and of the investigations with smut at the state experiment station will be a very important part of the program for this convention. This makes the coming convention an unusually important one. of discussion by farmers. The bulk handling of grain, and grain inspection are two other topics which are already assured of thorough discussion. The use of the Campbell sub-face packer and traction versus horse power tillage will be discussed by farmers who have had practical experience along these lines. A "School for Millers," in which practical instruction in methods of testing wheat and flour will be given in the experiment station laboratories, with a feature of the convention. Reduced rates on all railroads at a fare and one-third on the certificate plan, have been assured.

Are Actually Retiring From Business

We wish to emphasize this statement for the purpose of showing a REASON for the enormous reductions we have made on ALL GOODS IN STOCK. The prices we are now making are in almost every instance less than we would have to pay to replenish our stock. Then why would we make these prices if we were going to continue in business? However, the public is not so much interested in whether or not we are going to continue in business as they are in knowing what they will have to pay for the goods.
