JAPANESE VESSEL STRIKES 24 DAYS OF BAD WEATHER

Steamer Manshu Maru, Here to Load Lumber, Had Hard Voyage From Orient but Escaped Damage.

Twenty-four days of continuous rough weather during which there was but one day when the gale was not howling fiercely was the lot of the Japanese steamer Manshu Maru which arrived at 10:30 o'clock last night from Karatsu, Japan, to load a cargo of lumber for China.

Although the Manshu Maru sails under the flag of the Mikado, she is in command of an Englishman, Captain John Salter, who is the only European on the vessel. The remainder of the ship's company consists of 56 Japanese.

The only good weather that they had on the passage across the Pacific, says Captain Salter, was off the Aleutian Islands which were passed within 30 miles and glimpses of which could be caught between snow squalls that had taken the place of the heavy gales.

From the time that the Manshu left Karatsu she was buffeted by strong northwest and westerly gales and on December 17, when she was about 200 miles off the mouth of the Columbia the gale swung around into the southwest and she had a series of blows from that direction the remainder of the distance to the river. In spite of the high seas in which she pitched and rolled, the Manshu sustained no damage, says Captain Salter.

The captain has been in the steamer but a month as she has only recently been bought by the Kishimoto Kisen Kaisha from another Japanese firm which has had her since 1904. The Manshu Maru will load about 3,500,000 feet of lumber at the Inman Poulsen mills for the China Import & Export Lumber company.

The next Japanese steamer to arrive will probably be the Hokuto Maru, which is on the list to come from Hiogo.

CARRY 240,225 BUSHELS

Two Vessels of Grain Fleet Are Awaiting Tow to Astoria.

Carrying an aggregate of 240,225 bushels of wheat, with a total value of $204,555, two vessels of the grain fleet are in the stream awaiting towboats to take them to Astoria on the first leg of their voyage to the United Kingdom for orders, and the possibility of their arriving at their destination on the same day as they did when they reached the Columbia river is being discussed. The British ship Hougomont, under charter to M. H. Houser, completed her cargo this morning, having aboard 145,595 bushels of wheat, valued at $123,755, and she will clear for Queenstown, Falmouth or Plymouth for orders. The British ship Colony is under charter to G. W. McNear, Inc., and will take out 94,630 bushels of wheat, valued at $80,500. She will probably leave down the river tomorrow morning and the Hougomont Monday or Tuesday.

BRINGS LOTTIE BENNET IN

Steamer Arrives After 52 Day Voyage From Callao.

After towing the Port of Portland dredge Columbia from the mouth of the Willamette river to the drydock last night, the towboat Ocklahama went down to Astoria and left up from that place with the schooner Lottie Bennet, which is in after a 52 days' voyage from Callao. The Bennett will come to the Portland Lumber company's mills to load a cargo of lumber for offshore. The dredge Columbia has gone to the drydock to undergo her annual overhauling and repairs.

DERELICT SIGHTED

Steamer Sees Broken Mast Standing Ten Feet Out of Water.

In a report to the local branch hydrographic office, Captain K. B. Sakuma, master of the Japanese steamer Nankai Maru, stated that on December 11 at 12:27 A. M., in latitude 46.20 north and longitude 126.43 west, the steamer passed a broken mast of a ship standing about 10 feet above the water. The spar appeared to be about three feet in diameter and from its size is supposed to belong to some derelict floating just below the surface of the ocean.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

Inspector Frank C. Young, of the immigration service at Blaine, Wash., has arrived in Portland to visit relatives.

The schooner Defiance, now at Honolulu, has been taken by Dant & Russell to load on the Columbia river for another voyage to the Hawaiian port with lumber.

The schooner Alert is expected to get away today with a lumber cargo for Hilo.

To load a full cargo of lumber for California ports' the steamer Northland, Captain Bodge, shifted last night from Oak street wharf to the Portland Lumber company's mills.

In order to give the crew a holiday and also to have her galley painted, the river steamer Beaver will be tied up from Tuesday morning until Thursday night.

When she left down the river this morning on her voyage to Sydney, the British steamer Auchendale, Captain Cowan, had 3,113,250 feet of lumber, valued at $36,196.56.

The British steamer Queen Elizabeth, now loading for Melbourne, shifted last night from the St. Johns city dock to the North Pacific mills.

Laden with general freight, the steamer Rochelle, Captain Nelson, arrived at Oak street from San Francisco at 5 o'clock this morning.

NEW ENGLAND TO ELECT 4 SENATORS

Makeup of Former Delegation, 10 Republicans, 2 Democrats, May Be Changed.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 21.—Within the next few weeks four New England states—Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Rhode Island—will be called upon to elect United States senators. In at least three of the states the situation is uncertain, and the question as to whether the elections will change the makeup of the New England delegation in the upper house, which now stands 10 Republicans and two Democrats is becoming a matter of increasing interest.

When the Maine legislature meets the first of next month former Congressman Edwin C. Burleigh, who represented the Third Maine district in the house for 14 years, will have the support of the Republican members for the seat in the United States senate now held by Obadiah Gardner, Democrat. Mr. Burleigh won the senatorial preference primary last June, and when the September election gave the Republicans 16 majority in the legislature on a joint ballot, his success seemed assured. But a thorn appeared in Mr. Burleigh's path as a result of the presidential election in November, when President Taft carried only nine representative districts in Maine, while Colonel Roosevelt carried 69. It is now admitted that the Progressives hold the balance of power in the legislature. As they are not over enthusiastic about electing a standpat Republican to the senate it is difficult to foretell just how the contest may end.

Margin Is Small.

A similar condition of affairs exists in New Hampshire. In the next legislature in the Granite state the Republican party will have a margin of only one or two members. The Progressives claim to hold the balance of power, leaving the result in doubt. The Progressives, who claim to hold 41 of the Republican members, are pledged to act independently on the senatorship. The avowed Republican candidates for the toga now worn by Senator Burnham are former Governor Henry B. Quinby and R. W. Pillsbury, publisher of the Manchester Union, and the Democratic candidates, Henry F. Hollis and Clarence W. Carr. Governor Robert R. Bass is a receptive Progressive candidate.

In Massachusetts the Republicans will have a majority of about 40 on joint ballot and presumably only a Republican will be chosen to succeed Senator Murray Crane. But just who that Republican will be nobody seems to know at the present time. With half a dozen candidates in the race, representing a wide range of political views, the ultimate choice naturally becomes a matter of great uncertainty. The active candidates are former Governor Eben S. Draper, Representatives Samuel M. McCaull and John W. Weeks and William Plunkett, the latter representing himself as the choice of western Massachusetts. In addition to these, the names of Curtis Guild, Jr., former governor and at present United States ambassador to Russia; Robert Luce, the present lieutenant governor, and Joseph Walker, former speaker of the general assembly and recently the unsuccessful Republican candidate for the governorship, are mentioned in connection with the senatorship. Ambassador Guild, especially, is regarded as a strong possibility and it is the opinion of many well informed politicians that he stands an excellent chance of success in the event of a prolonged contest.

Judge Colt to Run.

The senatorial contest in Rhode Island is the least complex. The Republicans will have a substantial majority on a joint ballot, and the selection of a Republican to succeed George P. Wetmore is assured. Senator Wetmore announced more than a year ago that he would not be a candidate for another term. Virtually the only candidate mentioned to succeed him is Judge Le Baron B. Colt of Bristol, who contested the last senatorial election with Henry B. Lippitt. Judge Colt belongs to one of the oldest and most prominent families of Rhode Island and has a record of more than 30 years' service on the bench. He is a brother of Colonel Samuel Pomeroy Colt, the millionaire president of the United States Rubber company, who was one of the three principals in the great senatorial deadlock in Rhode Island five years ago, when 81 ballots were taken in an unsuccessful effort to elect a United States senator.

SUIT FOR $10, AFTER LONG DELAY FINALLY SETTLED AT CARDS

After it had dragged through the courts for a year, a civil suit involving just $10 was settled in Justice Bell's court Thursday afternoon by the turn of the cards in a game of "pitch."

Charles Pottage, an engineer, had a claim against Fred McDaniel, Spanish war veteran and former member of the city fire department. He assigned it to a collection agency in whose name the suit was brought. The agency had garnisheed McDaniels' wages, and Seneca Fouts, his attorney, also a Spanish war veteran, released the wages by putting up a bond of $25.

For more than two hours Thursday attorneys and principals waited impatiently on another case. Then, exasperated, Fouts said to Pottage:

"I'll flip half dollars for that $10."

"I'll play you a game of cards for it," said Pottage. Fouts agreed. Pottage put up a quarter to buy the cards, and with Constable Weinberger for referee, they played for 11 points. Pottage won, took his $10 out of the bond, and Fouts moved to dismiss the suit.

"Maybe it's a little irregular," said Justice Bell, "but probably justice was served as well as if I had decided it."

Gives City $100,000; Fools Heirs.

Los Angeles, Dec. 21.—Colonel Griffith J. Griffith, donor of Griffith Park, Los Angeles, appeared before the city council today and announced a further gift of $100,000, to erect a popular observatory on Mount Hollywood, the highest point in the park bearing his name. The gift was unconditional. It was accompanied by a letter decrying the custom of leaving great wealth to be dissipated in profligacy by heirs and wasted to the profit of judges and lawyers and selfish, parasitical relatives."

NICARAGUANS USE CHURCH AS FORT

Granada House of Worship a Defense From Rebel Bullets During Revolution.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—The old adage anent "turning plowshares into arms" has been reversed in Nicaragua, according to a sidelight on the recent Central American rebellion as told by Assistant Secretary of State Adee.

The Church of San Francisco, at Granada, Nicaragua, where the most fierce fighting of the rebellion occurred when the rebels were routed in a decisive battle, was used as a fort during the year of bloodshed there. This church was one of the oldest in the ancient city of Granada. It was abandoned by its priests and acolytes, and its nave turned into a barrier against rebel bullets.

The clergy are again in possession of the church, their solemn chants replacing the crack of firearms and the whistling of bullets.

Several other small churches in Nicaraguan villages were used at times during the rebellion as fortresses or temporary havens for refugees.

DOG POISONED, THREAT COMES BY TELEPHONE

Sneak thieves who are also dog poisoners are believed to be operating in the neighborhood near the home of W. B. Hollingsworth, deputy sheriff, at 463 Rodney avenue for yesterday morning Mr. Hollingsworth lost a valuable pointer dog and a short time later a neighbor reported the loss of a collie. Dr. A. G. Smith, a veterinary, declared that they were poisoned with strychnine.

The neighborhood has been the victim of petty thievery for more than a year intermittently and especially in the last few days. Never has anyone attempted to steal from Mr. Hollingsworth and it is believed the fact that he kept a dog deterred the thieves. About a year ago Mr. Hollingsworth lost a hound and nearly lost the pointer which was killed yesterday, by the same means.

The dog was well and full of life when turned loose yesterday morning and after Mr. Hollingsworth reached the office Mrs. Hollingsworth telephoned that the dog had been poisoned. Later in the morning Mrs. Hollingsworth was called to the telephone and told by a man with a gruff voice that it was known the dog was dead and that there'd be something doing.

ARMY OBSERVES NEW MARINE LAWS STRICTLY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 21.—How the army is setting an example in strict observance of the new marine laws, prohibiting overloading of big passenger steamers beyond their lifeboat capacity, as a result of the Titanic disaster, is recited by Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff.

"In transporting troops from the Philippines to the United States," said General Wood, "we recently had a surplus of 200 men over and above the lifeboat capacity of an army transport which was ready to sail. The commanding general wired for a special dispensation to permit the departure of the extra passengers, but we refused point blank. We intend that not one person more than can be accommodated in lifeboats shall be carried on any army transport."
