BIG SHOW SLABSTERS OUTCLASS PLAYERS IN OTHER POSITIONS

Shortstoppers Only Pastimers to Come Near Veterans of Hurling Department.

Strange as it may seem, the pitchers in the big leagues last a lot longer than the catchers, infielders or outfielders.

It was a pitcher, Cy Young, who became a veteran of veterans, whereas such old timers as Powell, Mathewson, Mullin and Plank are still in the game. Nor are Wiltse, Bender, Moore, Pelty, Hughes and White in the spring chicken class. Behind the bat no such list of veterans can be found doing duty, though Kling, Bresnahan and Doolin have been at it a good while. The backstop position has produced several veterans who were veterans indeed, such as McGuire, Farrell, Criger, Sullivan and, in the old days, Flint. However trying the position may be, these men stood up under it much longer than the general run of players.

With Harry Davis, Tenney and Chance out of it there are no real veterans playing first base. Look at the big league list: Merkle, Luderus, Daubert, Hoblitzel, Miller, Konetchy, Saier, Chase, Stahl, Gandil, McInnes, Johnston and Stovall—all comparatively youngsters. Second base, too, is held down mostly by young players — Doyle, Yerkes, Rath and Pratt. E. Collins and Laporte cannot be called old timers. Hughes and Lajoie are the veterans of the lot.

At short the veterans are more prominent—Heine and Honus Wagner, Tinker, Wallace, McBride and Bridwell. McMillan and Doolan are well seasoned. Barry and Bush are not exactly newcomers, just betwixt and between. Fletcher, Fisher, Hauser, Chapman and Weaver represent the younger element. This position runs more to long service than the others.

Turner is a player of long service at third, albeit most of his time has been put in at short, and Byrne, Devlin and Lobert have been on hand some time. Herzog hasn't played long enough to be called an old timer, neither have Baker, Gardner, Mowrey or Morarity. Smith, Whelan, Austin, Dolan, Zimmerman, Mitkiff and Foster have, in the natural course of events, most of their career ahead of them.

When Fred Clarke quit active playing the ranks of the veteran outfielders were thinned out. Leach is still left in the veteran class, as are Crawford, Sheckard, Murray, Titus, S. Magee, Mitchell, McIntyre, Schulte, Wilson, D. Murphy and Donlon have been around a considerable length of time. As for Snodgrass, Devore, L. Magee, Oakes, Ellis, Evans, Carey, Wheat, Morgan, Northern, Campbell, Jackson, Paskert, Murphy, Beacher, Milan, Oldring, Strunk, Shanks, Ryan, Graney, Birmingham, Cree, Daniels, Speaker, Lewis, Hooper, Cobb and several others, none dates back so far that he oughtn't to have a goodly part of his career ahead of him.

Northwest Schedule Sunday.

The Northwestern league baseball schedule will be released for publication next Sunday, according to present plans of President Fielder A. Jones. The schedule is not nearly so involved this year, owing to the cutting out of the "split series." Jones is one executive who believes in getting the schedule off his hands as soon as possible.

Umpires Are "Holdouts."

Two of the Jones umpires are "holdouts." Just like Ty Cobb and Joe Jackson and Rube Marquard, they want more money next year. These umpires have nerve, if not discretion. There are 200 names on file for the three opsitions in the Northwest league. Yesterday Fielder received letters from Hughey Jennings and Jake Stahl recommending good arbitrators.

Walter Doane Getting Heavier.

One young Beaver star who is aching to get back to chasing flies and clicking off base hits is Walter Doane, the fastest man down to first in the Coast league. The "Rabbit" says he never felt better in his life, and has taken on a good deal of weight during the winter, something unusual for one of his slender physique. Walter's chief exercise these days is furnishing motive power for a handsome perambulator containing a wee bit of femininity.

Arlie Latham, the former big leaguer and coach of the New York Giants, is looking for a job as umpire during the coming season.

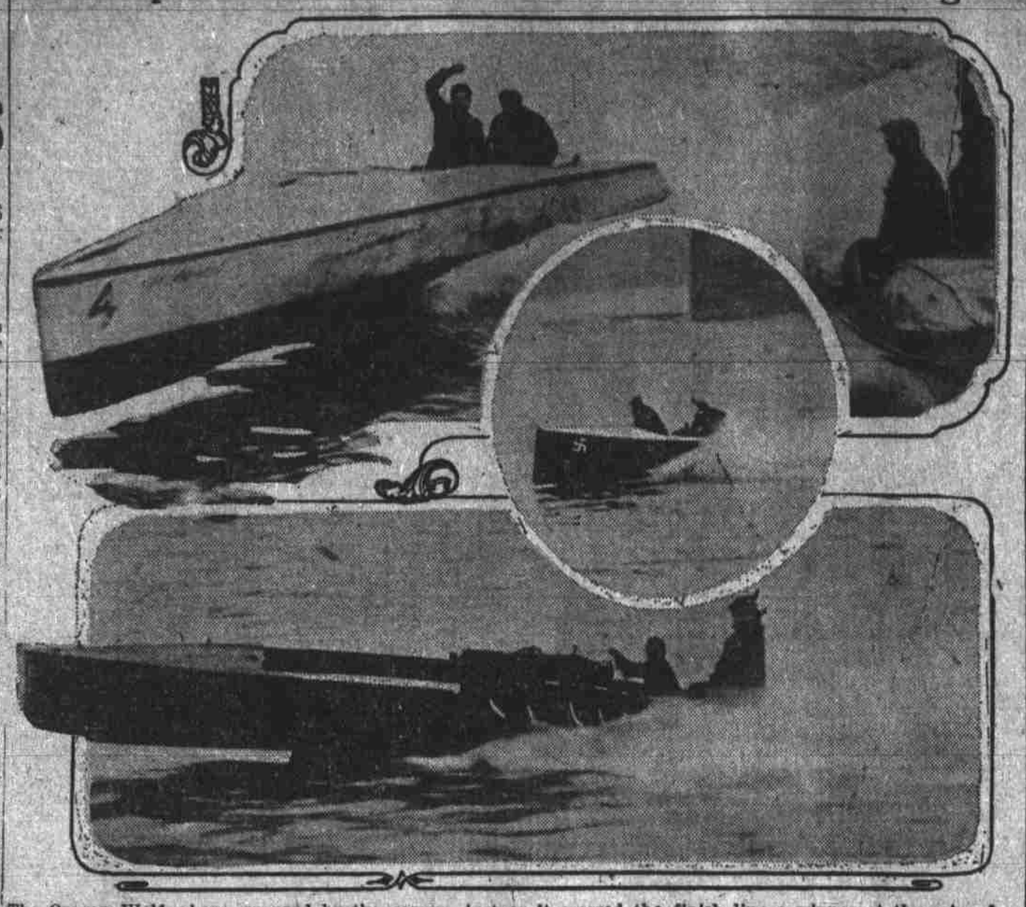
Three Speed Boats Which Took Part in Midwinter Regatta



The Oregon Wolf, above, snapped by the camera just as it crossed the finish line a winner at the rate of 42.5 miles per hour. In the center is the Swastika and below the Vamoose, which struck some driftwood and nearly sank before it was rushed to the boathouse.

Skimming over the rough surface of the Williamette yesterday afternoon at the speed of 42.5 miles per hour, the Oregon Wolf, free-for-all champion of the Pacific coast, successfully defended its title against the Vamoose of Rainier, Or., and the Swastika. Johnny Wolff's famous craft, which was equipped with a new plane, made the 20 mile course in 28 minutes 14½ seconds.

The Swastika, owned by R. F. Cox, second in the free-for-all event, was easily winner in the 20-foot hydroplane race of 10 miles, with Vogler's Boy second.

Milton Smith, owner of the Vamoose, was again the victim of a "gynx." In turning the upper buoy, on the third lap, the Rainier craft struck a piece of driftwood and tore a board off the bottom. The Rainier pilot guided his speeder to his boat house, which was moored at the foot of Columbia street, and ran full speed into it, fearing that if delayed the boat would sink. As it was, the stern of thec raft was entirely under water and Smith was forced to stand up to steer. After getting it out of the water and patched up Smith started for Rainier in tow of the Agnes.

Start Was Pretty.

The start of the free-for-all race for a $500 side bet was the prettiest ever witnessed in the harbor. The three boats came down from the Hawthorne bridge in perfect alignment. Wolff by clever jockeying managed to hold even with the other two entrants. The Swastika shot forward, but as the boats passed under the Morrison bridge, the Wolf forged to the front and was 18 seconds in the lead on the first lap. The Swastika, which had engine trouble when rounding the lower buoy, was one minute and three seconds behind the Wolf.

Johnny Wolff did not force his engine at all in the second lap and when he passed the flagship he was the target for a thousand cheers. The Wolf's time for two laps was 14 minutes and 51 seconds. At this point of the race he was nearly one minute ahead of the Vamoose, The Swastika gained 12 seconds on the Vamoose in the second lap.

No sooner had the sound of the Swastika's engine passed out of hearing than the Wolf hove into sight again on the third lap, fully a mile and a half ahead of the Swastika. The Wolf, under the skilful guidance of Orth Mathoit, made a pretty turn at the upper buoy and shot past the flagship on the last lap amid another volley of appplause and boat-whistling. The Vamoose at this point was a little over half a mile behind the local boat and after she passed the flagship, the crowd turned to see if the Swastika was in sight. A moment later the muffled reports of the engine of the Vamoose were heard and then it was seen to dart toward its boat house, the stern very low in the water.

Rainier Band Greets Victor.

Four minutes after the Swastika had passed the flagship on its last lap, the Oregon Wolf flashed past the judges, covering the 20 miles in 28 minutes 14½ seconds. As the champion boat of the coast crossed the finish line, the visiting Rainier band played a stirring patriotic air and the hundreds of people that crowded the bridges and docks let loose one mighty cheer.

Soon after the cheering was finished the Swastika was seen bobbing on the surface just this side of the Burnside bridge. It, too, crossed the finish line amid the cheers of the people.

The event was pronounced the greatest ever held on the coast in the middle of winter, and too, despite the drizzling rain and cold.

Johnny Wolff was very much satisfied with the new planes of his boat, but will try to make improvements on them before the next race of the club, which will probably be held Decoration day.

The Swastika did not start with the Vogler's Boy and Spear II in the 20-foot class event, but made up ground and crossed the starting line in the second lap over a mile and a half ahead of the Vogler's Boy. Cox's boat was 1 minute and 42 seconds late at the start and her actual time for the first lap was 7:58, beating its time of the free-for-all event by 19 seconds. The Vogler's Boy finished the first lap in 11:27. Ray Neuberger's Spear II had engine trouble before the end of the third mile and was forced to drop out of the race. The Swastika made the time of 14:36 for the 10 miles, and 7½ minutes later the Vogler's Boy crossed the finish line.

1913 to Be Banner Year.

Commodore Boost was very much pleased with the success of the regatta and predicts that 1913 will be the banner motor craft year of the Pacific coast.

Mayor Rushlight, who was one of the judges, said: "The event was the best I have ever seen and it will be a pleasure to witness more such events during the year."

Fleet Captain Kinnear and Regatta Chairman Meyers were impressed with the large number of people that braved the stormy weather to see the races and predicted that the regattas of 1913 will be attended by more people than ever before.

The officials of yesterday's events were: Judges, Mayor Rushlight, J. H. Stevenson, C. W. Boost and Roscoe Fawcett; starter, L. M. Meyers; timers, C. E. Patterson, Albert Molin, George Kinnear and J. C. Beck; clerk of course, J. L. Searth.

BASKET BALL NOTES

No attempt will be made to secure a team to take the place of the Lents Athletic club, which withdrew from the independent basketball league after suffering a decisive defeat at the hands of the Weonas team Saturday night.

"The Lents team is too light to continue playing in the league," said Manager Bishoff, when asked for a reason for withdrawing his five.

It is likely that the schedule will be rearranged. Tomorrow night, the All-Star quintet will play the Weona team in the Brooklyn Athletic club gymnasium.

(Special to The Journal.)

Woodland, Wash., Jan. 13—The Woodland high school team defeated the Castle Rock high school team in a fine game of basketball Saturday night. The score was 34 to 13 in favor of Woodland. Castle Rock has heretofore been too much for the locals and may have been a little overconfident, but be that as it may both teams strived their utmost to win the game and it was a fine exhibition from the start to the finish. The game was played in the gymnasium, and afterward there was a delightful informal dance in Bozorth's hall.

(Special to The Journal.)

Mount Angel, Or., Jan. 13.—The Mount Angel College Junior quintet won its fifth straight game of the season by taking the fast Woodburn High School team into camp by a score of 29 to 18. The Junction City girls' team defeated the girls from Pleasant Hill by a score of 9 to 7. All of the local scores were on fouls thrown by Miss Helen Ehrman. A reception was given the Pleasant Hill teams after the games.

Fred Reed, former Lincoln basketball star, is playing on the McLoughlin club basketball team of the Independent league.

George Bovet, who played on the Washington football team, is becoming quite an expert in the manly art of self-defense.

Charmalee Boat House Sinks.

The boat house of the Charmalee II, C. V. Copper's handsome runabout, partly sank Saturday night, but did not damage the craft, which was backed out by means of braces, yesterday afternoon.

Jimmy Ryan, who was a star with Cpatain Anson several years ago, is out to land a job as scout for the Chicago Cubs.

Hospital Physician Declares Results

We have a letter from a patient who writes from an adjoining State on the letter head of the local Health Office.

On July 8, 1912, he had the Physician in the local Hospital report on his case of Bright's disease. It showed "albumen abundant" with casts.

He got the consent of the Hospital Physician to take Fulton's Renal Compound.

On Dec. 8, 1912, the same Physician reported the total disappearance of the albumen and casts.

We have both of the reports, signed by the Hospital Physician. Physicians may see them who care to call.

The new approach in kidney disease through an agent that counteracts Renal degeneration is getting results in thousands of cases in which failure has been the rule. It does not conflict with the heart and tonic treatment often given in this disease, but it starts the reaction necessary to recovery, viz., the assimilation of albumen.

There may be a question as to the percentage of chronic cases on the orthodox treatment that recover by adding Fulton's Renal Compound, but if the books are true none of them recover without it. Druggists supplied by Clark-Woodard Drug Co. and Blumauer-Frank Drug Co.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The Progressives defeated the Sunnyside Athletic club basketball team Saturday by the score of 21 to 8. R. Dooley, played a star game at guard for the winners.

The Pirates won the championship of the lightweight section of Council C league by defeating the Spartans by the score of 11 to 3.

The Comets won the championship of the heavyweight section of the Council C league when the Competents forfeited to the Amiciatians yesterday afternoon.

INTERSCHOLASTIC NET SEASON ON TOMORROW

The Interscholastic basketball season will open tomorrow afternoon, when the Hill Military Academy team meets the Lincoln high school quintet in the Portland Academy gymnasium. The Hill lineup will be selected from Olsen and St. Martin forwards, Ellis and Green centers, Robinson, McClellan, Dungen and Smith, guards. The Lincoln lineup will probably be Cudlipp and Lewis, guards; Claren, center; Gage and Greer forwards.

RAY BRONSON MAKING PLANS FOR WORLD TRIPS

Indianapolis Boy May Meet Sommers in England and Others in Australia.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 13.—Ray Bronson, claimant of the welterweight championship, is one of the busiest of American pugilists with three matches staring him in the face during the next 20 days. He meets "Spike" Kelly in an eight round bout at Memphis, January 13, then takes on Hilliard Lang, the Canadian welter title holder, at Indianapolis, January 15, and Tommy Howell for ten rounds at Kansas City, January 22.

Immediately after the first of February, Bronson is planning another trip around the world. He has made tentative arrangements to meet Johnny Sommers, the English welter champion, in London before the National Sporting club for the English championship, and probably will have one or two other battles in England and France before starting to Australia, where he is wanted for three or four bouts.

Snowy Baker, successor to Hugh McIntosh, the Australian fight impresario, has cabled asking Bronson to come to that country for a series of welter title bouts. Bronson made a trip round the world in 1910, and has proved to be a great drawing card in foreign lands.

Nelson Visits "Bonesetter" Reese.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 13.—Insisting that he is as good as in the days when he defeated Joe Gans, Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion, is today en route to Youngstown, Ohio, to see "Bonesetter" Reese, friend of the ballplayers, to have his hands mended.

Nelson's fighting tools were in such shape that he was compelled to cancel several matches.

Asked why he did not retire, Nelson said: "I have got to fight. I need the money, and fighting is the only way I can get it."

Rivers and Cross Finish.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

New York, Jan. 13.—Both Leach Cross, the fighting dentist, and Joe Rivers of Los Angeles finished training today for their 10 round battle before the Empire Athletic club here tomorrow night. The men are reported in excellent shape, and a fast bout is expected.

Watson to Meet White.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 13.—That Red Watson, the Los Angeles lightweight, will have his hands full next Friday night when he meets Herb White of Stockton is the opinion of fight experts here today. This will be a return engagement, the last bout between the men, fought in Stockton a few weeks ago, resulting in a draw.

Johnny O'Leary, the northwestern featherweight, will make his first appearance in San Francisco at the same show, being matched with Manuel Vierra of Oakland.

Other bouts include: Ad Zotta of Stockton vs. Hans Wagner; Louis Rees vs. Ray Campbell, and several others. Nine bouts will be staged.

Madison Square Garden and Grand Central Palace Are Needed for Cars.

(By the International News Service.)

When the show opened at the garden there were 43 exhibitors of pleasure vehicles and 272 accessories concerns who will hold the floor for the first week. At the Grand Central palace, which was used for an overflow exhibition, there were 46 or more exhibitors of pleasure cars, 25 displays of motorcycles and 100 accessory displays.

CAPTAIN SIMMS IS OUT OF IDAHO GAME TODAY

University of Oregon, Eugene, Or., Jan. 13.—Oregon's chances against the University of Idaho for tonight's game were lessened Saturday when it became known that Captain Simms, guard, is out of the game for a week because of a wrenched knee.

The team which will play Idaho will contain the two midgets, Boylen and Brooks. Brooks and Walker will play forwards, Fenton center and Boylen and Bradshaw guards. However, the two new men will be relieved before the end of the game. To Brook's place Fenton will be shifted from center. Bradshaw will go from guard to center, and Briedwell and Gould will become guards.

REALIZING HIS INSANITY, FARMER LEAPS IN WELL

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)

Salem, Or., Jan. 13.—L. G. Hixon, who lived alone on a farm about five miles south of Salem, committed suicide by jumping into a well in which there was 20 feet of water. His body was found yesterday afternoon by neighbors, who had missed him for the last few days and instituted a search.

Coroner Clough found a note left by Hixon in his house, saying that he was insane and that he intended to end his life by jumping into the well. He asked to have Attorney A. A. Sanderson of San Francisco notified.

COMMITTEE WILL NEGOTIATE FOR OPEN RIVER LINE

Dr. Bialock, of Walla Walla, Chairman of the Executive Board; Merchants Anxious to Patronize Line.

(Special to The Journal.)

Pasco, Wash., Jan. 13.—At a well attended meeting of representatives of the commercial bodies of the Columbia and Snake River basins held here Saturday in the rooms of the Pasco Chamber of Commerce, definite action was taken upon the question of the future operation of the open river steamboats.

The discussions brought out the fact that with regular schedules guaranteed and satisfactory rates maintained, the general disposition of merchants in cities tributary to the river lines would be to liberally patronize the boat service. Assurances were also received by the meeting from responsible steamboat men that under encouraging conditions they would be willing to take over the open river fleet and guarantee satisfactory service and rates.

A thorough discussion of the subject took place, and a general committee was authorized to represent the various towns affected by the proposed service, whose duty it shall be to take practical steps for such organization as may be necessary to cooperate with these steamboats in establishing a satisfactory service.

Definite organization was effected by the election of Dr. N. G. Blalock of Walla Walla, chairman, Wallace R. Struble of Lewiston, secretary, and Captain W. P. Gray of Pasco as an executive committee, with power to appoint the general committee above named and carry on negotiations with the Open River Transportation company and the steamboat captains looking to the purchase of the boats of the company.

The executive committee named a portion of the general committee as follows: Walla Walla, W. D. Lyman, Fred W. Kaser; Lewiston, R. C. Beach, R. S. Erb; Kennewick, E. M. Sly; Pasco, E. L. Collins; Pendleton, C. A. Clarke; Umatilla, H. M. Dryer; Arlington, James L. Blackelock; Irrigon, Mr. Wampole; Alderale, Mr. Warner; Clarkston, George W. R. Peaslee; Asotin, J. R. Glover; Prescott, E. S. Leonard; Waitsburg, W. B. Shaefer; Pomeroy, Peter McClung; Attalia, E. S. Bevans; Burbank, C. C. Culp. The remaining members of the committee will be named later.

NEW OFFICERS FOR KLAMATH CHAMBER

(Special to The Journal.)

Klamath Falls, Or., Jan. 13. — The Klamath Chamber of Commerce has elected an entirely new set of officers for the ensuing year. Frank Ira White has been made president and E. B. Hall, vice president. The following were elected directors: S. B. Evans, merchant; Hunter Savidge, lumber dealer; Robert A. Johnson, manager of Klamath Development company; Captain J. W. Siemens, president of First Trust & Savings bank; E. R. Reames, capitalist and former president; W. A. Delzell, accountant; G. H. Feese, Methodist minister; George Walton, local manager of California-Oregon Power company; R. H. Dunbar, superintendent of public schools; L. C. Sisemore, merchant of Fort Klamath; J. Frank Adams, rancher of Merrill; Ernest Hitchcock, physician at Bonanza.

It is planned to elect a new secretary at the first meeting of the board. The general opinion seems to be that some competent man who is not interested in local factional affairs should be employed. Klamath Falls has long been the victim of internal strife. The organization of an unprejudiced commercial body in charge of a capable man not aligned with any of the specific local interests will go a long way towards getting a united sentiment on all public questions.

WOMAN IS ACCUSER OF SECRETARY FISHER

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Washington, Jan. 13.—Hot shot was directed toward Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher and Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana by Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray, who appeared before the senate Indian affairs committee in support of a resolution to investigate alleged abuses at the Crow Indian reservation in Montana.

Mrs. Gray clashed repeatedly with Secretary Fisher, and the lie was frequently passed during her examination. At one point Mrs. Gray accused the secretary of being connected with "one of the biggest land steals in the history of the country."

Fisher angrily leaped to his feet, but Chairman Clark appealed to him to "consider the infirmities of the witness," and the secretary resumed his seat.
