Corrupt Practices Act Made More Stringent by Bill Introduced by Senator Smith in Oregon Legislature.

(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 29.—Sharp teeth will be inserted in the corrupt practices act if a bill introduced today by Senator Smith of Coos county is enacted into law. The first sentence of the bill strikes the keynote when it says:

"No money or other thing of value shall be paid or given and no expenses shall be authorized or paid by or on behalf of any candidate for nomination or election to any public office or position in this state, except only such as are incurred and paid by the candidate in person or by his authorized political agent."

The bill does not restrict the work of party committees, but puts the outlaw sign on all contributions by "friends" of a candidate that are not spent through a party committee or the authorized committee or agent of the candidates.

Expenses of candidates at the primary are to be limited to 15 per cent of the yearly salary of the office, except the charge that may be paid to the state for printing, and a like limit of 15 per cent is placed upon candidates at the general election. No candidate, however, is to be limited to spend less than $200.

The bill also carries provisions against heavy advertising by a candidate in newspapers. If the candidate be engaged in business, publishers are forbidden to accept contracts for advertising space for more than $10 per month, unless, during that time, when any other mention is made of the candidate in the paper, the headline shall state that the candidate named "is an advertiser in this paper." The same statement must be made under like conditions if the candidate owns 10 per cent or more of the stock in any firm advertising in the paper at a cost of more than $10 per month.

The bill carries many other stringent provisions, designed to prevent evasion of the act and to hold the candidates down to the 15 per cent limit. Complete reports are required and severe penalties carried for violations.

COMMITTEE WILL GO TO INSPECT ASYLUM

(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 29.—The senate this morning adopted a concurrent resolution calling for a committee of five senators and seven representatives to make a trip to the Eastern Oregon asylum at Pendleton. The visit is to be made before February 8. Senator Burgess of Umatilla presented the resolution.

Visits to other state institutions are being talked about, and there is likely to be the usual number of such junkets unless a halt is soon called. Two votes were cast against the Burgess resolution.

SECOND TRIAL OF DARROW BEGINS AT LOS ANGELES

about by the defense attorneys because of the alleged bribes becoming known. There have been many delays in the second trial of Darrow and for a long time it was believed by many that on account of his acquittal of the Lockwood charge, the second indictment would never be pressed.

Little New Evidence.
It is admitted by the state that most of the evidence in the Bain case was presented at Darrow's first trial, which resulted in his acquittal on August 17, last.

District Attorney Fredericks consented to postponements for one cause or another, but always adhered to his original statement that he would prosecute Darrow on the second charge.

A brief resume of the Bain case follows:
Robert F. Bain, an aged carpenter and Grand Army veteran, alleged that on October 6, 1911, the day after he had been drawn as a juror in the McNamara trial, Bert H. Franklin, a detective in the employ of Clarence Darrow, came to his cottage in his absence and gave Mrs. Bain $450, with the understanding that $3500 more was forthcoming if the old soldier were accepted as a juror and held out for the acquittal of James B. McNamara. Mrs. Bain admitted that she accepted the money and persuaded her husband to agree to the proposal.

Mrs. Bain's Testimony.
Mrs. Bain testified at the first trial that Franklin used every persuasion at his command to gain his ends, telling her that the McNamara brothers were being persecuted and that a frame-up was being worked to "railroad them to the pen."

Franklin was the state's star witness in the Lockwood case and corroborated Mrs. Bain's testimony in detail. Darrow's closest friends say that he is practically a pauper as a result of expenses incurred in his first trial.

Darrow has held many positions of honor. At one time he was a member of the Illinois legislature and in 1902 was appointed a commissioner to arbitrate the strike of the anthracite coal miners.

Bud Shaw Dismissed.
An indictment charging Bud Shaw with living off the earnings of Thelma Starr, a woman of the underworld, was dismissed by Circuit Judge McGinnis this morning, because the case is practically identical with a former indictment against Shaw charging him with the theft of $700 and a diamond ring from the woman. Judge McGinnis stated that the fact that Shaw's mother would appear as a witness for her son made it impossible to convict. The mother made one of the best witnesses that has appeared before Judge McGinnis.

Deputy District Attorney Collier concurred in the opinion of the court.

BILL TO INQUIRE INTO WATER POWER

Senator McCulloch Would Have State Investigate
Power Possibilities.

(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 29.—Cooperation by the state with the national government in making thorough surveys and investigation of the water resources of the state is contemplated in a bill to be introduced in the senate today by McCulloch of Baker, one particular object in view being detailed estimates on the development of water power on the Deschutes river.

The state engineer is authorized by the bill to withdraw from private application any water which may be needed for projects under investigation. If the engineer is determined as feasible, he shall continue to withhold the right of appropriation until the money spent in the investigation is repaid to the co-operating parties in proportion to the amount contributed by each.

An appropriation of $50,000 is provided for the purposes of the act, contingent on equal expenditure by the federal government. The purpose of the bill is general, and the fund provided is to be on the "revolving" principle, so that money returned to the state engineer will again go into the fund.

State Engineer Lewis regards this bill of the highest importance, as it will make possible the investigation of power production in such instances as Benham Falls, on the Deschutes, which is expected to furnish power for four large irrigation projects, and is sufficiently flexible to permit data to be gathered anywhere in the state.

MEASURE HITS AT "PAVING TRUST"

Carpenter Would Provide Open Competition on the Patented Materials.

(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 29.—A hard blow is aimed at the so-called "paving trust" in Oregon by a bill to be introduced in the house this afternoon by Representative Carpenter.

Carpenter, who has given careful study to the paving problem for several weeks, proposes a law designed to break the power of the big paving companies and to forward real competition for paving contracts by prohibiting the use of any patented or trademarked preparation made by secret process, except under certain rigid conditions.

To this end it is declared in the bill to be unlawful for the officials of any city, town or county to include in their specifications for any paving contract any patented preparation unless the firm controlling the patent shall file a signed agreement to permit all persons, firms and corporations desiring to do so the right to use their brand of pavement, and waiving all claims for infringement or damages.

The penalty for officials violating the law is fixed at $500 to $2000, or not to exceed 1000 days in the penitentiary, or both.

"I think this bill will bring the paving baron to time," says Carpenter. "At present they control the patented preparations and charge accordingly. There are plenty of good pavements on the market that are not under patent. This bill will bring about free and open competition, and if the paving plants in the business it will have to bid on a competitive basis."

CUPID WINS WOMAN MAIL CARRIER FROM JOB

Miss Hildagard Butts, Portland's only woman mail carrier, and one of the few of her sex who hold mail delivery positions in the United States, has filed her resignation with Uncle Sam, and today for the last time is driving her pony and cart up the Barnes road over the heights and into Washington county to the northwest on her rural delivery route. She is to be married some day this week to Henry Platts.

Miss Butts, a hardy country girl of 18 years, took up the rural mail route, the only one out of the main Portland office, over a year ago. Her father had worked the route for years, but he resigned and another man took his place. This fellow did not last long, and Miss Butts applied for his position, and after passing the examination appointed her father's substitute. Most of the time she delivered her mail in a cart, but when the roads were too bad she rode horseback.

A recent ruling was made by Postmaster General E. H. Hitchcock that no more women shall be appointed to mail delivery positions.

As usual with the women who take up this work, Miss Butts' services were highly satisfactory, and postal officials were extremely sorry to lose her, as the position is a hard one and to secure a new man who is competent and willing to hold the job is a difficult proposition. Miss Butts resides with her parents on the Barnes road, near Mount Calvary cemetery.

MORROW BACK FROM TRIP TO CALIFORNIA

Presiding Judge Morrow of the circuit court returned from California and took up the business of his court this morning. A long list of motions awaited his return and he is disposing of these rapidly. He expects to complete hearing them by tomorrow afternoon. Judge Morrow was a member of the Royal Rosarian excursion which left Portland December 28, last, but remained in California after the return of the excursion. He announced that he would sentence H. L. Rowe, a member of the vice-squads clique who pleaded guilty to an indictment on charges arising from the exposure about two months ago, as soon as he had examined the evidence against him. Rowe is said to be in the east at present. He was released under $2000 bonds.

Thornton Named Administrator.
J. C. Thornton was appointed administrator of the estate of Carrie T. Gallien, whose death occurred January 14, by Probate Judge C. E. Brown this morning. The estate is valued at $20,000 and is left to three children.

SUBSTITUTE FOR VETOED MEASURE WILL PRECEDE IT

Bill by Representative Weeks of Marion Remedies Defects in Senator Wood's Emergency Board Act.

(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 29.—When the fight over a bill that the senate passed over Governor West's veto last week reaches the house, there will already have been introduced there a bill intended as a substitute for the one on which the hardest battle waged.

The senator Wood's bill, senate bill No. 123, authorizing an emergency board to create deficiencies in state institutions. The substitute measure "which is understood to overcome the objections of the governor to the other measure, is expected to be introduced in the house this afternoon by Representative Weeks of Marion.

Briefly, the bill differs from Wood's bill in these respects:
It gives the secretary of state power to draw warrants for any deficiency, as authorized by the emergency board, not in excess of any lawful appropriation; the Wood's senate bill 127 made it unlawful for the secretary of state to draw any warrant for a deficiency.

It provides authority for the issuance of certificates of indebtedness; this the Wood bill did not do, for though it said that a deficiency may be created, it was defective in not providing how.

It provides that the members of the emergency board shall be paid for their actual necessary traveling expenses, in performance of their duties, not to exceed $50. The Wood bill made no provision for expenses of the board which would thus by its own meetings have created a deficiency.

It provides for deficiencies in all departments of the state government, including the conduct of any of the offices, departments, boards, commissions, institutions and other agencies of the state; the Wood bill provided only for deficiencies in appropriations for institutions.

Both bills give the board the same membership: The governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, speaker of the house, president of the senate and chairman of the two ways and means committees. Deficiencies may be authorized by vote of five of the seven members.

DEADLOCK IN IDAHO IS STILL UNBROKEN

(Special to The Journal.)
Boise, Idaho, Jan. 29.—Although five ballots were taken in joint assembly today, the senatorial deadlock was not broken and support of neither of the leading candidates, Chief Justice Ailshe and ex-Governor Brady, showed signs of weakening.

Ailshe and Brady alternately lead on ballots. On the last the vote was Ailshe 34, Brady 32.

JUNKETING TRIP ABANDONED—TOO SNOWY, IT'S SAID

eral and two lawyers was submitted to the judiciary committee today. This is said to be the first time the supporters of the plan expressly asked that it be sent through direct and not sidetracked to a committee.

An effort to solve the time-honored problem of "what is a egg fresh?" was made today by Senator Fairchild of King county, when he introduced a bill designating the labels under which eggs may be sold in this state.

Fairchild's idea is to label all eggs not over a week old as "strictly fresh." If you can't tell them by that time change them over to the next box bearing the tag "local ranch."

People in the egg business who buy up large lots in the summer time and put them on ice must label the product "cold storage." All eggs from back east are to bear the title "eastern."

Socialist Member Is Busy.
(United Press Leased Wire.)
Olympia, Wash., Jan. 29.—Elimination of the water rate of retail stores by Representative W. H. Kingery, lone Socialist member of the legislature here, and he practices what he preaches, for he has not wasted a minute of his own time or the legislature's time since it opened.

Kingery has listened to all arguments, read all bills and voted on every measure or resolution according to his own convictions, but he has not made a speech.

"What's the use of wasting the time?" said Kingery. "It costs $3 a minute to run this legislature, and as I can't hope to get any Socialist legislation passed I won't talk until I have something to say that is worth that much money. I may get a resolution later asking for a commission to investigate the present wasteful system of distribution. Too many middlemen and not enough producers."

"Six Socialists here in Olympia and only work for one. Lots of retail stores and no patrons half the time. All waste. Eliminate this system and you remove poverty."

Ask West to Aid Bills.
Olympia, Wash., Jan. 29.—Seeking aid in his fight to abolish capital punishment in Washington, Representative Frank Goss today sent an invitation to Governor Oswald West of Oregon to address the legislature here in support of the former's bills abolishing the death penalty.

The Goss bills, which were introduced before the house today, provide for life imprisonment instead of death as the punishment for first degree murder and treason, and contain a clause limiting the power of the governor to pardon persons convicted of these crimes.

Warden Reed, of the state penitentiary, is a supporter of these bills.

Multnomah Delegates Organized.
(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 29.—Members of the Multnomah legislative delegation held a meeting at noon today and organized by electing Senator Gus C. Moser, chairman and Representative Jay H. Upton, secretary. The delegation will consider legislation of particular interest to Multnomah county.

Machinery Company Incorporates.
Articles of incorporation of the Western Farquhar Machinery company were filed with County Clerk Coffey this morning. The capital is placed at $50,000 and the incorporators were H. F. Gooding and U. D. and D. A. Maxon.

FEDERATION SPLIT ON COMPENSATION?

Measure Is Expected to Be
Storm Center of Salem Convention.

(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 29.—That the workmen's compensation measure, now before the legislature, will be the storm center of the State Federation of Labor in session here, is the prediction of many labor delegates.

It is asserted that the line-up will be the delegates from a few of the largest and strongest unions in Portland against delegates from the smaller unions, who approve of the measure on the ground that it is a particular protection to the smaller man who has not the backing of the stronger organization, when it comes to court litigation.

Information comes from those who appear to be on the inside of the situation that the strong Carpenters' union, in particular, of Portland will oppose any move to have the federation endorse the compensation bill. In fact, they will go stronger and will endeavor to get the federation to go on record as opposed to the bill. While many of the smaller union representatives will fight desperately in support of the measure.

This afternoon at the hearing before the legislative committee on the measure the federation will be strongly represented.

The federation held its opening session this morning with President Will Daily presiding. After addresses of welcome by Governor West and Mayor Steves, committees on organization and order of business were appointed.

ROOFS COLLAPSING FROM HEAVY SNOW

Gangs of Shovelers Busy on Buildings in Many Washington Towns.

(Special to The Journal.)
Ellensburg, Wash., Jan. 29.—Snow is falling fast at Ellensburg today. The railroad has 150 men busy keeping sidings open at that point. They have to pick snow out of switches and frogs at least once an hour to keep the line open.

Rotaries are kept constantly busy ahead of all trains.

The snow is so heavy that roofs at Easton, Clelum, South Clelum and Roslyn are caving in.

The roof of the Moose lodge hall at Clelum fell in Saturday night, causing heavy damage. The lodge hall is ruined.

The roof of barber shop at Roslyn fell in yesterday and a barn collapsed at South Clelum last night. Snow is still falling in all mountain towns.

Danger from the heavy snow has become so great that gangs of men are working shoveling snow off the roofs. The snow is estimated to weigh 30 pounds to the cubic foot, and with it averaging from four to five feet deep on the roofs average 120 to 150 pounds to the square foot of surface, more than the buildings are capable of holding.

At Easton the snow is from eight to ten feet deep. Trains are holding fairly well to their schedules, but a phone message from Easton estimates that snow will fall for at least two or three days from the present indications, which would probably blockade traffic again.

"There's a Reason" why many of the conventions which will come to Portland in 1913 have chosen the Imperial as their headquarters.

HE WAS FIRST TO FIND OREGON GOLD

David S. Littlefield, One of Famous Party, Dies at Baker.

(Special to The Journal.)
Baker, Or., Jan. 29.—David S. Littlefield, 81 years old, the last surviving member of the party that discovered gold in eastern Oregon in 1861; died here last night after a short illness.

He was a pioneer of this section of the country. Born in Maine, he lived here upward of 50 years, moving to Baker from Auburn, Wash.

While being a member of the historic party, Littlefield went into placer mining, a few years with varying success, then followed ranching. He retired a few years ago well-to-do.

Littlefield came to eastern Oregon from California, making the trip around Cape Horn in the gold rush days. With Henry Griffin and others, in 1861 he was engaged in a search for the famous Blue-Butte diggings, told of by followers of the old Fremont trail.

The reputed rich ground was never found, but Littlefield, while prospecting, opened up a very rich placer ground in a ravine afterward named Griffin's gulch, in honor of the leader of the party.

He was one of the best known characters in eastern Oregon. He was always traveling about when his health permitted, and was everybody's friend. He was twice married, being survived by the second wife and five children. Funeral will be held here tomorrow.

LA FOLLETTE DEFIES "PRIVILEGE" SENATORS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—Shaking his fist under the noses of Senators Henry Cabot Lodge and Elihu Root whom he denounced as "gentlemen who are defending plutocracy against every popular encroachment," Senator Robert M. La Follette forced the senate leaders this afternoon to drop their attempt to pass what he called the "joker immigration bill," which already has passed the house.

La Follette's attack, which was dramatic in the extreme, followed protests read by Senators O'Gorman and Stone, which originated with Jewish societies against the adoption of the conference report on the Dillingham-Burnett immigration bill because the conferees inserted in that measure a provision requiring that aliens, as a prerequisite to their admission produce "character certificates" issued by their native governments.

AUTO BANDIT KILLS CHICAGO DETECTIVE

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Chicago, Jan. 29.—Detective Peter Hart was shot and instantly killed here this afternoon by an automobile bandit whom he tried to arrest at a flat on the south side. The robber wrested Hart's revolver from his hand, shot him with it and escaped.

Hart and Detectives Boyer and Mettall had gone to the flat on information given by James Berry, who confessed to being one of the automobile bandits recently terrorizing Chicago.
