

Events in Society

It is imperative that those contributing news for the Sunday society pages should have it ready by the deadline, which is 10 o'clock on Friday. News is always welcome and those who have affairs early in the week would confer a great favor by sending their reports in as soon after as possible.

THE winter exodus is alarming to our social activities as the south with the canal for an added attraction is alluring. One point we have in our favor now, however, is as hard to leave without walking, and though it is still as fashionable as ever, the present weather conditions are more conducive to snowshoeing.

Mrs. Guy Webster Talbot Hostess.

Blue Monday opens a fairly promising week for "society." This evening Mrs. Guy Webster Talbot is giving an informal dancing party at her home in honor of Miss Isabelle Tyson, who is Miss Claire Wilcox's charming house guest.

Three Charming Visitors.

Three more interesting visitors than Miss Tyson, Miss Beulah Loomis and Miss Beatrice Nickel (the latter will arrive from San Francisco tomorrow), would be hard to find. The week is filled with affairs in their honor.

Tuesday evening a dinner dance will be given at the Golf club in their honor by a group of young men. The list includes: Mrs. David T. Hoxeyman and Mrs. Antoine Labbe, chaperones; Miss Claire Wilcox, Miss Isabelle Tyson, Miss Anita Burns, Miss Louise Burns, Miss Polly Young, Miss Evelyn Carey, Miss Beatrice Nickel, Miss Beulah Loomis, Miss Marie MacMaster, Miss Katharine Hart, Miss Jean MacKenzie, Miss Barbara MacKenzie, Miss Jean Morrison, David T. Hoxeyman, Antoine Labbe, Frank Stewart, Phillip Frye, Morris B. Crumpacker, Joseph Ferguson, Lester Hodson, Charles Holbrook, Dunbar Cass, James Maitland, Frederick Foster, Hamilton Corbett, Max Snow, Irving Webster, Roderick Macleay, Fritz Behrends, Jordan Zan and Kurt Koehler.

Mrs. Corbett Plans Trip.

Mrs. Henry L. Corbett is planning to leave the last of the month with Mr. Corbett for an extended sojourn in the canal zone.

Bridge for Mrs. Jarvis.

Mrs. Arthur L. Fish has issued invitations for bridge Friday afternoon. The guest of honor is Mrs. C. F. Jarvis.

Mrs. Goslinky Entertains.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bauer were dinner hosts Saturday evening for Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Goslinky. Who are the guests of Mrs. Goslinky's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. I. N. Fleischer. This week a number of small informal luncheons and dinners will be given for Mrs. Goslinky. Mr. Goslinky will leave tomorrow for a trip of about three weeks' duration on the sound and in the northwestern states.

Mrs. Dougherty in Panama.

Mrs. James A. Dougherty is enjoying an extended visit in Panama with her

Stealing From the Family Firm

By Edna K. Wooley.

"We hear a good deal about men being close with their wives in money matters," said the doctor, "and I'm not saying that a good many men are pretty mean along that line. I know some men that would rather have their wives suffer tortures than go to a doctor, because of the doctor's bill. I could name one man not a thousand miles from here who was so 'close' that he wouldn't allow his wife a doctor for years, and the poor woman suffered until she became actually helpless. Then at last I was called to attend her and the husband tried to make a dicker with me—a sort of contract that I'd treat her for a certain sum of money, no matter how long she might live, and I was the winner. Hum-m-m! You'd think that doctor and dentist bills would be the last thing a man would kick on, but I could tell you things—I could tell you things!"

"But recently I've had a case that worked the other way around," said the doctor. "The woman came to my office pretty well dressed, she had a little girl with her. The child had a broken collar bone."

"Before the mother would let me do anything for the girl she began to bargain about my price."

"I haven't any money," she said. "I simply can't afford to pay much. I just want you to see what's the matter with her and get her in shape and then I'll go to one of the free dispensaries for the rest of her treatment."

"Well, I looked the woman over, and she looked pretty prosperous, and I told her so; also told her that the dispensary would make inquiries about her to find out if her financial circumstances warranted free treatment for the child. Meanwhile I took the child in hand and made her more comfortable."

"The mother continued to harp on the poverty line and seemed to have no sympathy for the child. Finally she told me that her husband was the little girl's stepfather and simply wouldn't pay out anything for the child. She left saying that she would bring the money for my bill the following day."

"But she didn't appear again. After waiting a couple of days I called at the house to see how the child was getting on. "It just happened that I met the stepfather at the door as I went in. When he heard that I was the doctor he stopped to talk a while and I was surprised to see that he was anxious about the child and seemed far more sympathetic toward her than the mother had been. "I discovered that he did not know this was my first case and that he was willing to spend anything necessary to put the child in good condition. In fact his wife had told him that she had paid me for each call and he had given her the money for it—which money I never saw, by the way. I found it out when he sent my bill in later. The man paid me, but not until there was a holy fowl at home."

"You see, the woman had been working him in several ways to buy the kind of clothes she wanted, and she hadn't been found out until there were explanations about my bill."

Women's Clubs

Tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the committee room of the Women of Woodcraft hall there will be a meeting of the home economics department of the Women's club. Mrs. J. G. Spencer will give the first talk of the course on "Primitive Woman's Part in the Home Making."

WOMAN HAD FAITH IN STRANGER'S HONESTY AND WON AS A RESULT

In the largest business deal or the smallest transaction the element of trust invariably enters. And in the everyday activities of bargain and trade faith in honesty of others virtually replaces written contracts.

This condition would not exist save for the fact that the overwhelming majority of people is honest. A bond of faith extends around the world, binding alike friends and strangers.

A few days ago Mrs. Oscar Steeg of 713 Vancouver avenue lost a gold watch. The advertisement she inserted in the "Lost and Found" column of The Journal, seeking its return, was an appeal to the honesty of humankind.

Nor was this faith misplaced. The timepiece was picked up by I. C. Cruise, a locomotive engineer, residing at 713 Commercial street. He looked for her ad in The Journal and it turned the watch over to this newspaper.

The Journal publishes lost and found ads free, with the understanding that the loser shall pay for the ad only in case the lost article is recovered.

father, Timothy Kinney, of Salt Lake, and her small son, Jack Dougherty. They will not return for two months.

Anniversary Party.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Holman have asked a number of friends for the evening of January 21, when they will celebrate their wedding anniversary.

Miss Strauss Motif for Bridge.

Friday afternoon Mrs. S. W. Ottenheimer had three tables at bridge for Miss Edna Strauss, a popular San Francisco visitor. The house was attractively decked in ferns and cut flowers. The prizes at cards went to Miss Sadie Delovage, Miss Florence Kohn and Miss Sarah Harris. Following the card game a number of ladies called for tea.

Chi Omegas Feted.

Mrs. Hazel Bean-Bristow will be hostess tomorrow afternoon in compliment to her sorority, the members of the Chi Omega from the University of Oregon. There will be five tables at "500."

Mrs. F. M. Sells Hostess.

Cards have been received for a bridge party to be given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Frederick M. Sells for Miss Edna Strauss of San Francisco who is the guest of Mrs. Henry Ottenheimer.

Miss Baker Entertains.

Last Friday afternoon Miss Marie Baker was hostess at a box party to a number of her sorority sisters of the Omega Nu sorority at the Baker theatre to see "The Virginian."

Society Notes.

Mrs. C. E. Jarvis of Oakland, Cal., arrived yesterday. She is the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Arthur L. Fish.

Miss Hildreth Humason is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Wendel Poulsen, in Hood River.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Holman left Saturday evening for San Francisco where they will visit Mrs. Holman's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shumate. They plan to be away about three weeks.

Miss Hazel Dolph will leave today for a visit with Miss Marguerite A. Turneine in Seattle. Miss Dolph's charming personality has won for her hosts of admiring friends in the sound city, where she has been a frequent visitor as well as a hostess. Her presence will doubtless be the inspiration for extensive entertaining.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lewis were dinner hosts last week. Their guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Thorne Robertson, Miss Sallie Lewis and Hugh Hume.

house to see how the child was getting on. "It just happened that I met the stepfather at the door as I went in. When he heard that I was the doctor he stopped to talk a while and I was surprised to see that he was anxious about the child and seemed far more sympathetic toward her than the mother had been. "I discovered that he did not know this was my first case and that he was willing to spend anything necessary to put the child in good condition. In fact his wife had told him that she had paid me for each call and he had given her the money for it—which money I never saw, by the way. I found it out when he sent my bill in later. The man paid me, but not until there was a holy fowl at home."

"You see, the woman had been working him in several ways to buy the kind of clothes she wanted, and she hadn't been found out until there were explanations about my bill."

PLAY IS DRAMATIC STORY OF SLUMS

"Salvation Nell," With Cast of 40 Characters, Presents a Great Picture.

A play of shudders and tears, magnificently equipped scenically, with a cast of 40 characters is the offering at the Baker theatre for the current week. "Salvation Nell" is a story of the slums, a kaleidoscopic picture of life in the lowest human strata. People of this class of society love and hate with whole hearted intensity. In the dark ways of the tenements there are no inconsequent emotions, no "pink tea" veneer.

Through all the brutality and sordidness of the three acts the drama is saved from its own too vivid realism by the idealistic love of Nell Sanders for her man—the powerful brute who sweeps her aside with a blow of the fist when she seeks to deter him from committing his last burglary. How the martyr-like devotion of the woman finally accomplishes a miracle and reclaims the hardened Jim Platt is the main thread of the play.

Little Mayo Methow, who will be remembered by Baker patrons as the little girl who was rescued from the safety deposit vault in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," has returned to Portland after a triumphant road tour and this week plays the part of "Jimmy" Sanders. She was given a great hand when she made her first appearance yesterday on the Baker stage.

The first act shows Nell Sanders on her round of the saloons which employ her services as "swampy." The last shows her laboring for the uplift of the lowly, in the garb of a woman of the Salvation Army.

Between the two periods in her life a space of some years elapses while Jim Sanders serves a term in prison. The scenes between times are plentifully filled with action in which the two score characters of the play portray the pictures of the slum life. The police courts of the great cities, Alice Fleming, in the leading role—one which she plays with such finish as to typify exemplify the hypnotic influence of the strong over the weak—the call of strength, as shown in her unquenchable love for her master, "Salvation Nell," will be the attraction at the Baker all the rest of the week.

Personal Mention

Captain and Mrs. H. H. Roberts of Big Eddy, Or., are guests at the Corneliuss.

H. J. Coker, a prominent evangelist of Denver, is stopping at the Corneliuss. Mrs. Marion Coker of Gearhart is a guest at the Corneliuss.

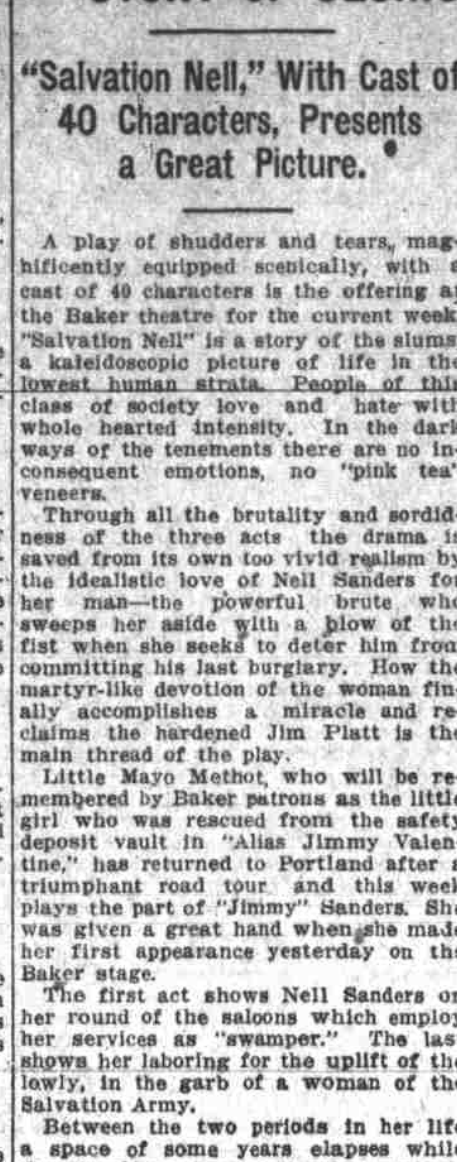

J. W. Paddon, a rancher of Bull Run, is stopping at the Corneliuss.

A. Moss, a prominent soap manufacturer of Minneapolis, and wife, are stopping at the Seward.

F. Wyatt, proprietor of a general merchandise store at Black Rock, and Mrs. Wyatt, are registered at the Seward.

James Kavanaugh, a realty dealer of Victoria, B. C., is at the Seward. Oscar Rittenberg and wife of Portland have returned from an extended trip east and are stopping at the Bowers.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson Is an Architect

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and the home in Princeton which she designed.

O. A. C. EXPECTS 500 MERCHANTS AS VISITORS

(Special to The Journal.) Oregon Agricultural College, Corvallis, Or., Jan. 20.—Five hundred members of the Oregon State Retail Merchants' association are expected to visit the Oregon Agricultural college at the conclusion of the business of the convention which is to be held in Albany on Wednesday and Thursday. Their excursion will be the largest in numbers of any that has ever been to the college and will be of greatest importance to the institution.

The plans of the affair are in the hands of a committee composed of the faculty and local merchants, and extensive arrangements are being made for the entertainment of the visitors. A special train will bring them over from Albany on Friday morning. The day will be spent in the inspection of the classroom and laboratory work, and the efficiency and needs of the college will be demonstrated to them. At noon a special drill will be made before them by the O. A. C. cadet regiment, which has been preparing for a tournament. Luncheon will be provided for them by the committee. The officers of the cadet regiment will conduct them about the campus and through the buildings.

With becoming modesty Mr. Ralph Williams only bestowed two of the principal federal offices in Oregon on his personal Polk county friends.

Don't swear off on appropriations for exhibitions until Oregon makes a fine showing at San Francisco in 1915.

C. W. Helm, a business man of Hillsboro, is at the Bowers.

B. Blanchard, a business man of Vancouver, B. C., is a guest at the Bowers.

O. C. Sether, a merchant of Glendale, is stopping at the Oregon.

W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, is registered at the Oregon from Pendleton.

Charles L. Baker, a hotel man of Corvallis, is at the Oregon.

A. H. Chase, a merchant of La Grande, is a guest at the Oregon.

H. J. Altow, secretary of the Oregon Hardware Dealers' association, who is registered from Ardenwald, has established headquarters at the Imperial.

G. C. Fulton, an attorney of Astoria, and C. L. Houston, a contractor from the same city, are guests at the Imperial.

R. Green, a mining engineer of Seattle, is stopping at the Imperial.

David Warfield, the prominent actor, is a guest at the Multnomah.

J. R. Moiers, a prominent wine merchant of San Francisco, is stopping at the Multnomah.

Philip S. Malcolm gave a dinner Friday evening in the parlors of the Portland hotel to the guests being all members of the thirty-second degree of Masons. Covers were laid for 10 at a table decorated in pink carnations and ferns, and an elaborate menu was served.

W. E. Taylor, an attorney of Moline, Ill., is registered at the Portland.

A. J. Dillman of New York, who has extensive timber interests here, is a guest at the Portland.

Miss Eunice Burbank, Miss Laura Burbank and D. E. Burbank II, prominent and wealthy residents of Springfield, Mass., are registered at the Portland.

T. L. Reynolds, cashier of one of the San Francisco banks, is stopping at the Portland.

Frederick Shipman, a Chicago impresario, representing Miss Nordica, is at the Portland.

Gives Up Pulpit for Law.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Escondido, Cal., Jan. 20.—Doubt as to where his services for righteousness were most needed resulted in the Rev. T. D. Leelan resigning the pastorate of the Congregational church here to return to the practice of law.

INDIGESTION

Causes Dizziness, Nervousness, Biliousness, Sick Headaches and Sallow Skin.

MI-O-NA STOMACH TABLETS BANISH ALL MISERY

You know that most of the ailments named above come from an upset stomach; of course you do.

When food reaches the stomach it should digest and furnish nutritious matter to the blood.

If it doesn't digest, but lays heavily on your stomach, it has started to ferment.

When it ferments it sets loose in the stomach potent poisons which irritate the great pneumogastric nerve that leads directly from the stomach to the brain.

That irritation causes heartburn, dizziness, nervousness, and other ailments. MI-O-NA is guaranteed to end all stomach misery or money back. A large box is 50 cents at druggists everywhere. Free trial treatment and booklet from Booth's MI-O-NA, Buffalo, N. Y.

EARTH EDUCATION PLAN ADVANCING

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and the home in Princeton which she designed.

CHINESE TENOR WILL RETURN TO U. OF O.

(Special to The Journal.) University of Oregon, Eugene, Or., Jan. 20.—Theatrical life may have its allures, but William Lai, a Chinese singer whose home is in Portland, but who has been singing in the northwest theatres for a year, yearn to be back in college. He has been in Eugene two weeks filling an engagement with a local theatre, has met his old college friends, and feels the call of the campus. He declares that he will return to the University of Oregon next term.

Lai appeared at the University of Oregon three years ago. Professor I. M. Glen, then dean of the school of music, discovered in him a most remarkable tenor voice. He and another Chinaman, Harry Ding, were at once made the feature numbers of the University Glee club, and were the first Asiatics to ever make a place upon this club.

Immediately after the Glee club made its tour to Portland, the two Chinamen received tempting offers from the stage. These they resisted, and last year went to the University of Washington, following Professor Glen. Last summer they both went on the stage.

With becoming modesty Mr. Ralph Williams only bestowed two of the principal federal offices in Oregon on his personal Polk county friends.

Don't swear off on appropriations for exhibitions until Oregon makes a fine showing at San Francisco in 1915.

C. W. Helm, a business man of Hillsboro, is at the Bowers.

B. Blanchard, a business man of Vancouver, B. C., is a guest at the Bowers.

O. C. Sether, a merchant of Glendale, is stopping at the Oregon.

W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, is registered at the Oregon from Pendleton.

Charles L. Baker, a hotel man of Corvallis, is at the Oregon.

A. H. Chase, a merchant of La Grande, is a guest at the Oregon.

H. J. Altow, secretary of the Oregon Hardware Dealers' association, who is registered from Ardenwald, has established headquarters at the Imperial.

G. C. Fulton, an attorney of Astoria, and C. L. Houston, a contractor from the same city, are guests at the Imperial.

R. Green, a mining engineer of Seattle, is stopping at the Imperial.

David Warfield, the prominent actor, is a guest at the Multnomah.

J. R. Moiers, a prominent wine merchant of San Francisco, is stopping at the Multnomah.

Philip S. Malcolm gave a dinner Friday evening in the parlors of the Portland hotel to the guests being all members of the thirty-second degree of Masons. Covers were laid for 10 at a table decorated in pink carnations and ferns, and an elaborate menu was served.

W. E. Taylor, an attorney of Moline, Ill., is registered at the Portland.

A. J. Dillman of New York, who has extensive timber interests here, is a guest at the Portland.

Miss Eunice Burbank, Miss Laura Burbank and D. E. Burbank II, prominent and wealthy residents of Springfield, Mass., are registered at the Portland.

T. L. Reynolds, cashier of one of the San Francisco banks, is stopping at the Portland.

Frederick Shipman, a Chicago impresario, representing Miss Nordica, is at the Portland.

Furs at Clearance Prices

Second Floor—Our entire stock of women's and children's furs are now being offered at greatly reduced prices. This includes the famous "Revillon Freres" fine furs; sold here only.

$15.00 Iceland Lynx Scarfs at $11.25 $12.50 French Marten Scarfs $ 9.38

$25.00 Iceland Lynx Scarfs at $18.75 $15.00 French Marten Muffs $11.25

$18.50 Iceland Lynx Muffs at $13.87 $15.00 River Mink Scarfs at $11.25

$11.50 French Marten Scarfs $ 8.62 $27.50 River Mink Scarfs at $20.62

Boys' Winter Overcoats

Priced From $5 to $20

1-3 Off

Juvenile Dept. Main Floor. Tomorrow we offer our entire line of Boys' Winter Weight Overcoats at one-third off regular prices. Fancy mannish mixtures in tans, grays, blue, etc. Some belted-back styles with convertible collar, others with storm collars. A splendid line of the season's newest models in sizes 13 to 32. Tomorrow at a reduction of 1/3

125,000 Children to Enlist in Movement This Year, It Is Said.

Sixty thousand children were enlisted in the Oregon earth education movement last year, and 125,000 are expected to enter this year, says L. R. Alderman, superintendent of public instruction, in a report issued today.

The work has value in teaching boys and girls how to work and how to measure work's value, says Professor Alderman, who adds that those parents who give or loan a child something to exhibit for a prize are doing not the cause but the child an injury and injustice.

"Last year, as near as we can get at it," reads Professor Alderman's report, "there were about 60,000 children engaged in making or raising something with which to compete for prizes in the industrial contest."

"That was only a little start in the work, but it was a great stimulus to future effort. As a result of the inspiration gained last year we hope to have practically each of the 125,000 school children of the state engaged in some phase of the work this year."

"To those who did not get interested last year, and are not familiar with the rules of the contest, we wish to say they are very simple. The most important rule is that the children must do the work themselves and that the parent or guardian will be required to sign a statement to that effect. In raising garden, someone else may plow the ground and harrow it, but the child must do the rest—the planting, cultivating, harvesting."

Wants to Stir Up Interest.

"In raising poultry, the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit. The only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that someone else has raised or made you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself."

Superintendent Alderman's report ends with the promise that at the fair next year many valuable prizes will be awarded to those who have excelled.

Wants to Stir Up Interest.

"In raising poultry, the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit. The only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that someone else has raised or made you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself."

Superintendent Alderman's report ends with the promise that at the fair next year many valuable prizes will be awarded to those who have excelled.

Wants to Stir Up Interest.

"In raising poultry, the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit. The only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that someone else has raised or made you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself."

Superintendent Alderman's report ends with the promise that at the fair next year many valuable prizes will be awarded to those who have excelled.

Wants to Stir Up Interest.

"In raising poultry, the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit. The only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that someone else has raised or made you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself."

Superintendent Alderman's report ends with the promise that at the fair next year many valuable prizes will be awarded to those who have excelled.

Wants to Stir Up Interest.

"In raising poultry, the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit. The only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that someone else has raised or made you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself."

Superintendent Alderman's report ends with the promise that at the fair next year many valuable prizes will be awarded to those who have excelled.

Wants to Stir Up Interest.

"In raising poultry, the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit. The only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that someone else has raised or made you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself."

Superintendent Alderman's report ends with the promise that at the fair next year many valuable prizes will be awarded to those who have excelled.

Wants to Stir Up Interest.

"In raising poultry, the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit. The only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that someone else has raised or made you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself."

Superintendent Alderman's report ends with the promise that at the fair next year many valuable prizes will be awarded to those who have excelled.

Wants to Stir Up Interest.

"In raising poultry, the child does not have to own the parent flock, but must set the eggs and feed and care for the chickens they exhibit. The only way to learn how to do something is to do that thing with your own hands. If you show something that someone else has raised or made you are cheating yourself out of the most valuable part of the contest—the experience gained by doing it yourself."