

HOUSE CLEANING IN NAVAL MILITIA WAS EFFECTIVE

Testimony Before Senate Investigators Shows Unfit Officers Have Been Removed From Organization.

Oregon Naval Militia organization and discipline was anything but satisfactory at the beginning, but there is not much at present on which to hang derogatory charges, according to testimony adduced yesterday at the proceedings in the investigation of naval militia conditions before a state senate committee.

The session was held in the courtroom of the cruiser Boston. The investigation being unfinished last evening adjournment was taken until Friday night at 8 o'clock, when the scene of action will be moved to the office of Adjutant General Finzer in the Gerlinger building. The senate investigation committee is composed of Senator Joseph, chairman, and Senators Carson and Dimick.

O. H. Staron, formerly an officer of the state naval militia, spent much of the time at yesterday's session in detailing alleged misconduct, principally drunkenness, which he said prevailed during the voyage of the cruiser from the navy yard at Bremerton to its berth in the Willamette. Captain J. J. Reynolds was navigating officer at that time, Staron said, and was intoxicated when he boarded the Boston at the navy yard. Captain Spier was in command, but the witness said that Reynolds told Spier to "get out of the way," whenever they met on deck. Witness said that Reynolds had also called him (Staron) a "liar" during the voyage.

Lieutenant Commander A. J. Capron, paymaster, admitted Staron's testimony that some 200 loaves of bread had been thrown overboard during the cruise of the Boston to Marshfield in the summer of 1911, but said that the bread had been condemned by the ship's medical officers because it had grown mouldy.

Witness testified also that 25 bottles of liquor and 12 or 14 cases of beer had been carried on the Boston from Bremerton to Portland and that only officers of senior rank drank it except at Goble, where officers of the general staff and Portland city officials boarded and were entertained.

A. W. Anderson, chief master at arms, said that he traveled from Bremerton to Portland as a first class boatswain's mate, and that he had not seen Captain Reynolds drunk during the trip.

Adjutant General Finzer testified to show that men who were shown to be unfit for service were summarily dismissed.

Witness Staron admitted that what he had testified to applied only to former officers of the naval militia.

DEMAND ON POPE TO REGISTER AS ELECTOR

Rome, Jan. 27.—A serious clash is feared between the Vatican and the Quirinal as a result of a popular demand which has just been voiced in all the Italian press that Pope Pius be required to register himself as an elector under the new Italian universal suffrage act.

The demand is a result of King Victor Emmanuel declaring himself to be merely a citizen in common with all the rest of the Italians and insisting on being inscribed as an elector.

There was a decided protest against this on the part of the monarchial party, which insisted that the king is above all citizens, but the king had his own way, and his example was followed by all other male members of the royal family, including the Duke of Abruzzi, the Duke D'Aosta and the Duke of Genoa.

S. B. 38 COST $432 TO PRINT AND AT THAT $68 WAS LOST BY DUNIWAY

(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 27.—Over one ton of white paper was required in printing 2400 copies of S. B. 38, the insurance code. The total cost of the work was $432.12, of which State Printer W. S. Duniway received $273.89 as compensation for composition and printing.

"I hope I will get no more of these big ones," said Mr. Duniway. "I lost $68 in doing the work. It is only on the short bills that I make money."

"In the first two weeks of the session 152 more bills were introduced than in the first two weeks of the last session. All of these bills have been printed, with the exception of the game code."

By offering a system of prizes to motorists for efficient operation of their cars the management of an English electric railway effected a saving of 25 per cent in current in 12 weeks.

HIGH MEDICAL AUTHORITY

"The Journal," the official organ of the American Medical Association, and organization of physicians of the United States, in a recent article lists a number of things the family medicine chest should always contain to be used in emergencies before a physician can arrive. One of the most important in the list is a good whiskey.

The great value of a good whiskey in emergencies has always been recognized by the medical profession. The stimulation afforded by whiskey has many and many a time been the means of saving life. In cases of accident, shock or acute illness it may mean life or death whether or not you have it on hand.

But the whiskey you use should be good and pure. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is made for the home, the hospital and the sick room. It is solely a medicinal whiskey. It is made from selected grain and the distilling process is carried so far that it exceeds in purity the requirements of the United States Pharmacopoeia. It is the best whiskey for you to have in the house, because it is for medicinal purposes.

Be sure to get Duffy's. Sold in sealed bottles only by druggists, grocers and dealers at $1.00 a bottle. Write our doctors for free advice and a free illustrated medical booklet. The Duffy Malt Whiskey company, Rochester, N. Y.

SOLONS FROM OREGON AND WASHINGTON TO BE SHOWN SPAN NEED

Committees From Salem and Olympia to Be in Portland Tomorrow.

The interstate bridge committees of the Washington and Oregon legislatures will meet in Portland at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. With them will gather the interstate bridge committee appointed from the Portland and Vancouver commercial clubs, 75 citizens of Vancouver and 50 of Portland. The meeting place is the Multnomah hotel. Both legislative committees advised Frank B. Riley, chairman of the Commercial club committee, this morning, of their plan to be present.

The conference, in fact, was proposed by the legislators. Before making appropriations amounting to $2,000,000 for the spanning of the Columbia between Portland and Vancouver, they desire to go carefully over the ground.

They will go in automobiles to the proposed location of the interstate bridge tomorrow morning. They will examine the facilities for crossing the river now offered by the ferry. They will make a tour through Vancouver and portions of Clarke county. They will be guests of the Vancouver Commercial club at luncheon. After continuing examination of the situation during the afternoon the legislative and commercial committees will return to Portland in time for a 6 o'clock dinner at the Portland Commercial club. The Washington legislators will return to Olympia by the midnight train.

SCHEDULE 'K' TO FEEL TARIFF REDUCTION AX

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Jan. 27.—The ways and means committee of the house is considering today schedule K, the portion of the Payne-Aldrich tariff law relating to wool. Pledgings of woolen manufacturers against a reduction in wool duties are anticipated. Sweeping cuts in the tariff are believed to be certain.

Joseph Holmes and John Wood testified before the house ways and means committee against reducing the wool tariff. Holmes produced figures and statistics in the effort to hold up his contention that clothing would not be cheaper if the tariff was lowered or removed. He did not deny that the average $12 to $18 suit actually costs the factory $3 and is sold abroad at from $5 to $10.

STUDENT O'NEAL ESCAPES TRIAL WHEN FATHER PAYS

Eugene, Or., Jan. 27.—His father having settled with each of the Eugene merchants, accused by Ruel O'Neal, the Oregon Agricultural college student, arrested several weeks ago, charged with forgery, the case against the young man has been dismissed, the grand jury Saturday afternoon reporting "not a true bill."

O'Neal came to Eugene from Corvallis, and obtaining one of the little green caps worn by the University of Oregon freshmen, and a number of checks on a local bank with the name of one of the University of Oregon fraternities printed thereon, put up a very plausible story to the several merchants, whom he swindled out of $10 each by giving them each a check for that amount, explaining that he had been called home to Portland suddenly and as it was after banking hours he would deem it a great favor if they would accommodate him. Three weeks later he returned to Eugene and pulled off the same stunt, obtaining more money the last time than the first. He secured over $100 in all. He was arrested in Corvallis a few days afterward.

SUGAR TRUST HEAD TO GO TO PENITENTIARY; CONVICTION AFFIRMED

Chas. S. Heike, Former Secretary of A. S. R. Co., Must Serve Term for Frauds.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Washington, Jan. 27.—The United States supreme court affirmed today the conviction of Charles S. Heike, former secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, for alleged complicity in the sugar weighing frauds in 1907. He was sentenced to a year and a half imprisonment and fined $5000.

A strict interpretation of the immunity statute covering testimony for government "trust busting" and interstate commerce cases, was included in the degree of the court.

"The obvious purpose of the immunity statute," the decision says, "is to make evidence compulsory which otherwise could not be got. It is not intended as an inducement to commit crime. We think it plain that merely testifying to his own name was not enough to give him (Heike) the benefit of this act. Evidence in a former case (the sugar investigation) had nothing to do with the defendant's action in this case. It may be there have been abuses of indictment for conspiracy, but not in this case."

SEEK APPROPRIATION FOR MINING BUREAU

Advocates of house bill 205, designed to create a state bureau of mines and carrying an appropriation of $25,000 for a mineral survey of the state, will go to Salem Thursday for formal appearance before the ways and means committee of the house. The bill has already been unanimously approved by the house committee on mines. During a hearing, Representative E. E. Blanchard of Josephine county declared his belief that the appropriation is incommensurate with the importance of the work to be attempted.

Representative Frank Mitchell of Baker county, chairman of the committee, declared that for Oregon to secure expert evidence of the mineral resources of the state deserved immediate attention and adequate appropriation.

"A bureau of mines could not be operated on an amount less than $25,000, and the mining people of Oregon in asking for this sum are extremely conservative," said H. N. Lawrie, secretary of the Oregon branch of the American Mining congress.

"The income from the mining incorporation tax, in the past, has been diverted into other channels, and it is only fair that the mining industry of Oregon should be given a part of that which they themselves contributed to the treasury of the state."

The members of the mining congress have been using as chief argument in favor of the bill, that Oregon alone sends $12,000,000 annually out of the state for building material when the same material could be obtained in Oregon were the location and amount of the ore and the means of transportation accurately measured.

CAR COMPANY CAN RIDE DETECTIVES FREE

Notwithstanding the fact that the officials of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company declared they were unwilling to issue free street car transportation to plain clothes members of the police force here because they feared such action would be a transgression of the public utilities law, City Attorney Frank S. Grant, in an opinion addressed to the city council, says the company is not prohibited by the state law from carrying any municipal employees free if it so desires.

Unless the company recedes from its position the city will be compelled to appropriate $4800 for street car tickets for the use of detectives the present year.

INDUSTRIAL TRAINING GETS GOOD RESULTS

The annual report of L. R. Alderman, state superintendent of schools, has just been issued. In it, he says that the industrial training given boys and girls during the past year has been productive of even more results than any other branch of the educational program. As a sign of the national recognition given this movement, Professor Alderman quotes from Professor C. H. Lane, assistant in agricultural education at Washington, D. C., who said, after a visit to the state:

"Oregon has started this work on a broader scale than any other state. I never have found a state in which bankers, breeders and business men have given industrial education such liberal support at the outset. The next step should be to make the work an integral part of the public school system."

The industrial education should be made an accepted part of the school curriculum is otherwise indicated in Professor Alderman's report. As general results, he calls attention to the fact that 88 children's fairs were held in various parts of the state and prizes aggregating a value of $20,000 were awarded. Of Oregon's school children, 25,000, says Professor Alderman, were exhibitors at the fairs.

To carry on the work a cooperative plan was established in which a committee of the State Bankers' association, the livestock exchange, the Agricultural college and others were active. It was necessary during the campaign to send out 9000 pieces of matter.

Professor Alderman compliments the state on the value of work done by the state university at Eugene and Oregon Agricultural college at Corvallis. His report contains full information about the schools of Oregon.

EARTH EDUCATION DAY LITERATURE SENT OUT

To all schools and business organizations copies of the argument in favor of enacting senate bill 72 have been mailed today by the Portland Commercial club.

Copies of the bill have been sent to each of the county superintendents for distribution. The argument and the bill will be used in each school February 12, "Earth Education Day," when programs will be rendered and demonstrations made in behalf of the measure. "Better Farms Will Build the State" is the slogan for the day.

"It is to apply the benefits of the agricultural college to every county in Oregon that Senate Bill No. 72 has been framed," said E. E. Blanchard, chairman of the committee. "The bill proposes an appropriation for extension work. The need of such work was impressed on Portland business men when two years ago they made an automobile tour of central Oregon and the Willamette valley."

A strict interpretation of the immunity statute covering testimony for government "trust busting" and interstate commerce cases, was included in the degree of the court.

CITY NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR POLICEMEN'S ACTS!

That the city is not under responsibility to defend patrolmen sued for acts committed in the course of their duty is the substance of a brief but rather significant opinion submitted by the city attorney today to the council.

The question of the responsibility of the city in such cases came up when Patrolman R. T. Stewart put in a claim for $131.92 expenses he states were incurred in defending a suit brought by a man named Zellar. Stewart and former Patrolman Parker raided Zellar's house. Judgment against each of them in the sum of $25 and costs was rendered by the municipal court.

"It is the clear intent of the city charter that the municipality should not be held responsible in these matters," reads the city attorney's opinion. "That is why the charter requires each patrolman at his own expense to furnish a bond for the faithful performance of his duty."

"But while the city is not legally responsible, the council has the power to order Patrolman Stewart's claim paid, if in the judgment of the council such action is advisable."

Attorneys acting for Stewart say if patrolmen have no assurance that they will be saved from paying damages for making raids that the police will be willing to take chances and that the morality of the city may drop to a lower standard.

CIVIL SERVICE REPORT FOR THE YEAR ISSUED

Figures compiled by Secretary W. A. Tupper of the city civil service commission in his annual report for 1912 show that there are now employed by the city under civil service rules 1865 persons. This is an increase of 205 over the year before.

The fact that 66 employees were discharged and only 53 reinstated apparently offers contradiction to Mayor Rushlight's oft-repeated statement that it is almost an impossible task to get rid of incompetent municipal servants under civil service rules. However, most of the discharged employees held minor positions such as common laborers.

Secretary Tupper's report states that 122 employees resigned during the year, that 2050 applied for positions and that 369 of this number failed to pass the examinations. New appointments totaled 860.

HARRY SCHLOSS, WHITE SLAVER, GETS 3 YEARS

Harry Schloss, whose trial about the middle of December in the federal court for white slavery attracted so much attention, was sentenced this morning by Judge Wolcott to three years at McNeil's Island. Attorney Vandever, who represented Schloss at the trial, appeared before Judge Wolcott and presented a motion for a new trial. The motion was opposed by District Attorney John McCourt, who overruled it.

Anna Schloss, the woman principal of the case, was indicted by the grand stand this morning for perjury. On the stand she denied practically everything that would incriminate Schloss, but the government won its case anyway. Attorney Vandever said that an appeal would probably be taken.

MILL WORKMEN TO HAVE HEARING

Dimick Thinks Oregon City Laborers Will Be Chary About Saying Much.

(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 27.—Wages, hours and general labor conditions at the Oregon City mills will be the subject of a public hearing in the senate chamber tonight, and a large delegation of workers is expected to appear to give their views regarding Senator Dimick's bill establishing the eight hour day.

Senator T. S. Smith of Coos county, chairman of the senate committee, which the bill was referred, made a quiet trip of inspection on his own account last Saturday, accompanied by Senator Patton of Marion county. Mr. Smith said today that he found labor conditions generally good in the mills, with a disposition on the part of the men to oppose the Dimick bill, because they are paid by the hour and fear a reduction in wages if their day is cut to eight hours. He says the minimum pay on the long shifts is $2.62 a day, this being for the 11 and 13 hour shifts that make up a 22 hour day.

The object of the Dimick bill is to force three shifts of men with machinery operated for 22 hours or longer continuously in any one day. The Clackamas county senator asserts that the managers and straw bosses have the men so well under control that the average workman is afraid to testify, and for this reason, he declares, he does not expect to find many of the men speaking out in meeting for his bill.

MERGERS MADE HARDER BY COOS MAN'S BILL

(Staff Correspondence.)
Salem, Or., Jan. 27.—No more mergers by buying out the other fellow will be permitted without permission of the state railroad commission, if a bill prepared by Senator Smith of Coos, and introduced this morning, becomes a law of the state. He says it will prevent such transactions as the buying up of competing telephone lines under foreclosure proceedings, as in the case of the Northwestern Long Distance company.

The bill provides that it shall be unlawful for any railroad or public utility company to purchase or in any way acquire property or stock of a competing company except by permission of the railroad commission, and this consent shall not be given unless the commission is satisfied that the merger will not injuriously affect the public welfare.

Any transfer attempted in evasion of the act is made punishable by a fine of $100 to $10,000.

The can be either seen at the office of the architect or at the courthouse at Toledo, Or. TWO MEN MEET DEATH IN BLAZE IN SHACK

Overcome by smoke, two men perished in the flames that destroyed a small shack at 524 Thurman street shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday morning. They were John McIntyre and Louis Trokley, who were employed by the Phoenix Wood & Fuel company as laborers. John Smoker was sleeping in the shack, but was rescued by a watchman in the yards.

Patrolman Field turned in the alarm. It appears that Smoker was the only member of the trio who was able to arouse himself. As he was awakened, the danger presented itself to him, whereupon he darted for the door. At this time a yard watchman broke in the door, carrying Smoker away from the shack. The fire made such headway that men could not enter it.

McIntyre and Trokley were burned in their beds. Saturday evening, the three men had laid in a supply of liquor, drinking until midnight. It is thought they built a heavy fire in the stove, which gave out a spark that ignited the building. The victims were about 45 years old. They had worked at the yards four weeks, and were recent arrivals from the east.

HILLSBORO S. P. SAFE RESISTS CRACKSMEN

(Special to The Journal.)
Hillsboro, Or., Jan. 27.—An unsuccessful attempt was made last night to rob the safe in the Southern Pacific depot. A window was opened with a crowbar taken from the section house, both combination dials of the safe knocked off and a charge of stumping powder inserted, but the explosion did not open the door. Women's clothing was taken from suitcases in the baggage room, soaked in water and placed about the safe to deaden the noise. The only booty secured was $2.60 in change left in the cash drawer. The ticket case was not molested. It is believed to be the work of amateurs.

PARCEL POST GUIDES COST 75 CENTS EACH

Several months ago the postoffice department sent out official information that the price of the parcel post guide and map would be 75 cents. This price was duly published in the papers, especially on the Pacific coast, and business men by the hundreds sent in the amount named, expecting to receive the equipment which would enable them to do their own weighing and stamping of merchandise.

Today the government has come out with a statement giving the price of the guides and maps as 75 cents.
