

ON WAY HOME OF WIFE AND FAMILY ALIEN MURDERED

Search for Joseph Endlicher of Eugene Becomes Search for Murderer, Who Apparently Used Victim's Ticket

(Special to The Journal.) Eugene, Or., Feb. 4.—Joseph Endlicher, who dropped from view after leaving Eugene on August 11 last, bound for Olinia, Austria, was murdered in Portland today following, according to the belief of G. A. Sachs, of the Eugene German Aid society, who has been in charge of the unsuccessful search. A man was found dead outside of Portland on August 12, and from what Mr. Sachs was later able to ascertain, corresponded with the description of the missing man. Until recently Mr. Sachs had conducted the search secretly, with the aid of Governor West. Lately District Attorney Evans and Sheriff Word were notified, which resulted in the evidence that Endlicher's railroad ticket had been used to Huntington, Or. Mr. Sachs thinks that after murdering Endlicher in Portland, robbing him of $100 and destroying all the identifying evidence on his victim's person, the assassin went as far as Huntington on the missing man's ticket. Before his departure from Eugene, Endlicher had been warned by his friend, Sachs, about carrying $100 in cash, with the advice to procure a postal order, to which Endlicher had replied, "If they get this they'll have to kill me."

SLEUTHS ON LADDER SEE CHIPS CASHED IN

A game of "solo" in which the house played as banker was raided early this morning in the poolroom at East Seventy-sixth and Gliman streets, and W. C. Struve, the proprietor; S. W. Keener, Ed Blake, Arthur Baraw and T. F. Funk were arrested. Deputy Sheriff Rossmann and Rogers, who conducted the raid, brought the five to the county jail. A preliminary hearing will be given them this afternoon before Justice of the Peace Bell. Funk, who is a son of Deputy Assessor Funk, was unfortunate in being caught for he was an onlooker the greater part of the game and only took the place of Struve at the table when other customers. Practically no evidence was found against him. The other four were observed by the two deputies deeply engrossed in the game and after a game of pool in the place the deputies left the room and caught a car apparently for the city. Dropping off a few blocks away they returned by back streets and watched the cashing in at the close of the game from a ladder by a window in the rear of the place.

EXPECT $5000 LIMIT FOR NEW INCOME TAX

Washington, Feb. 4.—As congress must now enact a law to levy the income tax, it probably will become effective during the extra session to be called in March by President-elect Wilson. The law's limitations and the tax itself are to be left with congress. It is believed it will supersede the corporation tax and provide a tax on all incomes in excess of $5000. The new law is expected to bring in about $100,000,000 yearly revenue. Because state legislators wanted Wyoming to have the distinction of forcing congress to act, the constitutional amendment to tax incomes was "railroaded" through both houses at Cheyenne yesterday, under suspension of rules. Until Wyoming, Delaware and New Mexico took favorable action, only 25 states had ratified the amendment, 25 states or three-fourths of those in the union being necessary before congress could act. It is claimed that Wyoming's ratification of the amendment came before Delaware took action.

FAINTS WHEN SHE RELATES HOW SHE URGED DISHONOR

(Continued From Page One.) her little home of Bert Franklin, a detective employed by the McNamara defense and of his offer of money if she would persuade her husband to qualify for the McNamara jury and vote for the acquittal of the brothers. "When Bob came home that night I repeated Franklin's offer," Mrs. Bain testified. "It was then he called Franklin a bad name and jumped at me for listening to him. He was all broken up and said: 'To think that I would live 70 years and then have this come to me.' She then described how she coaxed her husband to take the money, pointing out their advancing years and trying to make him believe that the crime would not be a heinous one. It was while she was repeating her husband's first words of scorn of the offer that she fell back in her chair, almost in a faint. Assistant District Attorney Ford came to her aid with a glass of water, but when she attempted again to proceed, she fell back in a swoon. Court was adjourned while she was revived. He said he didn't want that kind of money," Mrs. Bain quavered when she was able to proceed. "I told him the McNamaras were innocent anyway, but he said I didn't know anything about it. "Then I tried to put my arms around him but he shoved me away and said 'None of that!' Then I went to him and said, 'Bob, take the money for my sake.' "There was a pause and a silence fell over the courtroom while she breathed rapidly for a moment. Then she whispered: "When I said that, he consented."

'MADE IN OREGON' SUBJECT OF BILL

Kellaher Proposes to Force Home Builders and Architects on Public.

(Staff Correspondence.) Salem, Or., Feb. 4.—"Made in Oregon" is the motto of a bill introduced by Senator Kellaher this morning, under which none except residents of the state for at least two years would be permitted to bid on contracts for state or county buildings or improvements, and no architect except those in Oregon would be allowed to draw plans for or superintend any public work. Another section requires reference to be given to materials produced or fabricated in Oregon, when public work is involved. Senator Neuner has introduced a bill, in accordance with his announced plans, repealing the Coos bay wagon road land grant of 1889. This bill is formulated along the line of the governor's message, on the theory that the state, and not the government, is the one to insist upon the forfeiture of the grant. It is provided that the lands when forfeited shall be administered by the state land board for the benefit of the common school fund. Smith of Coos introduced a bill to form the Fourteenth judicial district of Coos and Curry counties, continuing Judge John S. Coketas the judge in that district. Senator Moser has introduced bills to authorize a court to receive a verdict on Sunday or other non-judicial days, and to allow the jury to take a copy of the evidence in a case to the jury room while deliberating upon its verdict.

WRECK CAUSES FRESH GRIEF ON P., R. & N.

(Special to The Journal.) Tillamook, Or., Feb. 4.—A freight train on the P. R. & N. near Mohler was derailed yesterday, causing another delay on this line. A broken rail caused the engine and two cars to leave the track. There was no serious damage. The passenger train from Portland was held up, and passengers were brought to this city late last night on a work train. Traffic on the P. R. & N. was resumed Sunday afternoon after more than a month's interruption, due to storms.

WORRIES OVER LOSS OF WIFE; KILLS HIMSELF

W. E. Terrill, clerk in the British consulate under the late James Laidlaw, shot and killed himself at Aschoff, near Mount Hood last night. The body was found this morning. He is said to have suffered from melancholia, resulting from the loss of his wife and son when the steamer South Portland went down off the Oregon coast several years ago. Terrill had been in the British consulate here for ten years and prior to that was employed by the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company for about 24 years. He was born in Cheshire, England, and came to the United States when he was 27 years old. He was 63 at the time of his death.

Ten Years for Ex-Senator.

San Jose, Cal., Feb. 4.—Ten years in San Quentin was the sentence imposed today on former State Senator Marshall Black, convicted of misappropriating the funds of the Palo Alto Building and Loan association, of which he was the head. Judge J. E. Richards passed the sentence, following long pleas for leniency by Black and his attorney. The court in a lengthy address, reviewed the decline, and chided Black for being forgetful of the loved ones he had mentioned.

BOTH TRUST BILLS DIE IN HOUSE, ONE EASILY, ONE HARD

Small Manufacturer, Farmers, Fruit Men, Suddenly Find Friends; "Trusts Here to Stay Anyway."—Howard.

(Staff Correspondence.) Salem, Or., Feb. 4.—After passing house bill 74, by Upton, which provides the manner in which employes of corporations must be paid, the house of representatives spent the entire morning in threshing over and then killing by the indefinite postponement method, the two trust bills that were up with a majority and a minority report. These were house bill 104 by Parsons, which met the earlier and less reluctant death, while the other was house bill 128, by Blanchard, which struggled tenaciously for life. Those voting against the Blanchard bill were Abbott, Anderson, of Clatsop, Anderson, of Wasco, Belland, Carlin, Carpenter, Chapman, Forbes, Graves, Hadley, Heltzel, Hinkle, Hughes, Johnson, Latourette, Mann, Massey, McDonald, Meek, Nolte, Olson, Potter, Reames, Schmoer, Smith, Spencer, Stanfield, Stranahan, Thoms, Upton, Westerlund and Speaker McArthur. Those voting against the Parsons bill were Abbott, Anderson, of Clatsop, Appelgren, Belland, Bonebrake, Campbell, Carlin, Carpenter, Chapman, Gill, Graves, Hagood, Hall, Hadley, Heltzel, Hinkle, Hughes, Johnson, Latourette, Laughlin, Lawrence, Mann, McDonald, Meek, Mitchell, Murrane, Nolte, Olson, Potter, Reames, Schmoer, Schliebel, Smith, Spencer, Stanfield, Stranahan, Thoms, Weeks, Westerlund and Speaker McArthur. Representative Abbott opposed the bills on the ground that they would discriminate against the small manufacturer and farmer, and that they would be permitted to fix prices in competition with outside corporations. Latourette declared that bill 106 would bring within its provisions all the farmers, fruit men and cooperative organizations in the state. Heltzel did not like the bills because they excluded labor organizations, which he declared were among the greatest and most menacing of trusts. Lawrence opposed house bill 106 but supported the Blanchard bill. "My bill is for the benefit of the laboring man and the poor man," shouted Parsons, "and Mr. Lawrence ought to be ashamed of his opposition when it was the laboring men who elected him." Howard declared the trusts had come to stay. "They will be with us always," he said, "and so I don't think these bills will do any harm or any good whatever you do with them." Blanchard defended his bill by declaring it made no reference to cooperative associations. Hughes declared that the wool men, the fruit men and the hop men of the Willamette valley get together and fix prices and he thought they ought to do it for their protection, and he was afraid the bills would work an injustice to this valley. After spending half an hour or more in entangling themselves in a maze of parliamentary procedure, Parsons agreed to forget all the motions and substitutes and amendments that had been made and let the house proceed to vote on the indefinite postponement of the bills.

U. S. SENATE ADJOURNS AS FILIBUSTER IS ON

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, Feb. 4.—After an hour's futile struggle, during which the Democrats filibustered, the Republicans in the senate today temporarily abandoned their attempt to force confirmation of 2000 nominations made by President Taft, and the chamber adjourned. Senator Williams entered the chamber prepared to discuss Dickens' character at length in order to kill time in case it proved necessary. It is not known whether this fact, when it became known, had anything to do with the adjournment.

MAY ACT ON CASE OF PRESIDENT FERRIN

Members of the board of trustees of Pacific University, meeting this afternoon at the Portland Y. M. C. A., may take some action in the case of William N. Ferrin, president of the institution, who was relieved of actual duties at the university last June, following a request for his resignation by some members of the board. At that time a committee composed of Professor Frank C. Taylor, chairman; Principal H. L. Bates of Tualatin Academy, and Professor William G. Harrington, was appointed to take charge of university affairs. B. S. Huntington, president of the board of trustees, said prior to the meeting this afternoon that so far as he knows only routine business will be transacted at the session. This is the regular semi-annual meeting of the trustees. The matter of increased endowment for the university is a topic of interest and importance at this time, in view of the effort being made to raise $200,000 that the teaching force may be added, and that there may be additional funds on hand for general operating expenses. James J. Hill has offered $40,000 toward the fund if the university can raise an additional $160,000, and indications are now that this amount will be guaranteed by friends of the school. The endowment of the university in the past has been over $250,000.

CLERGYMAN HAS JUSTICE ARRESTED

Huntington Election Preceded by Row Between Pastor and City Official. (Special to The Journal.) Huntington, Or., Feb. 4.—Much interest is being shown in the city election. The only contest is over the city marshal. Sleights are being freely used to bring out the women's vote which will be heavy. The result will not change the city policy. Justice of the Peace Woods was arrested yesterday on complaint of a local minister, charged with using obscene and profane language to him with threats on the Main street of the city. The case was brought before Mayor Corder Garrett last night and under various pretexts, over the objection of the clergyman, who demanded a prompt hearing of the case, it was finally postponed until next Monday. Woods demanded a jury trial.

COMMERCIAL CLUB FOR FARM DEMONSTRATIONS

Resolutions were adopted yesterday at a meeting of the special committee of the Oregon Commercial club promoting field demonstration work in the counties of Oregon under the direction of the Oregon Agricultural college, endorsing the principle behind house bill 270 and recommending its passage by the legislature in conjunction with the senate bill 72. House bill 270 is favored by the Farmers' union and has been introduced by Representative Mitchell of Baker county, in the interest of using poor farms as demonstration farms. Senate bill 72 provides for extending the agricultural college work into the several counties of the state and providing field men under the direction of the college.

TO FIGHT IF THEY DARE.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, Feb. 4.—War between Venezuela and Colombia over the disputed harbor of Maracaibo is threatened today. Both countries have forces massed on the edge of the disputed territory and a clash is imminent. Both governments deny that battle is likely and both have warned that if trouble comes the United States will intervene.
