Congressional

The house on Friday passed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill, carrying $2,764,542, an increase of $186,196 over last year.

An indictment charging use of the mails to swindle pupils of a jeweler's art school. Thirty young men complained that they paid from $100 to $500 each for a course in diamond cutting and jewelry making at the school of which Schlekerling was the head.

MILLAGE TAX PLAN GOES TO CAPITAL APPEALS TO HOUSE

3-1-0 Mill for U. of O. Has Only 6 Dissenters; O. A. C. Not Included.

(Staff Correspondence.) Salem, Or., Feb. 15.—With only six dissenting votes, the house last night passed the millage tax measure providing for an annual levy of 3-1-0 mill for the support of the University of Oregon.

A similar measure, which, however, combined the tax for both university and agricultural college, failed of passage under the initiative by a few hundred votes.

The only opposition to the measure was raised by Upton. The tax is to go into effect in April, 1915. Upton sought without success to have the tax made effective at once.

GOES TO CAPITAL WITH HOME PARTY LINES FORGOTTEN

Politics Are Dropped at Farewell Dinner to Dr. Harry Lane, Oregon's New Senator-Elect.

(Staff Correspondence.) Salem, Or., Feb. 15.—A lively tilt between President Malarkey and Senator Kellaher, in which the latter was advised by the president to "hire a hall, if he wanted to make a monkey of himself," followed the debate in the senate yesterday afternoon over Kellaher's bills to repeal the gas franchises held by the Portland Gas & Coke company.

Party lines and the tariff were forgotten last night in the farewell banquet tendered Senator-elect Harry Lane at the Commercial club on the eve of his departure for the nation's capital.

Fully 300 friends of the senator-elect and his wife were present. Mr. Miller was toastmaster. His first remark was made shortly after the company had taken their seats at 6 o'clock.

"Friends," he said, "remember we are composed of all political parties, and don't want any fighting; that's over, so enjoy yourselves."

In opening the after dinner program, the toastmaster referred to the fact that politics had driven men so far apart that they can find out their points of difference.

"We have magnified our points of difference and not magnified our points of agreement until we have reached that point that we honestly believe it is impossible to meet on a compromised point," said Mr. Miller.

The speaker then urged nonpartisanship and a common meeting place, where governmental affairs are driven men so far apart that they can find out their points of difference.

"We of different political faith," he continued, "must get together and work for the common good of all in order to have successful government. We should not be divided on big questions that seriously affect the people. The great mass of people have suffered long enough. We have bickered and fought as politicians, but got along as friends and neighbors, and in so doing have wasted our energies as a people on differing views. We have kept front on matters of minor importance until the affairs of the commonwealth have gotten into a bad condition, and it now is time to lay aside partisanship and work together for the common good of all."

"It can be of little benefit to you in Washington, unless I can go unhampered and there do my duty to all the people of Oregon, regardless of party or condition. When I have done my duty to all alike, it is then that I have done my best duty to my party. I go with the backing of the plain people and that means much to me."

The toastmaster then introduced Mr. Lane, who arose and was warmly greeted.

T. T. Geer, ex-governor, was next called upon. He said that unadulterated democracy rules here tonight.

"I am convinced that unadulterated democracy rules here tonight," he said. "Under our Oregon system, the Republican party has come to that point where we can be invited to help celebrate the election of our Democratic candidates."

"I further believe that Statement No. 1 has taken such a strong hold on the people of Oregon that the men would vote for the popular choice for senator, even if they did not sign Statement No. 1. The election of Dr. Lane the other day by the state legislature was a vast improvement on the old days, when it took 40 days and 40 nights and then some to elect a senator."

Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy was the first woman speaker. She referred to the senator-elect as curing the city's ills, without becoming a rich man, and predicted that he would cure many of the state's ills, returning to Oregon still a poor man.

DAN QUARRELS AGAIN WITH DAN

Malarkey-Kellaher Racket at End, With Gas Franchises Safe for Two Years.

(Staff Correspondence.) Salem, Or., Feb. 15.—A lively tilt between President Malarkey and Senator Kellaher, in which the latter was advised by the president to "hire a hall, if he wanted to make a monkey of himself," followed the debate in the senate yesterday afternoon over Kellaher's bills to repeal the gas franchises held by the Portland Gas & Coke company.

Kellaher had been given wide latitude in the debate. Although the rules permit speeches of only three minutes, he spoke for fully 15 minutes in opening the discussion. After one or two other senators had spoken, Bean of Lane moved the previous question. Kellaher again attempted to speak, and when he was ruled out of order he began to talk about gas rule. Then when Malarkey offered his advice.

"The previous question has been moved, and it is not debatable," said the president. "You have no right to complain of gas rule. You have received every consideration from the chair. You have done nothing but obstruct business of this senate, and you ought to be censured by this senate for your conduct."

Kellaher, still on his feet, declared this was "gas rule," and intimated that the ruling was "not the ruling of the president of the senate, but of the gas company."

Malarkey at one time directed the sergeant at arms to put Kellaher in his seat, but it was not necessary to enforce this order. The bulky Malarkey, however, finally took his seat after the senate by a decisive vote ordered the previous question to be taken.

Kellaher's two bills repealing the gas franchises were indefinitely postponed, and a resolution to recommend by the judiciary committee put in place. This resolution declares the senate has no sufficient information to act on the legal questions involved, and commissions the governor to make a thorough investigation of the subject, to be reported to the next legislature.

Address at Rose City Club. Rev. J. W. McDougall, superintendent of the Portland district of the Methodist Episcopal church, will speak at the Rose City clubhouse, East Fifty-seventh and Sandy road, at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

INVESTIGATING OTHER FELLOW PLEAS HOUSE

(Staff Correspondence.) Salem, Or., Feb. 15.—If the senate concurs in a resolution passed by the house last night, a legislative committee will investigate the office of Game Warden Finley.

As presented by Representative Childs the resolution called for an investigation of the fish and game commission. It was amended to apply only to Warden Finley.

An investigation of the National Game and Adjutant General Finzer was also directed.

So far the house has voted to investigate everything asked of it.

NORTHWESTERN ELECTRIC PROTEST IS UNANIMOUS

(Staff Correspondence.) Salem, Or., Feb. 15.—Senator Hollis memorial to the legislature of Washington, protesting against the adoption of legislation by that state prohibiting the transmission of electric power to Oregon, was adopted by the senate unanimously by a vote of 15-0.

The memorial asks the Washington lawmakers to defeat such legislation or to delay it until a conference can be held to reach an agreement between the two states.

SUBMERGED LAND BILL COMES UP NEXT TUESDAY

(Staff Correspondence.) Salem, Or., Feb. 15.—The bill of the Portland public dock commission, which seeks to return to the public the title to submerged lands where upland owners have taken advantage of private privileges offered them under previous acts, introduced by Kellaher as a senate bill.

Heartburn, Gas, Dyspepsia and All Stomach Distress Ended With "Pape's Diapiesin."

You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is so valuable, you must insure it with drastic drugs.

Pape's Diapiesin is noted for its speed in giving relief; it's harmless; it's certain; it's safe; it's pleasant; it's easy to take; it's effective; it's reliable; it's the only stomachic that does not irritate the stomach.

Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large quantity sent from any drug store, then if anyone should eat something which doesn't agree with them; if what they eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapiesin comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's promptness, certainty and ease in overcoming the worst stomach disorders is a revelation to those who try it.

Miss May A. Carr, 1044 E. 12th St., North Portland, Ore., says: "I am getting along fine since I began using Pape's Diapiesin. Don't think I need to wear the appliances any more at present because my trouble is apparently cured. Have left it off for a week now and have not had any return of the neuritis. If I find it necessary to use the appliances again I shall do so by all means. Would not be without it now, after seeing the good it has done me. I will be pleased to recommend Pape's Diapiesin to any one afflicted with neuritis."

Mr. W. A. Kirby, Walla Walla, Wash., says: "The appliance I purchased from you a few months ago has done all you claimed for it. My rheumatism is all gone and I feel like a new man. I have gained 15 pounds and work every day. I can recommend Pape's Diapiesin to all people who are afflicted with rheumatism. I would not take my money back and do without it."

How Drugs Wreck the Nerves

Every dose of drugs that you take into your stomach weakens your nerves. Every time you kill a pain or an ache by stupefying the nerves with poisonous drugs you are hurting them, and any one can see that in time, by steady dosing, your nervous system will be completely broken down.

Weak nerves require nourishment—new life. If there was any home remedy that might do some good, but you know there is not. Drugs are drugs, stimulants, narcotics, antidotes, poisons—not food. Electricity is nerve food, nerve life. When properly applied it flows into the nerves and is taken up by them just as a sponge absorbs water.

If you are weak, run down, nervous and unambitious; if you suffer from headaches and have spells of dizziness, it means that your nerves are starving for new energy—electricity. That's all they need, and nothing else will restore them.

Electra-Vita is a generator of a powerful but soothing current of electricity, which it infuses into the body for hours at a time, while you sleep. It fills the nerve cells with new life and energizes the blood. It drives out pains and aches, builds up vitality and strength and removes the cause of disease by giving to every organ of the body the power to do its work as nature intended.

Electra-Vita does not shock or burn. It makes its own power, and is always charged, ready for use. All you have to do is adjust it correctly and turn on the current to the proper degree or strength.

Because you have experienced with doctors' batteries, shocking machines or so-called "vitalizers" without receiving any lasting benefit is no reason why our method should prove a failure. Electricity must be scientifically applied to accomplish a cure.

Mr. W. A. Kirby, Walla Walla, Wash., says: "The appliance I purchased from you a few months ago has done all you claimed for it. My rheumatism is all gone and I feel like a new man. I have gained 15 pounds and work every day. I can recommend Pape's Diapiesin to all people who are afflicted with rheumatism. I would not take my money back and do without it."
