The haul was important in that it nipped the operations of a clever man. Taylor had been manufacturing the coin in a woodchopper's shack a mile specialty was $5 and $10 gold pieces, and he was putting out a most clever imitation. The coins seized were not government, for good government de- plated, but in a rough state ready for pends on the men in office, not in the the gold plate. The outfit consisted of an electro-plating battery, plaster of Paris molds, and acids. In the shack was found a half starved kitten that had been confined there for ten days since Taylor loft the house. Taylor, after operating in Vancouver, went to Chehalis, Centralia and Elma. Wash. He was arrested at the latter place last Tuesday night. Taylor is said to be a clever mechanical sagineer and it is believed that this was his first counterfeiting job.
