

200 SHARPENING UP APPETITES FOR FEAST OF SALMON

Demand for Seats at Commercial Club Banquet Next Friday Evening Are Coming in Rapidly.

At least 200 persons—business men, railway officials, salmon packers and others directly connected with the big industry—will attend the salmon day dinner at the Commercial club Friday evening, according to W. C. McBride, chairman of the committee on arrangements today.

"Checks for tickets are coming in thick and fast," he said. "I am sure that 200 or more people will be present, and I know they will have a good time. The tickets are selling for $1, which is going some when one considers the fact that canned salmon will be served in four different ways, and there will be a course of chicken in addition."

The dinner will be given under the auspices of the Transportation club, and will be held at the same hour similar dinners will be in progress in Seattle and San Francisco.

The committee today received a letter from Governor E. S. Taylor in which he wished the celebration all sorts of success, and said he is not sure whether he can attend.

F. A. Seufert, president of the Oregon, Washington and California Coast Salmon Packers' association, left San Francisco today for the purpose of being present at the dinner and presiding at a meeting of the association which will be held here Friday afternoon.

Mr. Seufert will arrive in Portland tomorrow. Mr. Seufert, who resides at The Dalles, has been in California on business.

The salmon packers will attend the banquet in large numbers. In addition to the Columbia river packers, delegations from Aberdeen and Southern Oregon will be present, according to information received by J. E. Reynolds, secretary of the association.

At the association's meeting many matters of importance, chief among them being the problem of giving more publicity to the salmon industry, will be discussed. To the packers the dinner will serve to make them better acquainted with each other.

GIRL'S PLEA TOUCHES DOCTOR'S HEART; SHE IS FIRST TO BE INOCULATED BY FRIEDMANN

Tubercular Patient From Wilds of Canada Makes Trip to Montreal Alone; "Will Try to Save Her," Says Doctor When He Sees Her Waiting.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Montreal, March 11.—Hearty welcome was extended here today to Dr. Frederick Franz Friedmann, discoverer of a tuberculosis serum, when he arrived to confer with Montreal physicians. Colonel Bayland, chief benefactor of the Royal Tuberculosis Institute, greeted Dr. Friedmann at the depot and escorted him to a hotel where a score of prominent physicians awaited him.

After a brief conference Dr. Friedmann went to the institute where he administered his serum to a number of patients in the presence of 50 physicians. All the doctors who welcomed Friedmann were most friendly and assured him of their support in introducing his remedy for the white plague.

Mary Rancour, 16 years old, a tubercular patient, whose parents had died of the disease, touched Friedmann's heart at the institute clinic and as a result she was the first patient treated.

VETERAN OPERATOR GETS 'THIRTY' CALL

Chas. Stone, Well Known Telegrapher, Passes Away Suddenly.

Death has flashed its "30" for Charley Stone, who was one of the best known and most popular telegraph operators in the city. In the still watches of the night the old key man received his final message, and his lifeless body was found in bed this morning in his room at 515 Clay street.

For six weeks, or since the death of his sister, Mrs. Kate Merz, life had not held much joy or promise for Stone. With this sister, who was a widow, Stone had lived at 121 Twenty-first street north, and when she succumbed to heart failure the brother was heartbroken. His friends noticed a change in him, but were powerless to comfort or cheer him. It is believed that his deep brooding may have superinduced an attack of the heart, which killed him as it had killed his sister.

C. E. Stone was manager of the Western Union service for the Oregonian. He was known as an operator not only in Portland, but clear across the continent, being of the old school of "good fellows," who really grew up with the business. For awhile in Portland Stone was manager of the Associated Press night service. He was about 55 years old, and was a native of Iowa. Stone was a charter member of the Portland Press club, and scarcely a newspaper man or operator in the city but knew him and counted him a friend.

Stone was more than a mere operator. He was well educated, knew the ways of the world and forced opportunities and met emergencies in a manner that characterized him as a man who does things.

Though funeral arrangements have not been made, it is probable that the telegraph operators and newspaper men of the city will take charge of the body.

STREETCAR COMPANY ACCEPTS FRANCHISE

Acceptance of the franchise recently granted the Portland Railway, Light & Power company by the city council was filed in the office of City Auditor A. L. Barby today by J. E. Werlein of the company.

By accepting the franchise the company binds itself to complete the Seventh street line within 90 days after the ordinance takes effect. The East Harrison street extension must be completed within 90 days after the ordinance goes into effect, and all other extensions must be completed within a year.

GARBAGE RECEPTACLES ARE BEING INSTALLED

New down-town garbage cans.

The first lot of 200 garbage receptacles to be attached to lamp posts and telephone and telegraph poles in the downtown district have arrived and are being installed. The cans, which are circular in shape, are painted a bright green and present an attractive appearance. A conical cover placed six inches above the mouth of the can hides the rubbish deposited from view and prevents rain from pouring in. To empty a can it is only necessary to unfasten a catch which allows the two hemispheres to swing outward.

The installation of the cans was brought about by the recommendation of the sanitary commission of 12 citizens recently appointed by Mayor Rushlight. The design was chosen by Superintendent Alex Donaldson of the street cleaning department. Hereafter the law against throwing paper bags, fruit and other rubbish on the streets will be strictly enforced by the police.

DAMAGES FIXED IN AUTO ACCIDENT CASE

Because the law does not permit a jury to determine the extent to which two defendants are liable in a damage case, other than to fix the point of whether one defendant is as negligent as the other, or one defendant is entirely at fault, the Oregon Automobile company was the owner of $2750. W. H. H. Morgan and the company had made a settlement of $8000 with John F. Holmboe on account of injuries received when Morgan ran into Holmboe with an automobile on Washington street which Morgan was learning to operate at the time. To settle the amount each should pay it was decided to submit the case to the jury.

AUSTRIA FORBIDS SERBIAN MOVE

Demands Recall of Troops Sent to Scutari; Servia Refuses to Comply.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Belgrade, March 11.—Objection to Serbia sending troops to assist Montenegrin soldiers in capturing the Turkish fortress of Scutari was voiced today by the Austrian government through Baron von Ugron Von Abranfalva, the Austrian minister to Servia. He also requested the immediate recall of any Serbian troops which had been dispatched there.

The Servian minister replied that as Servia is compelled, under treaty arrangements, to assist her allies, his government would assist Montenegro despite Austria's objections.

The situation is regarded as extremely delicate. The Austrian government's objections were based on the ground that Scutari is to become the capital of Albania.

SANDY ROAD LEVIES MAKE OWNERS SQUIRM

From one end of Sandy road to the other protest has arisen over the assessments made by Deputy City Auditor Flanders for the cost of the new pavement but recently completed and accepted by the city. As the result of this a petition has been submitted to the city auditor for presentation to the city council tomorrow, asking that the assessments be distributed over a larger area.

The Sandy boulevard is an 80 foot street and beyond East Sixtieth street there is only a single track. It is along this portion of the street that the assessment is proposed for the street car company, which pays for the part of the street occupied by its track, has only half as much to pay as on the portion of the street double tracked.

The boulevard, too, is laid out differently from most streets, as it crosses intersecting streets at a diagonal, whereas the ordinary street crosses other streets at right angles. The consequence is that many of the property owners on the Sandy road will have to pay enormous assessments, some of these amounting to as high as $500 or $600. An average paving assessment is about $300.

DENY CONSPIRACY IN ALASKA COAL SUIT

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Chicago, March 11.—Efforts were made here today to prevent the introduction of documentary proofs that false entries were filed on government lands in Alaska, in the suit against Albert C. Frost of this city, who, with five others, is accused of defrauding the government out of $10,000,000 in land and coal holdings in the far north. The defense argued that this evidence was inadmissible because the filings were made by individuals and were not intended as links in a defrauding conspiracy.

MAY INVESTIGATE COMPANY'S METHOD

When United States Postal Inspector Harry G. Durand accidentally ran across some literature telling in glowing terms of a device to raise the Titanic from the depths of the Atlantic, and advertising the sale of stock in the concern that was going to do it, he received information that may lead to prosecution of officers of the Inter-Continental Salvage company in the near future on a government charge of using the mails to defraud. Confirmation of Mr. Durand's attitude toward a possible complaint against the concern could not be had, as he is out of the city for several days. United States Attorney Johnson said, however, that no action of any kind has yet been taken.

The Inter-Continental Salvage company has offices in the Wilcox building. W. D. Sisson, said to be an engineer, is its head. He claims to be the inventor of the device, a hollow steel sphere equipped with powerful electromagnets, designed to resist tremendous water pressure, and which is to be lowered to the side of wrecked vessels in the depths of the ocean for the purpose of attaching pontoons which are used in lifting the hull to the surface of the sea. The device has not been patented. Sisson said this morning that the appliance, or rather a model, is to be tried on a steel tank Monday, sunk in the Willamette river. Sisson and other officers of the company say that their operations have been entirely above board and that their books and business are wide open at any time for government inspection.

"Personally, I sympathize with the order," said Burleson today, "but I don't think Mr. Taft went far enough. I think tests determining the fitness of the applicants should have been required."
