

MANY SEEKING NEW JUDGESHIP

Circuit Judges Receive Number of Requests From Candidates.

Multnomah county circuit judges have unusual burdens upon their mind just now. If Woodrow Wilson is to be pitted because of the rush of office seekers, how about the judges in the courthouse?

The last legislature, in one of its frequent bursts of liberality, created a new justice of the peace, changing the name of the justice court, however, to the district court. It placed the selection of the third "district judge" in the hands of the circuit judges of Multnomah county.

The bill becomes a law in 90 days from adjournment of the legislature, hence the rush of candidates and the numerous "important conferences" held by the circuit judges in their chambers these days. For each candidate has a group of his lawyer friends "working" among the judges.

Among those listed as active or receptive candidates for the job, the most active, are Claude Strahan, Charles W. Garland, James E. Craib, W. S. Hurford, F. E. Swope, O. M. Hickey, F. J. Meindl and H. L. Adams, O'Brien. Several others are said to be making more or less strenuous effort to land the place.

The salary attached to the job is $2400 a year, the same as received by justices of the peace at the present time. The jurisdiction of the court is increased to include all civil cases involving up to $300, the present limit being $250.

As the same legislature that created the new district judge added County Judge Cleaton to the circuit bench, there is uncertainty among the candidates as to whether or not Judge Cleaton will also participate in the selection of the new lower court judge. Only three votes, a majority of five, will be required if the present circuit judge is to be elected, but four out of six will be necessary if Judge Cleaton also takes part.

PORTLAND'S PAINS ARE THOSE OF FAST GROWTH—HOLTON

and a training in the school of municipal efficiency as Mr. Holton's equipment for the Portland commission. Some of the first questions will be:

Is there such a system of serving water to the people of the city that there is least waste in collection and maximum efficiency in service? Are pavements of the most durable material, laid with the least delay and smallest expense? Are sewers economically constructed to give the most efficient drainage of the widest possible areas?

In a few days O. A. Dustin of the New York bureau will arrive in the city, to take up the question of a municipal reference library. Its value is in keeping officers of the city posted as to what is being done in other cities by way of improvements and mistakes. Frequently propositions are brought up about which the city officials know little. The data in a municipal reference library will show whether the matter was before considered by any other city and if so what was the success or failure of it in operation. It is called the "municipal memory."

C. A. McKenzie, who was formerly connected with the New York bureau and is now a resident of Portland, will be engaged in research work in the city engaged in research work in the city auditor's office.

Dr. Henry Bruere, who has studied the operation of commission plan government in American cities and abroad, will arrive in Portland the first week of April. He will give particular attention to the form of commission plan government proposed for Portland.

GERMANY'S FEAR IS OF THE CZAR, SAYS DELBRUECK

ward France, for the latter would certainly take advantage of any war with Russia, to carry out its revenge. Were Germany caught unprepared between two such forces it might go hard with us. Furthermore, Germany not only cannot see Austria—its ally—forced to further concessions.

"The German press and people are almost unanimous in the appreciation of the gravity of Germany's dangerous position geographically and politically, the necessity for such measures, and only differ as to the means by which the necessary money is to be raised."

"But the czar of Russia is for peace!" was suggested to Professor Delbrueck. "So was Czar Alexander," replied Delbrueck. "The Pan-Slavic spirit, which forced Alexander into war with Turkey in 1876 is the same movement which is endangering the peace of Europe today."

NEWBERG BRIDGE CONTRACTS LET

Construction Work Is to Be Rushed Despite Injunction Appeal.

(Special to The Journal.)

McMinnville, Or., March 21.—The county court has let the contract for the bridge to be built by Marion county and Yamhill county jointly at a point near Newberg over the Willamette river. The contract for the construction was let to the Pacific Coast Bridge company, and the steel to the Northwest Steel company. The entire cost of the structure will be $13,000. The bridge will be of the cantilever style, which is different than the former plan.

In a decision recently handed down by Judge Kelly, the injunction suit was dissolved which restrained Yamhill county court from building the structure.

The court then went over the legal procedure, and, starting anew, rushed the legal work through that the work of constructing might be taken up at once. Robert W. Jones of the local engineering firm of Jones & Flagg, will oversee the construction, which is to fall upon Yamhill county.

ALFONSO WILL VISIT US DESPITE ALL DENIALS

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Paris, March 21.—King Alfonso of Spain has not abandoned his idea of visiting the United States, according to the Cri De Paris, but has simply postponed fixing a date until after the birth of the new member of the royal household.

According to the above named paper, Prime Ministers Maura and Canelejas were the sole officials violently opposed to the American trip, and now that both are dead, the king proposes to complete his education by a visit to the United States. He has already commanded two of his naval officers to map out a schedule for him, it is said, and the king himself is working to obtain ratification of his plans by the ministry.

PLAN TO MAKE ROADS ACCEPT COMMON USER

The East Side Business Men's club yesterday started the circulation of petitions, asking for the annulment of the franchise of the O.-W. R. & N. company on East Second street, and granting the company a franchise on that street with a common user provision. Similar petitions annulling the franchise of the Southern Pacific company on the same street and providing for a franchise with the common user clause, are also being circulated. The petitions are being circulated together and it will require about 6000 signatures on each of them in order that they may be put on the ballot for the June election.
