

CARDINAL SAILS ON BRITISH SHIP

Ferrata, Papal Legate, and 3000 Pilgrims Go to Open Eucharistic Congress.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Rome, April 21.—Cardinal Ferrata, papal legate to the twenty-fourth international Eucharistic congress of the Catholic church, sailed today from Syracuse, on the southern coast of Italy, for the historic island of Malta, where the congress will open tomorrow.

The congress, which will last until next Monday, will be the fourth of the series which Pope Pius inaugurated several years ago. The first of these was held at Montreal, Canada, to which his holiness sent as the papal delegate Cardinal Vanuttelli, one of the most distinguished members of the Sacred college.

The program for the congress provides for elaborate functions throughout the week, culminating next Monday in a pilgrimage to the grotto of St. Paul. Following close on the congress, nearly all of the pilgrims, and especially the Americans and English, will come to Rome.

Pius Is Out of Danger. (United Press Leased Wire.) Rome, April 21.—For the first time since his last relapse, the papal physicians today failed to issue a bulletin concerning Pope Pius' condition, regarding the pontiff now as safely convalescent.

The pope passed a comfortable night, sleeping naturally and unbrokenly until after 4 o'clock this morning. Once he sat up in bed, declaring he could not breathe lying down. His condition was noticeably better Sunday.

FIVE DAY CAMPAIGN BRINGS IN $9050 SUM

When the final reports were turned in at 9:15 o'clock Saturday night at the close of the five days' campaign in the interest of an enlarged Rose City Park church, and the total of $9050 was announced, it was at once resolved that the campaign should be continued. It will proceed until Tuesday night under the present organization. The object of $15,000 is not to be lowered. On Tuesday night a new grouping may be established, with some change in the canvassing plan, but it appeared to be the sense of the workers that full success was only a matter of time and early success. The effort, and that effort will be made. There are 1300 families in the district contemplated as this church's field, and of these only 500 have been visited.

(Continued From Page One.) tract carefully, and if a few formalities in the way of giving bonds binding the contractors to remedy any defects that may develop in the bridge within a year are ready, he will answer that there is no obstacle in the way of accepting the structure.

When the question will be put to the board, the name of each of the members called, and the acceptance recorded. Mayor to Press Button. This action by the executive board will not really be binding until a meeting to confirm it is held in the city hall, where the charter provides that all business must be transacted. But directly after the opening, the mayor and board will hasten to the city hall and confirm the acceptance.

GIRL TAKES UP CLAIM TO FORGET HER WOE

(United Press Leased Wire.) Stoneham, Cal., April 21.—With the hope of being able to erase from her mind the tragic death of her fiancé, Harold Regester, in New York two years ago, Miss Bell Sanderson, a pretty young New York girl, has taken up a mining claim near here. Regester was killed in a collision between a taxicab and a streetcar in which he and his bride-to-be were riding.

QUEEN O' MAY AT BAKER, OR.

Miss Marguerite Henderson

(Special to The Journal.) Baker, Or., April 21.—Miss Marguerite Henderson, chosen Queen of the May for the Baker May day festival, in the accompanying picture is wearing the costume of Rosalind in "As You Like It," which part she took in the Shakespearean play given by the Junior and senior classes of the Baker high school last month.

will slowly descend and the draw will be open. Then will come the prettiest ceremony of the day, when three small girls, Henrietta Heppner, Mary Evelyn Munly and Caroline Levy, jointly representing east and west sides, will run to the center and standing at the junction of the two bascule spans, clasp hands. As they do so, five other little girls will run forward and strew flowers in the roadway.

County Then to Accept Span. Every one of these eight little girls is the daughter of one who has pioneered the way for the building of the bridge. The five who will strew flowers are Mary Frances Sinnott, daughter of J. P. Sinnott; Lillian Myrtle Povey, daughter of D. L. Povey; Gladys Ruth Versteeg, daughter of E. Versteeg; Katherine Lucille McGrath, daughter of E. A. McGrath; and Frances Edwina Thompson, daughter of H. C. Thompson.

As the bridge was built by the city, it is a matter of sentiment with Judge Munly and other members of the committee that it shall be christened while still nominally under control of the city. So the ceremony of turning the structure over to members of the county court will come directly after this christening.

After that there will be a few speeches, but they must all be short ones, Judge Munly says. The whole program is not to take more than half an hour.

D. Solis Cohen, as chairman of the bridge committee, may have something to say. Judge Cleeton will make a few remarks in accepting the bridge for the county. Judge J. P. Kavanaugh, former city attorney, under whose administration litigation over the building of the bridge began, and City Attorney Grant, who carried the cases to a successful conclusion in the United States supreme court, will speak. Among other speakers will be W. B. Ayer and J. C. Beck, of the Seventh Street Improvement association.

Joe Buchtel to Close Ceremony. The honor of closing the program has been saved for Joe Buchtel, now in his eighty-third year, and blind, one of Portland's best known pioneers, who, since the building of the first bridge across the Willamette in the eighties, has fought valiantly for every additional bridge.

The parade, under the leadership of Grand Marshal W. C. North, will start from Williams avenue and Alberta street at 2:30 o'clock promptly. At least 500 autos will be in line, says Mr. North. In a prominent place at the head of the procession will be the law committee of the North East Side Improvement association, which has fought every move to prevent the bridge. Besides Judge Munly, chairman, it consists of H. E. Riddell, Charles W. Fulton and Martin L. Pipes.

One of those who fought the bridge hardest was C. K. Henry. "Mr. Henry is a mighty good loser," said Mr. Povey, "and he has been invited to be a guest of honor in the parade."

F. X. Mathieu, who helped save Oregon at Champeoq, may also be in one of the parade autos. He has been invited. GIRL TAKES UP CLAIM TO FORGET HER WOE (United Press Leased Wire.) State Desert Board's Failure to Rule for Present Users Brings Threat.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., April 21.—Unless the state desert land board compel the Central Oregon Irrigation company to enlarge its central Oregon canal to a capacity sufficient to supply water to all the land sold in the Powell Butte district in Crook county, E. B. Williams, one of the land owners in that district, declared today he would bring mandamus proceedings to compel the board to act. He says it is generally admitted that the company has not fulfilled this portion of its contract, and therefore is in default and liable under a $25,000 bond guaranteeing the enlargement of this canal before this time. Mr. Williams is demanding that the board bring action against the company on this bond.

A meeting of the desert land board is called for this afternoon when the matter, which was discussed at length last Saturday afternoon, will be considered further. Last Saturday the board refused to take any action that would embarrass the company in its efforts to obtain more funds. Mr. Williams is taking the position that even if the company is forced into bankruptcy the settlers will be better off than to permit the company to continue without completing entirely the portions of the project which are now partially serving the settlers with water. He asserts that if the bond is forfeited the $25,000 thus obtained and about $40,000 in notes in the trust fund would be sufficient to clean the project up to date and give all the land holders their full amount of water. The land that would not receive water is land unsold.

The board has been endeavoring to do everything possible to enable the company to complete the entire project.

BODY FOUND IN BRUSH MAY BE OF JAQUITH

(Special to The Journal.) Hillsboro, Or., April 21.—The finding of a skeleton on the Haines place near Scholls yesterday is believed to solve the mystery of the disappearance of C. F. Jaquith, son of W. W. Jaquith, a prominent farmer, July 18, 1911. The young man went to the river to bathe and was never seen again. His clothing and his bicycle were found on the bank, but Hugh Brady, Portland grapple, could not find the body. The skeleton was found by Mrs. Thomas Haines and two children while picking flowers. The bones were scattered and had been gnawed by animals. The skull was well preserved and had a bullet hole in the right temple and a rusty revolver with three empty shells was found near by.

Coroner Barrett has called on a Newberg dentist who did work for the missing man and this may result in identification of the skeleton. The place where the skeleton was found was about two miles from the river. The father has never believed his son was dead and has followed numerous clues that accounted for his disappearance. No motive for suicide was known.

PARCEL POST CARRIES ASHES OVER CONTINENT

(United Press Leased Wire.) Oakland, Cal., April 21.—The shipping of the ashes of a cremated person by parcel post from Oakland to Milford, Mass., was learned today. On April 18 the late Mrs. Jane Stoddard was cremated at the Oakland crematory. The relatives of Mrs. Stoddard desired that the interment be in Milford and conceived the idea of shipment by parcel post after the cremation. The ashes are on their way to their destination, with no persons through whose hands they so knowing that they are handling the remains of what was a living person but a week before.
