DRAMA OF TEXAS PLAINS THRILLER

Excitement of Days When Six Shooter Law Prevailed Lived Over at Baker.
Way out on the wild plains of Texas, way back in the days when the cowboy was a king and the "bad man" with his deadly six-shooter was one of the familiar institutions—if you want to see a lot of exciting things that happened down there in those days and a lot more just as nerve thrilling that didn't happen, go to the Baker theatre this week and see "Texas."
"This calls the country classic from the pen of J. Maudlin Feigl is apparently as popular as it ever was with Portlanders who seem never to grow tired of listening to the whirring music of the lariat, the bark of the desperado's revolver and the antics of the men of cattle land when they "initiate" the tenderfoot or "play horse" with the monocolic English lard, that inevitable concomitant of all such plays.
William Lloyd, in the role of Pasquale, a border half breed, and Robert Connes, as "Freshwater" Jack Dallam, carry on a hair raising vendetta throughout two acts, and the hero finally of course kills the bad man and wins the hands of Texas West, the old ranchman's daughter. How old Colonel West, owner of the Buckhead ranch, has to let go of his big domain on a forced sale, and how the cowboy hero suddenly comes into a fortune and wreats the property away from his designing English lord, is another thread of the same story.
Robert Wayne, as the Englishman, Albee Patek and Mary Edgett, his sister and cousin, respectively, head the Anglican invasion of the plains. Walter Gilbert and Helen Strickland in comedy parts carry the unsophisticated visitors all over the plains country, to the great delight of the audience. Clifford Lancaster and Elizabeth Ross take the parts of the ranch owner and his wife.
Walter Kelley, John R. Sumner, Claude Archer, J. W. Hauck and Robert Knott are fire eating cowboys, who break into rollicking song at every opportunity. The four acts for the onlooker go with a rush and makes the onlooker forget the time it takes. "Texas" will continue to divert tired Portlanders for the rest of the week at the Baker.

PROBLEMS SOLVED FOR US IN SLEEP

Quieting of Selfhood Enables Angels to Draw Near, Declares Speaker.
"Sleep is not caused by fatigue merely, and its use is but half understood by those who would confine it to the restoration to activity of natural functions," was the observation of Mr. Nusebaum in his address at Knights of Pythias hall Sunday morning.
"Sleep is an orderly process for the spiritual development of man. All great spiritual changes are preceded by sleep. A quieting of the selfhood enables the angels to draw near and modify our evil tendencies, and suggest new avenues of use and happiness.
"Adam, in the symbolic story, represented intellectual truth, but not truth in concrete form, in use, when a deep sleep fell upon him, and during that sleep woman was created; in symbol woman is the love of use or the actual living of the truth perceived by man.
"So in us is created while asleep the ideal of love, of life, which we may consciously reach toward in waking hours. So also the problems of life are solved for us in sleep.
"Metaphysicians are just beginning to tell us of the wonderful things that may be accomplished for us in us during sleep. It depends upon the attitude of the recipient. He who turns to the creator in earnest desire for enlightenment when he lays him down to sleep, finds on waking light shining in his mind. God's ministers to man, the angels have whispered to him."

MUSICAL CLUBS IN SESSION AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Ill., April 21.—More than 500 delegates, representing a membership of 45,000 in 270 clubs in various cities of the United States, are in Chicago for the biennial convention of the National Federation of Musical Clubs. The gathering was formally opened with a reception to the visitors at the art institute this afternoon. The regular sessions will begin tomorrow morning and will conclude Friday with the election of officers. Each afternoon and evening the program will include concerts and recitals in which many noted musicians will take part.

CHOOSING OWN COMPANY, THEME

Environment Plays Large Part in Forming Character, Declares Minister.
"Choosing Our Own Company" was the theme of a sermon delivered by Rev. Robert Gray at the Tabernacle church last evening. The sermon was taken from the fourth chapter of the Acts, which contains an interesting account of the imprisonment of Apostles Peter and Paul.
Following is a synopsis:
"And being let go they went to their own company." We have here a hindrance and a choice. And just as we will find it in our lives, in this case that as soon as all hindrance was removed these disciples of Jesus immediately found their way to the society of those who were like minded.
"We have come to see that environment plays a large part in the formation of character. Ruskin says we even take on the character of the natural scenery and other things which surround us in childhood.
"Soloman says: 'He that walketh with wise men shall be wise, but a companion of fools shall be destroyed.'
"The disciples were kept from their own company for a time, so we find frequently that souls are bound. In the story Jesus tells of the prodigal son he says: 'And when he came to himself, he said: 'I shall arise and go to my father.' Pleased bound him to a life of sin and shame in a foreign land. The rich young ruler wanted to follow Christ but his riches bound him. Sometimes friends hinder and again it is business. What we want is freedom. To follow Christ is to break away from many hindrances.
"A man's own company shows to others what he is. Birds of a feather flock together.'
"It was charged against Jesus that he associated with publicans and sinners. But his divinity kept him from being contaminated. A man's company is the test of the regenerated life. 'By this shall ye know ye have passed from death unto life if ye love the brethren.'
"And lastly, a man's own company settles his destiny. If we find our chief enjoyment in the society of sinners now we would hardly find pleasure in the society of saints in a future life. We are choosing every day and choosing for eternity."

INSPECTED AND PASSED.

Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.
A Chicago politician gave his cousin, fresh from the old sod, a job as smoke inspector. He was not instructed as to his duties, but told to go out and inspect.
At the end of his first month he made this report: "This is to certify that I have inspected the smoke of this city for the past thirty days. I have to report that I have found plenty of smoke, and that the smoke is of good quality!"

CANDIDATES WILL BE 'DONE BROWN'

In Self-Defense, Office-seekers Will Attend Press Club "Breakfast."
The keenest of interest has been shown in the biennial gridiron breakfast to be given by the Portland Press club next Sunday, April 27, at noon. The place will be announced as soon as it is definitely known how many will attend. Return postal cards have been sent out and the committee in charge of arrangements hopes to have all responses in by tomorrow at the latest.
All male candidates for nomination at the coming primary election have been invited and a great many have already signified their intention to attend. There are more than half a hundred in the field which means that there will be plenty of material to work on while the breakfast is being served.
A number of the Evening Pan, the club's official organ, will be issued for the breakfast and it will contain several pages of good political reading, dealing with candidates and burning issues. All the bright lights of local newspaperdom are at work grinding out copy for the Pan, which, it is promised, will be a shining hot.
Of course the publication of the Evening Pan will not be the only feature of the breakfast. A program, rivaling that furnished at the big "Beefsteak" in honor of the club's life members, will be pulled off with the rapidity of missiles from a Gatling gun. There will be no

CONGREGATION REFUSES TO LET PASTOR LEAVE

The congregation at Forbes Presbyterian church in Upper Albina yesterday, secured in the knowledge that their old pastor, Rev. Harry H. Pratt, is going to remain with them, turned out in large numbers to rewelcome him. It was by a unanimous vote recently that the Forbes church refused to allow him to resign and appealed to the Portland Presbytery not to dissolve the pastoral relations. That body also declined to accept his resignation. With this opposition Mr. Pratt felt that he could not press his request to be relieved of his connections at the Albina church.
Rev. Mr. Pratt has been pastor of the church for 11 years and during that time erected a new structure and the congregation under his guidance has succeeded in freeing it from debt.

The young people of the 21 Christian Endeavor societies of the Third district union, comprising the district located north of Sullivan's gulch, are to have their next regular rally in the Church of the Strangers, Grand avenue and Wasco street, Friday night. For the past month the young people of that church through a committee headed by Miss Mildred Frost and Miss Blodwyn Williams, have been busy arranging a program.
