

NEW YORK HAS NO OPPOSITION FOR '14 MEETING

Klamath Falls and Corvallis Both After 1915; Rebekahs to Confer Chivalry Degree; Muscovites Meet Tonight.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Medford, Or., May 21.—The real work of the grand lodge of Rebekahs will be done in meeting late this afternoon. At the morning session the grand lodge was occupied with committee details until adjournment. It is probable that election of officers in both orders will be made before night and that the next meeting place will be chosen. McMinville has no opposition for the 1914 convention. Klamath Falls has created a strong sentiment for 1915 and Corvallis is after the 1916 session. The Rebekahs signally will honor two southern Oregon women this afternoon when they will confer the degree of chivalry on Mrs. Nannie Wolf of Medford and Mrs. Alice Ulrich of Jacksonville. Mrs. Wolf is a charter member of the Medford lodge and the second noble grand. She is 78 years of age and it is with delight that her many lodge members are to honor her. This evening the Muscovites will hold their high links and parade following which the large reception of all the orders will be given. The parade this afternoon furnished a spectacular feature to townpeople as well as visitors. With seven bands in line and all the orders in uniform an impressive display was made.

CHARGE JEWELER WITH HOLDING BACK ASSETS

Alfred P. Knox, a jeweler of The Dalles, who was declared bankrupt September 12 of last year, was indicted by the federal grand jury this morning for withholding assets and swearing falsely in his bankruptcy petition. Knox is now out on bond, having been arrested several months ago. Knox is charged with having secreted jewels, valuable gold and silver work and some shares of stock in a Portland concern, the total coming to a value of $7000. The federal grand jury finished its three weeks' session with today's report, and adjourned until June 23. Six secret indictments were returned along with five, the defendants in which have already been arrested.

Archie Randall, a telephone lineman, was indicted for violation of the white slave traffic act. He is charged in six counts with having taken Pearl Saunders from Portland to Kelso, Wash., for immoral purposes. The girl has a child a few weeks old.

Alphonso Lagano, an Italian, was indicted for white slavery in bringing Lillian Madison from Caldwell, Idaho, to Huntington.

Frank B. Cameron, a native of the lawless South Slough country, near Coos Bay, was indicted for selling liquor without the special internal revenue tax.

Frank Gordines and George Dumore of Klamath county are indicted for carrying whiskey into the Klamath Indian reservation.

SECRET SERVICE CHIEF IN PORTLAND TODAY

William J. Flynn, head of the greatest detective agency in the world, the United States secret service, is in Portland. He arrived here last night for a little informal visit with his friend, S. A. Connell, secret service agent for the Oregon district, and will leave tonight for Seattle.

Chief Flynn, who is of ample girth and genial countenance, explained that his visit is of no special significance. "Someone from my department has to make the rounds two or three times a year," explained Flynn. "I was called to Pueblo on a case, so I just decided to come on and make a trip of it." At Salt Lake City he stopped for a couple of days. There is no secret service office there and he made the necessary arrangements to open one. One day will be spent in Seattle and Chief Flynn will be back here again Friday on his way to San Francisco. From the California metropolis he will swing down through Los Angeles, over through Texas, and then back up to St. Louis. Flynn was in Portland about six years ago and he has been congratulating himself this time because the weather is fine. Two trips here were made in 1906, when he came as a witness in a counterfeiting case. Both times it was raining. Connell has kept him busy ever since he dropped into town. Last night after putting up at the Oregon hotel he used the local agency's machine to pound out half a dozen letters and telegrams and afterward went to the orchestra. This morning he was up early and was in court, after meeting everyone in the federal building, to see J. C. Monahan, a counterfeiter apprehended by Connell, sentenced.

HIDES MATCHES IN EARS; SETS CELL AFIRE

Using his ears in which to hide matches when being subjected to a search in the county jail, Carl Huettner, a carpenter recently from North Yakima, Wash., who suddenly became insane while listening to a trial in Judge Gatens' court yesterday morning, later used the matches to set fire to a padded cell in which he was locked. He not only had matches concealed in his ears, but had several hid in the cuffs of his trousers.

When first taken to jail yesterday he was carefully searched by one of the jailers and everything that could be found was taken from him. After being locked in the padded cell for some time, loud screams were heard and the jailers rushed to the scene to find smoke curling out through the small hole in the padded door. The door was opened and the fire in the padding was extinguished.

Huettner was again searched, this time pieces of matches being found in the trouser cuffs, and these were taken away. To make doubly sure he was compelled to take off these clothes and again he was locked up. Again unusual noises were heard and the jailers found that he had taken off his hose, placed them in a neat little pile in the corner of his cell and set fire to them. Where he had concealed the matches was not learned until someone happened to notice a piece of a match protruding from one of his ears. Everything was then taken from him and he was placed in another cell. As he made no more noise there he was again locked in the padded cell. He will be examined today.

SENTENCED TO PRISON; PASSED RAISED NOTES

John M. Monahan was sentenced in the federal court this morning to two years and six months in the federal penitentiary for passing and using 200 notes. Monahan pleaded guilty Monday. According to his story, he was a bartender at Astoria, when he fell in with Jack Larson, Larson was the expert who made the bills and Monahan passed them. Larson Monday was sentenced to spend five years at the government penitentiary.

Frank W. Harris, the Rogue River druggist, who Monday was indicted on a charge of concealing assets from a bankruptcy trustee and swearing falsely in his schedule, pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Bean today and was given a year in jail. His attorney admitted that he "had foolishly secreted some of the assets."

SOME CANDIDATES MAY WITHDRAW

Number of Seekers After Commissionerships Discuss Plans.

A meeting of several candidates for a commissioner was held last night in the office of L. D. Mahone, at which plans for the withdrawal of some of the candidates from the race were discussed. Dr. George B. Van Waters, who was one of those present, said: "The sentiments expressed by those present were certainly most unselfish, in placing the best interests of the city ahead of that of any individual. The members all expressed a desire to help out as much as possible in securing the best men possible for the places to be filled." W. H. McMonies, who was present, stated that he did not care to participate after he found out what the nature of the meeting was; but did state that it was the consensus of opinion that if the committee of 100 endorsed 12 or 15 men, and that if their names were not in that list, they would withdraw from the race. Those who attended the meeting were E. Versteeg, Henry C. Thompson, M. C. Reed, W. H. McMonies, L. D. Mahone and Dr. George B. Van Waters. Many others were invited, but did not attend, several stating that other plans interfered. Other meetings are to be held in connection with this plan of withdrawal, and announcement of the decision will be made shortly.

The assembly today voted to request Pres. Wilson to forbid the wearing of distinctive religious garb by teachers in government schools.

BANKER SHERIDAN SUITS MERELY CIVIL

(Special to The Journal.) Roseburg, Or., May 21.—District Attorney Brown when interviewed today said there is no foundation to the story that criminal proceedings may be filed against R. H. Sheridan, the former Roseburg banker. The suits filed against him were simply civil suits to recover about $20,000 loaned to him on promissory notes. The notes are held by three parties and Brown is their attorney.

SUB-COMMITTEE WILL INVESTIGATE STRIKE

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, May 21.—The senate labor committee today named Senators Boah, Swanson and Shields as a sub-committee to consider the resolution of Senator Kern demanding a senate investigation of the situation in the coal fields of West Virginia. It is expected they will report favorably. Kern will demand a roll call when the report of the sub-committee is made.

SALEM FILES COMPLAINT AGAINST WATER COMPANY

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., May 21.—The city of Salem today filed a complaint with the railroad commission against the Salem Water, Light & Power company, alleging that the service furnished by the company is entirely inadequate. The complaint states that in parts of the city districts are entirely without city water, and in some portions where sewers have been laid there is no water available for using them. The complaint asks for an extension and enlargement of the company's system, and also an examination and adjustment of the entire system and plant.

California for Immigration Job.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, May 21.—Semi-official announcement of the selection of State Senator Caminetti, of California, to be commissioner-general of immigration is made here today. He will succeed Daniel J. Keefe, of Detroit. At the White House it was said that Caminetti's appointment was probable, although no definite announcement has yet been made in any official way. Caminetti has been prominent for many years in California politics, and has devoted much time to a special study of immigration.

PRESIDENT TRIMS ANTI-JAP SPEECH

Asks Congressman Sisson Not to Endanger Situation by Talk.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, May 21.—Indication that the dispute with Japan over California's alien land law is really serious was given here today by President Wilson. It came when the president again disregarded precedent and exercised what practically amounts to a censorship over speechmaking in congress which might complicate the situation growing out of Japan's protest. Learning that Representative Sisson of Mississippi again intended to discuss the Japanese question, Sisson was summoned to the White House and the president asked him to eliminate all portions of his speech that might inflame anti-American feeling in Japan. Sisson assured the president that he had not intended to commit any diplomatic breach in his speech next Friday, merely proposing to discuss the legal phases of alien ownership of land. Later Representative Sisson said the remarks he intended to make would be highly complimentary to Japan, leading to a report that the president's warning had resulted in the Mississippiian "toning down" the address he is to make in the house Friday.

DIocese of Oregon IS IN CONVENTION

Impressive ceremonies attended the opening of the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Diocese of Oregon at the Pro-Cathedral of St. Stephen last night. The principal address was delivered by Bishop Scadding. When the bishop read the names of the members of the diocese who had passed away during the year, all stood with bowed heads. An eulogy and a prayer was given for the departed. Unity and cooperation was the keynote of the address given by Bishop Scadding, who called members of the church to greater endeavors for the church. In making a review of the work, Bishop Scadding stated that there had been but few changes in the clergy. The present number in the Oregon diocese is thirty, ministering to fourteen parishes, twenty-seven missions and five stations. To encourage smaller parishes and missions, the bishop has organized the "Reinforcement Fund," aided by laymen which helps weak congregations to help themselves. Another means of affording aid to the various parishes, which has met with the highest approval of Chancellor R. L. Gilman is the establishment of the "Church Endowment Society." This plan is to secure endowments by means of life insurance persons taking out insurance in favor of the church or some of its institutions. The convention is in session today and will conclude tomorrow.

CHARGES ARE FILED AGAINST POLICEMAN

Charges were filed in the city auditor's office today by William Scoles and W. W. Knox against Patrolman Charles Baksky, alleging that Baksky without provocation beat and mistreated them on the morning of April 15. Previous to this charges of brutality were filed against Baksky by a woman of the Mount Scott district. Scoles says he was driving up the street from the Alder dock when one of the horses in his team slipped and fell. He says Baksky told him to get another team to help pull the load. While Scoles was preparing to get off the wagon to go for assistance, he says, Baksky pulled him down from the seat and hit him on the head with a club, inflicting a painful wound. Knox, a fellow teamster of Scoles, saw the predicament of his fellow and hastened to offer him aid in the shape of another team. Knox says Baksky addressed him in an insulting manner and asked why Knox was "butting in." The policeman then grabbed Knox, according to the teamster's statement, shoved him along the street and kicked him in the back.

AUDITORIUM BONDS BIBS STILL TOO LOW

Still further delay in the construction of the new public auditorium is promised in the low bond market at present prevailing. The auditorium commission related bids for $200,000 of the $100,000 bond issue last month because the most favorable bid was only as high as 91 cents on the dollar.

Bids then received were rejected and now ones advertised for. Yesterday the new bids were opened and were found to be lower yet. The high bid was that of Henry Teal at $7.78. The only other bid submitted was for $7.33. The commission will hold a meeting in the next day or two and it is certain that these latest bids will be rejected also, as, in the opinion of the commissioners, there would not be enough money realized to construct the auditorium at the figures offered. Consulting Engineer E. W. Stern of New York announced yesterday that complete plans for the auditorium building would be presented to the commission probably within the next month, but it now looks like at least six months will elapse before satisfactory bids can be secured, according to the opinion of local bond dealers.

SEND MOTORCYCLE JOY RIDERS HOME

Five couples joyriding on motorcycles were stopped last night by the police and lectured for being out after 10 o'clock. This action is in view of Chief Slover's recent order to stop the practice of cyclists taking girls on their machines for joy rides, as many complaints have been made by parents of such girls. Patrolman Smith stopped Royal Darling, 207 Halsey street, and Dorothy Bakt, 1245 East Stark street, at Union avenue and Hassalo street, and sent them home. He also stopped George H. Getelman, 306 Hall street, and Eva Campbell, 608 Rodney avenue, at Halsey and Union avenue, and gave them a similar lecture.

Patrolman Croxford stopped Ruben Johnson, 1923 East Twenty-first street, north, and Dorothy Warren, 509 Vancouver avenue, took their names and addresses and sent them home. He also stopped Carl L. Lolk, 890 Borthwick street, and Marie Burchum, and gave them a lecture about joyriding on a motorcycle. Patrolman Croxford stopped Fred Bruchert, 1102 Belmont street, and TrVerne Bowen, 1084 East Yamhill street, and told them to go home. Thirty minutes later, when the same patrolman stopped a motorcycle at Forty-second street and Sandy Boulevard, the riders proved to be Bruchert and Miss Bowen. This time the father of Bruchert was notified by the patrolman, and they were sent home for the second time.

STEAMER TO SAIL DIRECT FOR ORIENT

S. S. Flintshire of Royal Mail, to Have Bunkers Filled With Coal.

When the British steamship Flintshire arrives here May 26 from London and way ports she will have loaded all her Puget Sound cargo and taken on her bunker coal so that she can steam from here direct, according to the statement of A. T. Frichard, local representative of Frank Waterhouse & Co., Pacific coast agents of the Royal Mail Steam Packet company. This is done, it is said, to give the local shippers the advantage of a direct line to the orient and Europe. It is also understood that the greater part of the cargoes to be loaded on the Royal Mail steamers will be taken here. When the Harpagus sailed from here she did not take any cargo from Puget Sound as is usually customary, but it was necessary for her to go back to Comox to take on her bunker coal. With the other steamers this will be done before the steamers come to Portland. In this connection the shippers here are beginning to see more and more the necessity for coal bunkers on the Columbia river capable of coaling large Trans-Pacific steamers for their voyage across to Japan ports. The Flintshire will be followed by the British steamer Falls of Orchy, which sailed from London on March 18 and will be due to arrive here on June 24.
