

CABINET PONDS JAPANESE NOTE, NO REPLY FRAMED

China Says Japan Desires Early but Not Hasty Action on California Land Law Difficulty.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Washington, June 6.—The cabinet today considered Japan's rejoinder to Secretary Bryan's note on the California land law difficulty. No reply will be framed until the next meeting of the president's advisers.

President Wilson advised the cabinet that Ambassador China said Japan desired early but not hasty action. He said the negotiations would continue indefinitely, probably until long after the Webb bill becomes an effective law.

Canada Takes Notice.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Ottawa, June 6.—In the senate yesterday the matter of Pacific coast defense came up when Senator Power, stating that in this age wars come suddenly, asked what would happen if 200,000 Japanese troops were to land on the Pacific coast of Canada. In British Columbia today, he declared, there were fewer than 200 regular troops and only 2000 militia. With the Canadian Pacific railway seized by the Japanese now in Canada, the dominion would have a hard time getting back Vancouver and Victoria. There were at present, the senator insisted, no properly fortified places in British Columbia.

Banker Talks Peace.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Los Angeles, Cal., June 6.—That there is not the slightest danger of war between the United States and Japan, and that the public men of Japan believe American public sentiment will amicably adjust the difficulty arising over the California anti-alien land law, is the declaration of Dr. Soyeda, former president of the Bank of Formosa and the International Bank of Japan, and envoy of the associated chambers of commerce of Japan. Soyeda declared that his mission to this country is to explain the situation to Japanese here and to counsel patience, Saturday he leaves for Washington.

MEN'S WAGES ARE INQUIRED INTO BY VICE COMMITTEE

Edward Hillman, head of a department store, testified that he employed 47 men at an average wage of $14.48 a week, and boys at $5 per week. He thought $12 a week was inadequate to support a family of three, including a daughter of 16 years.

$1000 a Year to Marry.

David Forgan, president of the National City bank, when asked if any married men employed in his bank earned less than $1000 a year, replied: "No. We don't let them. A bank clerk must dress better than a working man and he cannot maintain himself properly on less than $1000 a year. We do not allow men in our employ who earn less than $1000 a year to marry unless they get the consent of the officers of the bank."

Forgan explained that the men themselves had adopted this rule which was one of the regulations of their "pension organization."

Jacob Rosenwald, head of the great house of Sears, Roebuck & Co., testified that no married employes of his firm get less than $12 a week, and that the number of children the employes has is not considered. He denied that he had hired detectives to shadow the vice investigators.

Every Woman Entitled to Work.

St. Louis, June 6.—"Every woman is entitled to work in this country, and if she is engaged in a gainful occupation should be paid a proper minimum wage—12 a week or more."

This is the assertion made by Mrs. Raymond Robbins, a Chicago settlement worker in justifying her encouragement to women to move to the centers of population to secure employment. Her action in the matter called for spirited criticism from Lieutenant-Governor Painter, who declared that the women in the Trades Union league, of which Mrs. Robbins is president, is encouraging girls of this country to break home ties and submit to slavery.

The lieutenant-governor's contention was that the constant flocking of the young women to the cities will eventually result in the depopulation of the country, or at best its population by children of foreign parentage.

Mrs. Robbins admitted most of the contentions made by the presiding officer of the Missouri senate wage investigating committee, but insisted that her purpose was to make the women rebellious, that they may not cease in their demands for more pay and better working conditions until they should meet with success.

PUBLIC DOCK BIDS TO BE ADVERTISED FOR BY JUNE 30

(Continued From Page One.) pany. Should the answer not be agreeable the commission will allow them to stay until their lease expires January 1, 1915, and pay nothing, in the meantime building on the property secured from the Pacific Milling & Elevator company and the Martin estate. The ferry landing will move from its present site at the foot of Seventeenth street to the north end of the Martin dock property.

Planning East Side Dock.

If the commission does not build on the Star Sand company's property at once it will be used as an open wharf where bulk material can be unloaded, such as steel, iron and other heavy freight of that description.

Engineer Hegardt also reported that the plans for the east side dock are in preparation and will be ready so that bids can be called for the latter part of July. He reported that a detail map of the harbor from the south boundary to Linton has been completed, a blueprint of the map now being hung on the wall of the commission's room. It is the result of over eight months' field work and shows all existing docks and property, and heights of docks above the

HIS FIRST NAME IS CLAUDE; SECRET IS OUT

He is known wherever he goes as King Cole. Probably because he looks the part of the "jolly old soul," and also acts it. Just at present, King Cole, who hails from Boise, where he sells groceries, is a guest at the Imperial, and everybody there calls him King.

If one should attempt to find out his given name, there would be a difficulty for it is said that many of his closest friends know him by no other name.

A letter, however, came addressed to Claude Cole at the Imperial yesterday and King Cole claimed it, so the secret is out. The King is one of the busiest boosters Idaho ever produced, and in 10 minutes he can tell more about Idaho in general and Boise in particular than anyone else who ever visited Portland.

King Cole is an Elk. He is a great big Elk, in the matter of size, and he is proud of the fact. In fact, he is so proud of it that he was not half satisfied with an ordinary Elk's tooth to hang on his watch fob, so he sallied forth in search of one that would be in proportion to his size. Somewhere, somewhere, he found a mastodon tooth that resembled minutely the shape of an Elk's tooth, so King had it carefully mounted and he wears it. None but a very large man could wear it with comfort, for it is the biggest Elk emblem in existence.

ALFALFA AND GRAIN CROPS TO BE HEAVY

"You never saw such alfalfa in all your born days, as they started cutting last Monday, and there will be seven or eight tons to the acre this season," said Colonel H. G. Newport, the well known dairyman, farmer, rancher, investor and business man of Hermiston, who is registered at the Imperial. "The wheat is fine, and the backward season has not done the least bit of harm as far as we can see. Of course, the dairy interests are responsible for the advancement to a great extent," said the colonel. Colonel Newport, who has been in Portland several days, will return to his home today.
