RIP VAN WINKLE OF STOCKTON SLEEPS FOR 15 MONTHS, AWAKENS

Finds Himself on Court House Lawn, Looks in Window and Sees His Gray Bearded Face

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Stockholm, Cal., June 12.—James A. Oliver, aged 69, awoke after sleeping on the courthouse lawn yesterday. "Where's the Carbonate theater?" he asked the first man he met. The pedestrian smiled and walked away. Then Oliver passed a show window and looked in a mirror. The face of the gray bearded man confronting him was startling. He never remembered wearing a beard before. "What city is this?" asked the stranger. "This is Stockton, Cal." "You mean to say this isn't Los Angeles?" "No, sir."

Then Oliver sat down on a curbing and thought hard. Between March 8, 1912, when he called on the secretary of the Loyal Order of Moose in Los Angeles and paid his lodge dues, and at the time of his awakening on the lawn, his mind appeared a complete blank. Oliver was well dressed. He had several dollars in his pocket. This morning he took a train and started back to Los Angeles. He says he is an old actor, and that several years ago he fell and injured his head.

VAN WINKLE QUILTS; TO OPEN OWN OFFICE

I. H. Van Winkle, first assistant attorney general.

Salem, Or., June 12.—I. H. Van Winkle, first assistant attorney general, announced today that he had tendered his resignation to Attorney General Crawford, to become effective July 1. He has held the position since February, 1912, when he was appointed by the present attorney general. He is resigning to begin the practice of law in Salem for himself. Attorney General Crawford said he was not ready to announce whom he will appoint as Van Winkle's successor, but it likely will be his son, James Crawford, who is now studying law at Harvard. He was formerly second assistant attorney general, which position he resigned last fall before leaving for school.

Attorney Van Winkle, who is a native of Marion county, was graduated from Willamette university in 1898 and from the law department in 1901. He practiced in Salem until he was appointed assistant attorney general. In 1910 he was the Republican nominee for circuit judge and was defeated by Judge Galloway. He is a member and secretary of the board of trustees of the Willamette university, and is an instructor in the law department in constitutional law and the code.

COUNCILMAN DENIES BEING ASSAULTED

Councilman Tom Monks denies that he was woman handled, punched, beaten, bullied, cleaned, pummeled, overpowered, overthrown, put to rout or trampled upon by anyone while attempting to get through the parade line at Fifth and Washington streets, Tuesday night. He admits, however, that a woman gave him a shove, but that was all.

It was reported that he was knocked to the ground by a woman, then rolled about on the sidewalk. "I wanted to get across the street to assist a woman relative to her friends in the Perkins hotel," explained Councilman Monks this morning. "I got through the back of the crowd all right, and started under the rope, when a woman made some remark and gave me one of those awful stares."

"An officer stopped me for a moment, but when I told him my mission he allowed me to pass. After locating the woman relative I started back. As luck happened I went back through the same place I had gotten out. This woman was there. As I passed here, she gave another one of those looks and putting her hand on my shoulder, gave me a slight shove. That's all there was to it. I was not beaten up nor was I seriously injured."

PRINCIPALLY ABOUT PEOPLE

"Hands Up and Down The Pacific Coast with My City Oakland," is the motto and slogan we have adopted and the pledge which we intend to give to all our hosts," said Fred E. Reed, chairman of the "Royal Oaks," who are stopping at the Oregon. "We thought we had the only place on the Pacific Coast worth while, but this trip has been a revelation to us, and we shall now advocate a bigger thought, the one embraced in our slogan and pledge. We had an idea of what kind of people we would meet when we came here, but we had no idea that we would be treated so royally."

Leslie F. Rice, secretary of the Royal Oaks, in commenting on Portland yesterday, said: "It has been nine years since I have been here, and I'll be blessed if I recognize the place. But, it's a good bet that it won't be nine years before I come again."

"I have seen every building that has ever been erected in Myrtle Point, put up from the start to the finish. I was where Myrtle Point now is, long before the town was ever thought of, and when there was nothing but Indian trails through the woods," said Z. T. Johnston, who is in Portland in attendance at the Masonic Grand Lodge. "There are good prospects for the coming year, and we expect a lot of business before the year is over." Mr. Johnston has been a resident of that neighborhood for 33 years.
