GASOLINE GUS WINS THE RED BADGE OF COURAGE

DOLLY DIMPLE MEETS WITH HUMPTY DUMPTY

Alas! no sooner said, while on the wall he sits at ease, Than suddenly he slips! "Don't fall," cries Dolly Dimple, "please!"

Too late—he falls KERSMASH! And from the book rush many men, With horses. But they try in vain to get him up again.

"No use," they say, and roll him off. "It's quite no use at all. And Dolly Dimple says, "I think that I'll keep off the wall!"
