S. Attorney General McReynolds, Probably the most radical and far reaching exposition of the food and drugs act since its enactment was made when Secretaries Houston, McAdoo and Redfield, charged with enforcing this statute ruled that meat and meat products in interstate or foreign commerce, which hitherto have been exempted from the provisions of the pure food law, may be selsed if misbranded or adulterated. Beginning at once, manufacturers of meat foods will be required to comply strictly with the food and drugs act as well as with the meat inspection law. The action was taken on the strength of an opinion by Attorney General Mc-Reynolds. The three secretaries revoked a regulation adopted in October, 1906, only four months after the passage of the pure food law, which had prevented the department of agriculture, according to a statement by Secretary Houston, "from prosecuting manufacturers of meat foods under the pure food law, or ordering seizures or ducts in interstate or foreign commerce,

First local grown raspberries of the season were offered on the local market today. The shipment was from Oregon City and was on display at the wholesaie produce house of Mark Levy & Co.

The first offering was of excellent quality and was quoted at 180 per pound. According to special reports received by The Journal, the crop of raspberries in the Willamette veiley this season will be the heavlest on record. Reports indicate that the crop is ripening fast and shipments to Front street will become general within a few days. The acrease in raspberries this season is greater than ever before at all local points, while in the interior a further increase. This, together with the vary excellent trop prospects per acre, assures a greater output than the local market has ever received.

Because of the small crop of canning strawberries this season, it is likely that there will be a much larger call for loganberries and raspberries for this purpose. The former crop outlook is very favorable.
