

Social and Personal

MISS HARRIET POMEROY Miss Beatrice Nickel and Miss Zita of San Francisco, Miss Calista Stout of Chicago and Miss Ruth Wells of Danvers, N. H., who are guests in the city, are the inspiration for many delightful affairs in the smart set this week. With our strange yet really wonderful climate, there is no rest for society. Portland is at once a winter and summer resort. Lent is but partly observed, so from one season to another the social whirl speeds on until the Portlanders must needs fly from their own peaceful city to find a rest from it all.

When the older set in society formally close the spring season with the last big teas and cotillions, the young people from college swoop down on them with visitors to entertain, and so the summer season is as gay as winter.

Returned Home.

Mrs. Frederick A. Jacobs, who with her son, Fred A. Jacobs Jr., left early in June for the east to attend the graduation of her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Jacobs from Dana Hall, returned home last Saturday. Miss Elizabeth will have at her house guests, here this summer, a school friend, Miss Katharine Barton of Kansas City, Mo., for a month or six weeks. Mrs. J. C. Cochrane, also of Kansas City, will visit at the Jacobs home the guest of Mrs. Jacobs, for about a month. They will arrive tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Sinnott returned home this morning after an extended trip south. For the past three months they have been traveling in the southern California, Mexico, Panama and the southern states. They went from San Francisco by steamer to Panama, making many interesting stops en route in Mexico, and then home by way of New Orleans, making side trips to Florida and other points of interest, through southern California stopping at Coronado, Del Monte and Lake Tahoe, en route.

Congratulations Received.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Sallor are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a son, who will be called for his father, George R. Sallor, Jr.

Birthday Honored.

Mrs. Richard Dunmire was pleasantly surprised with a delightful luncheon party Monday afternoon given by Mrs. T. H. Edwards. Mrs. Dunmire met Mrs. Edwards by appointment on the mezzanine floor of the hotel at 12 o'clock to be confronted with the assembled guests for luncheon. The table was very prettily decked with flowers. By the plate of the honor guest a beautiful basket in Venetian glass was filled with pink sweet peas, a gift from the guests. Each place was marked with a corsage of flowers. The guests were Mrs. John Stonerod, Mrs. Harry Calk, Mrs. Alice Stonerod, Mrs. James G. Kidwell, Mrs. J. P. Jaeger and little Virginia Edwards.

Rayner-Williams Wedding.

This evening at the First Presbyterian church Miss Ida Louise Williams and Harold Rayner will be married at 8 o'clock by Rev. John H. Boyd, pastor of the church. Miss Williams is the daughter of Mrs. Emma L. Williams. She is an attractive girl of the blond type, blue-eyes and fair-haired. She is very popular in the younger set. She will be attended by Miss Marcia Parker, as maid of honor, and Miss Shirley Flinn as bridesmaid. The church ceremony will be attended by a large gathering of friends, but the reception following is to be for the relatives and intimate friends. Miss Shirley Flinn gave an informal garden party for Miss Williams Monday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ambrose Cronin, at Garden Home. The surprise of the afternoon was a shower for the bride-to-be. Refreshments were served in the summer house. The guests were Miss Dorris Byford, Miss Maurine Campbell, Miss Grace Bingham, Miss Harriet Harlow, Miss Mabel Riggs, Miss Marcia Parker, Mrs. Fred Martin and Miss Williams.

Reception to Honor Miss Jessop.

About 100 guests thronged the home of Mrs. John T. McDonnell this afternoon when her daughter, Miss Miriam McDonnell, received from 3 until 6 o'clock in honor of Miss Flora Jessop, whose wedding to Theodore Jennings will be an event of next month. Miss McDonnell is to be one of the bride's maids. The house was a bower of fragrant flowers. In the hall where Miss Flavia McDonnell held the card trays were quantities of red roses and palms effectively arranged to screen the orchestra which played in a recess of the hall. The drawing room where the receiving line stood and the living room were also decked in red roses, ferns and palms. Pink was the keynote of the decorations in the dining room, where artistic clusters of pink sweet peas were used with maiden hair fern.

Mrs. William Jessop and Mrs. McDonnell received with Miss McDonnell and her honor guest.

Miss Mary Jessop was attired in Nile green, charming with elaborations of rare old point Brussels. She carried pink roses.

Mrs. Jessop wore a black crepe meadow gown trimmed with black chantilly and held an arm bouquet of red roses.

Miss McDonnell was attractively gowned in flame hued charmeuse trimmed in white lace and chiffon of the same tones. She carried a bouquet of bright red sweet peas to match her gown.

Miss Jessop wore golden brown velvet made with a cream lace bodice and she carried an arm full of black-eyed Susans.

In the dining room Mrs. John Twohy, Mrs. Lynn Covert, Mrs. John Manning and Mrs. James Sheehy presided at the table.

Assisting about the rooms were Miss Belle McDonnell, Miss Jean Maxwell, Miss Mary Jessop and Miss Margaret Sheehy. At the punch bowl Mrs. William Maloney, Miss Alta Cox and Miss Maud Maloney served.

Visiting Here.

Miss Helen Platt of Salem, Ohio, arrived last Saturday to be the house guest of her sister, Mrs. R. T. Street. Miss Platt will remain here until about August 1, passing part of her time with her cousin, Mrs. W. L. Straugh. A number of smart affairs are planned by Mrs. Street and Mrs. Straugh for their guest.

Reception and Art Exhibit.

Cards have been received for a reception and exhibition of original paintings, "Priscilla, the Puritan Maiden," and a collection of oil and water color landscapes, etc., by W. L. Everett known as the studio of Dr. Clement B. Shaw, 218 Tilford bldg., corner Tenth

PISTOL POCKET FOR WOMEN NEW FASHION

Ladies must carry guns this fall and winter. Fashion has decreed it, fashion speaking through the National Ladies' Tailors and Dressmakers' association—whose national convention has just adjourned—and this photograph shows one of the approved styles.

Of course, the pocket is not large and will not carry a "forty-four." It will hold a .22 caliber, short barreled weapon, the bullet from which will not kill unless it strikes directly a vital spot.

The other day Mrs. Robert H. Elder of Brooklyn, one of the busiest suffragettes in the United States, sought a license to carry a pistol, and she may set the fashion among women who seek the vote. The men milliners would not say they had designed their fashion to meet the suffragette demand.

and Morrison, Friday afternoon and evening, July 11.

Society Notes.

Mrs. D. K. Cliff and Miss Best from Portland are the guests at Vine Maple cottage, the home of Mrs. C. A. Woodling, of Cannon Beach, and are having a delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Noble are in their new home at 1507 East Salmon Street, where they will go at home to their friends.

Dr. De Lauerer, who has been sojourning in Los Angeles for the last nine months, will pass the summer vacation in Portland, returning to resume his school duties in the fall.

ENGAGED GIRLS

By Edna K. Wooley.

(Copyright, 1913, by E. K. Wooley.) According to a court decision in Kansas City, an engaged girl may have as many beaux as she likes, and if her fiance, in a fit of jealousy, breaks the engagement, the fact that she received attentions from other men is no bar to recovery of damages should she bring a breach of promise suit.

There is a strong tendency upon the part of engaged people for each to demand that the other should give up former friends of the opposite sex. Often, when there is no actual engagement, young folks who are "going together" show their devotion by not receiving from or paying attentions to those of the opposite sex.

Sometimes the man is the more exacting in this respect; sometimes the girl. But as a rule they break even—one is as jealous as the other.

Of course, if two people really love each other, they haven't much desire to go gallivanting around with other folks, and they certainly don't care to "spoon" with any but the chosen one. Nor is any engaged girl or man to be commended for flirting except with the particular one he or she has agreed to flirt with.

But it is wise to give up all one's friends for the society of one person whom you have promised to marry, or think you may possibly marry, up front it pure selfishness to demand all the time and attention of the one you profess to love?

Even in marriage, though wife and husband should always be first in each other's regard, it is wise to keep individual friends, men or women.

The sensible spouse realizes this. The jealous one simply inclines to deceit. Most men lie to their wives only because they discover in those first days, when they told the truth, that it takes a careful liar to preserve home peace.

But an engagement isn't marriage, and it is only sound sense on the part of an engaged girl to retain her friends, both masculine and feminine. The announcement of her engagement will drive away those with matrimonial designs, anyway.

And when two young folks are merely "going together," it is always better off than the girl. If he is jilted he can seek consolation—and usually soon finds it—in some other feminine company. If he wants to do the jilting, he still has the whiphand in his masculine prerogative to select feminine companionship.

A girl has mighty few consolers when she is the victim of a broken engagement, especially if she has sent away all her men friends in her adoration for the one she had hoped to marry.

Another thing—there may be a man here and there who will appreciate the fact that a girl is devoting herself exclusively to him. But the average man, though he may have feelings, sort of respects the girl, even if she is his fiancee, who shows him that he isn't the only worthwhile individual on earth.

Any man, fiancee or husband, is more or less bored by the woman who hangs upon him all her thoughts and feelings and depends upon him for everything that her life demands.

PROHIBITION WORKERS WILL RALLY TONIGHT

The Prohibition Training Conference, in session at state Prohibition headquarters since Monday, will close tonight with a general rally at the Taylor Street Methodist Episcopal church. W. G. Calderwood and others are to speak.

The conference has discussed plans for carrying out the program of the party to secure 40,000 voters before the next election, pledged to "vote the Prohibition party ticket whenever a sufficient number of voters have signed this enrollment to carry the state or any political division thereof of which I am a citizen," and to raise a fund of $100,000 with which to do this work.

Five field superintendents have been at work, each in a district of three or four counties, for some weeks, and it is said they have enrolled 3000 voters. Other workers are to be employed.
