HOSE WHO CAN EARN A MINIMUM WAGE, A PROBLEM

Less Efficient and Defectives Will Need Better Care Under a Minimum; 40th Charities Conference Is Over.

(Special to The Journal.) Seattle, Wash., July 12.—The problem of those working people who are unable to earn the legal minimum wage was discussed in an address before the National Conference of Charities and Corrections here this evening. Professor A. E. Wood of Reed college of Portland, Ore., the minimum wage, said Professor Wood, "is a piece of social legislation that cannot stand by itself, but gives rise to other problems that call for solution. These concern the welfare of those people who cannot meet the new standards of industrial efficiency that are set by the minimum wage. One result of the minimum wage would be to increase the number of defectives. Hence some workers, the least efficient, will remain unemployed, unless other social expedients are found to meet their needs."

At that time, she says, she was the widow of Andrew J. Poor, who had died, leaving her property worth $15,000. Three children were born to her and Stratton, she declares, twins, who died, one year after birth, and a daughter, who died in 1880.

SPOKANE TAKES A STEP TOWARD MUNICIPAL LIGHT

(Special to The Journal.) Spokane, Wash., July 12.—Definite steps toward establishment of a municipal power and lighting plant with a view to bringing about great reduction in electric current prices, were taken by the city commissioners today. They instructed Corporation Counsel Stephens immediately to investigate the city's legal right to proceed with plans for acquiring a power site and erecting a plant. City Engineer McCartney has been engaged during the last month in investigating power sites between Spokane and the mouth of the river with the result that two are under consideration. Today's action resulted from the efforts of Commissioner Coates, who has just returned from Tacoma, where he says current is sold at one half cent per kilowatt, producing heat on the same basis as if wood, which is now burned mostly, was a dollar and a half a cord.

What its delegates declare has been a most noteworthy conference of Charities and Correction came to a close tonight with a general session at Plymouth church, for the discussion of "Standards of Living and Labor," after a day in the morning devoted to a constructive consideration of the world's great social problems. Tonight's session was called to order at 8 o'clock. Rev. John A. Ryan of St. Paul, Minn., chairman of the year's committee, made his official report.
