CHILDREN FROM CITY CAUSE MUCH SURPRISE TO COUNTRY PEOPLE

Silverton Folks Pleased With Looks of Army of Small Invaders and Ask for More.

"Silverton.

"Dear Mr. Manning—We all got here safe and were glad to get here. I am staying with a nice lady. Good-bye,

"By EVA."

This is a sample of the letters that V. R. Manning, secretary of the Associated Charities, is receiving from the children that were sent to Silverton Saturday as beneficiaries of the "fresh air fund."

Among the many stories of delight and wonder of those who are seeing the country for the first time there creeps in once in a while a story to the effect that the wonder is not all on the side of the city folks.

For instance, it is told that a certain man to whose household had been assigned a mother and four children told his wife that he thought it would be a good time for him to make a fishing trip while the visitors were there. He got out his tackle and was ready to start when the visitors arrived. A few minutes later his wife saw him coming in the back door. "I thought you had gone fishing," she greeted him.

"No, I changed my mind when I saw the good looking woman and children," he answered.

In addition to the large party sent to Silverton Saturday the request of individuals from different places to take care of one or more mothers and children is being met.

Interest in the movement is growing every day. In many of the churches yesterday reference was made to the work by the ministers. During the week 50 more will be sent to Silverton, making a total of 100 cared for in that vicinity.

Systematic work through the Women's clubs within a short radius of Portland will be directed to influencing other communities to assist in the movement as Silverton has done. An unexpected outgrowth of the fresh air plan is a better realization of local needs in the way of health and hygiene.

Contributions to the fund are rapidly coming into the office of the Associated Charities. At noon today the total amount received was $1073.80.

The contributors this forenoon were:

Leo Friede	$ 10.00
Mrs. Thomas C. Warner	5.00
A. J. Lewthwaite	5.00
Amacher & Belch	2.00
S. Silverfield	5.00

GREAT NAVAL BASE UPON COLUMBIA IS IN DANIELS' MIND

the navy are assembled, as at San Francisco."

Value of Naval Y. M. C. A.

Daniels plainly indicated that the San Francisco plan for a Y. M. C. A. would influence the policy of the navy there, especially in the matter of the new naval base. At the same time he refrained from definite announcement. "The city," said he, "that gives the best environment and contributes most to the welfare of the young men of the navy shows evidence, other things being equal, of deserving of being the place where the navy department concentrates its stations and bases. The best agency for the help of young men is the Y. M. C. A. at Newport, R. I., where the fleet spends much of the summer in target practice and where thousands of sailors are in port, a Y. M. C. A. has been established, the result of the work of Mrs. Emery, where sailors and soldiers in port can get a good bed for 10 cents a night and being helpful in surroundings keeps from the young men the temptations of places of ill repute so that that place has become one of the best for the young men of the navy. Therefore I consider the city which has the best established Y. M. C. A. for the young men of the navy worthy of great consideration."

Is an Easy Man to Get To.

Of all the cabinet officers who have visited the Pacific coast, Secretary Daniels is perhaps the most democratic and approachable. The only lines of his face are the smile wrinkles about his eyes. He talks easily and entertainingly. His eyes are sharp, his questions to the point. He is eager for information. Patiently and with interest he listened to the recital of Port of the Columbia possibilities which were poured into his ears by F. W. Mulkey, C. S. Jackson and others. On the way to Astoria the secretary held an informal reception aboard the train, greeting and talking with each of the 50 Commercial club delegates as each was given opportunity by C. C. Chapman, master of ceremonies. At Clifton, the delegation from Astoria met the train.

A close schedule for the train, the luncheon at View Point, the viewing of the harbor and the return to Portland are being kept in order that the dinner at the Commercial club at 6 o'clock this evening may not be delayed. At Rainier the special stopped five minutes. The secretary was introduced to some of the citizens.

"Oregon sits at the head of the table at Washington," he said, speaking from the platform of the observation train. "You are represented by two good senators."

RESULT OF S. P. VOTE ON STRIKE IS WITHHELD

(United Press Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, July 28.—Pending a conference with officials of the Southern Pacific railroad the result of the vote of 5000 employes of the company on an agreement to strike is being withheld here today. It is said the meeting will take place within two or three days.

The strike vote followed disagreement regarding the status of employes of the electrified lines who ask for the same wages paid steam road employes.

PRESIDENT HOPEFUL ON NEW CURRENCY BILL

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Washington, July 28.—Belief that the administration currency bill will be reported by the house banking committee practically as it was framed is held here today by President Wilson. He made it clear to callers today that the measure would not be materially altered, and that all differences in the committee would be reconciled.

NEWS, DEPRESSING AND REFRESHING

AUTO TOURISTS ARE LUNCHED AT OAKLAND

Indiana Travelers Are Late Because of Poor Roads, But Finally Reach Ocean.

Oakland, Cal., July 28.—Following an automobile tour of the Highland Drive, the Indiana to the Pacific coast automobile tourists who have just completed a jaunt across the continent, were tendered a luncheon here today by 100 prominent citizens.

Mayor Frank K. Mott of Oakland presided. Addresses were made by Mayors Mott, Haywood of Berkeley and Otis of Alameda; Managing Director Caine of the Commercial club, and by former Mayor Charles Bookwalter of Indianapolis.

The party of tourists will leave Oakland this afternoon for San Francisco. The luncheon served today was to have been tendered Saturday night, together with that to Secretary of the Navy Daniels, but owing to delays the autoists were unable to reach here until yesterday.

PRINCESS HORSEWHIPPED BY AN IRATE FARMER

Berlin, July 28.—A princess and two princes of the house of Isenburg, belonging to the highest German nobility, were horsewhipped recently by an angry carter, whose horses their automobile had alarmed. Prince Alphons, Princess Antoinette and Prince Victor von Isenburg were motoring to Altenburg, where they were to visit the Duke of Altenburg, head of another former sovereign house of the empire, when they encountered a farmer with a load of wood. His horse shied before the automobile and upset the load in the ditch. The driver lashed out with his whip at the princess and the princes as they rolled by, leaving angry weals on the faces of all three. He now faces trial at Gera for his misdeed, which a century ago would have been almost high treason.

Tacoma Bars Socialist Play.

Tacoma, Wash., July 28.—Seattle socialists who were barred out of Seattle with their play, "The Colonel and His Friends," an ironic slap at Colonel Blethen, of Seattle, and Superior Judge Humphries, will not be permitted to stage the play in Tacoma next Friday, or at any other time. This was emphatically announced by Commissioner of Public Safety Mills today when his attention was called to the Seattle dispatch.

"We don't want any flag or other disturbances here like they had across the sound. I shall confer with the chief of police and order him to put a ban on the play immediately," said Mills.

Mayor Seymour declined to say what action he would take, but dictated a letter to Mayor Cotterill, of Seattle, requesting information.

Hindu Student Wants Big Damages.

Krishna Ramaswamy, Hindu, 21 years old, stenographer and former student in the engineering department of the University of Washington, is plaintiff in a $50,000 damage suit against the Hammond Lumber company which is being heard in Circuit Judge McGinn's court. He was employed at the mill of the company at Alderbrook, Clatsop county, and lost his arm when his sleeve caught in the machinery as he was sweeping up sawdust. Tuberculosis, he says, resulted. Ramaswamy alleged that had the accident not ended his university work he would have been able to earn from $3000 to $10,000 a year as an engineer.

Fined for Killing Song Birds.

Gus Chillis, a Greek construction hand, was fined $41.25 at The Dalles Saturday in justice court for the killing of two tiny song birds, according to advices received today at the office of State Game Warden Finley. Caillis was arrested the day before by Deputy Game Warden Fritz and his offense was the shooting of a wren and oriole. The game wardens have much trouble with the foreigners from southern Europe, who apparently have no desire to kill game birds, but persist in surreptitiously shooting the singers.

Where Is Architect Duke?

The police have been asked by Mrs. C. A. Duke of 509 East Fifty-seventh street north to aid in searching for her husband who has not been heard from since Saturday morning. Mr. Duke is an architect with offices in the Failing building. He left for his office as usual and the wife is at a loss to explain his disappearance, declaring that the man has had no trouble that she knows of. He is of medium build, light eyes and brown hair and weighs about 140 pounds.

A device has been invented to permit an aeroplane to pick up mail bags and parcels from the ground while in full flight.

MORE PLAYGROUNDS PROMISED BY COUNCIL

Mayor and Commissioners Tell East Siders Number Will Be Increased.

Mayor Albee and Commissioners Brewster, Daly and Bigelow promised east siders, at a luncheon given by the East Side Business Men's club at St. David's church today, that they would do all they could to increase the number and efficiency of parks and playgrounds on the east side of the river.

The mayor told the diners that the school board should cooperate with the park board by making play spots of the school grounds. They explained that insufficient funds has been the greatest drawback to proper park development.

Mr. Brewster urged that shelters be erected in the playgrounds to make them available all the year round. He also urged more supervision and better toilet facilities.

Robert Krohn, director of playgrounds, said 4000 children daily visit the 14 playgrounds, 13 of which are now under supervision. He said the story telling hour once a week was one of the best features.

Others who spoke were: Rev. Henry Talbot, rector of St. David's church; Dr. S. E. Josephi and Robert C. Markee. After the luncheon, the party inspected the playground at the hurch and witnessed folk dances given by the children.

PEARL TREASURE MAY NEVER BE RECOVERED

Gems Insured for $675,000 May Be En Route to Far East.

London, July 28.—Some hopes remain at Lloyds that the reward of $50,000 offered for information may lead to the recovery of the pink pearl necklace, insured for $675,000, which was mysteriously lost in transit between Paris and London last week, but it is known that there are markets where not too many questions are asked and memories are conveniently short.

The owner, Max Mayer, has expressed confidence that he will regain possession of the pearls in the course of time, either singly or by twos and threes, when the thieves attempt to dispose of them, but his confidence is not shared by most of the experts, who have little doubt that if the pearls are not recovered soon they will sooner or later pass through the Suez canal, and it is proverbial that once jewels are taken east of Suez they never are seen again by their European owners.

Bridge Schedule This Week.

(Special to The Journal.)

Vancouver, Wash., July 28.—A series of bridge meetings at different places in the county has been arranged for this week, the first meeting to be held at Proebstel this evening. A meeting will be held at Hockinson tomorrow evening, and one at the Salmon Creek school house on Saturday evening. Just who will speak at these meetings has not be announced. Two meetings are scheduled for Thursday, the first to be held at 11 o'clock in the forenoon at the farmers' picnic at Camas. Attorneys Stapleton and Crass will address this meeting. A meeting will be held at Brush Prairie in the evening of the same day.

Auto Hurts Boy Slightly.

(Special to The Journal.)

Oregon City, Or., July 28.—An accident which might have resulted in a serious injury to 11-year-old Elvin Schraeder happened Saturday afternoon when an automobile driven by Gerald Warner ran the little boy down on the suspension bridge, but fortunately did not injure him. Elvin Schraeder, who is the son of K. L. Schraeder of this city, was crossing the bridge when the auto struck him and knocked him to one side. He was taken immediately to a doctor's office, where it was found he was not injured beyond a few bruises.

War Veterans Organize Band.

(Special to The Journal.)

Vancouver, Wash., July 28.—Members of the Spanish-American War Veterans have organized a band and held their first meeting one evening last week. It is their intention to meet every Thursday evening for practice. The band is composed of 16 members, all of whom are musicians.

SMALL TOWNS TO HAVE FREE MAIL DELIVERY LIKE THE LARGER CITIES

Experiments Being Conducted by Postoffice Department May Accomplish It.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)

Washington, July 28.—Should experiments now being made under authority granted by congress prove satisfactory, the time is foreshadowed when every village in the United States, with scarcely any regard to its population, will enjoy the benefits of free mail delivery.

In something more than 100 towns of from 1200 to 1500 population, mail is now being delivered to residences and business houses under an appropriation of $150,000 granted by congress to test this new plan. Towns where the postal receipts run from $4000 to $6000 a year are usually selected, for when the receipts reach $10,000 a year regular city delivery is granted. Preliminary requisites before the new system is installed are reasonably good sidewalks enabling carriers to get about in any kind of weather, the numbering of the houses and the placing of some kind of receptacle to hold the mail. When mail matter is properly stamped carriers accept it on their rounds, and if the system should become permanent mail boxes will be provided for it.

The postoffice department has been establishing this experimental service in the different states as fast as suitable towns for the test could be selected, one or two towns being designated in each state. Action is usually taken on applications for the service, inspectors reporting on the desirability of the place applying and when a selection is made, aiding the postmaster to lay out the routes and fix the schedules of deliveries, which usually number two daily for business houses and one for residences.

The new system was established in Willetts, Cal., November 16, 1912, and in Kent, Wash., December 1, 1912. No place in Oregon has yet been given the service, but Gresham and Independence have applied for it. Corning, Cal., and Oroville, Wash., have also applied for it.

The law limits the amount to be spent in a year in any town for this service to $1800, but the department is getting along with an expenditure ranging from $1000 to $1200. A man employed for the carrier service acts as clerk in the postoffice when he is not delivering mail, and it is expressly explained when he is employed that the service is experimental and that his employment may end when the experiment is ended. However, reports from 95 per cent of the offices where the system has been put in practice are favorable. In a very few places the public has not shown appreciation of it. Different plans are being tried, such as making delivery in a compact area, and again in selecting a few streets and making delivery along their entire length. It is said that in no single case has the experiment been declared a failure.

While the expense of this extension of the free delivery service will be considerable, there is some offset in increased business, just as there has been on rural free delivery routes. With better facilities, people are writing more letters.

It may be too early to predict what action congress will take on the extension of this service, but the postoffice department is evidently well satisfied with it and will without doubt recommend that money be appropriated for its extension.

COLORED REPORTS UPON MEXICO ARE CAUSE OF CRISIS

moment in such a way as to force intervention, but he intends to avoid it if possible.

Only formal reports of the shooting in Juarez of Charles B. Dixon, an American immigration official, have reached the state department and the text of the telegram to Mexico City which forced Dixon's release and demanded the punishment of the men who shot him has not been made public. Neither has the text of telegrams to Mexico City regarding the demands for release of Charles Bissell and Bernard McDonald, threatened with execution at Chihuahua City, but it is stated that both wires were couched in language which it was impossible for Huerta to misunderstand. The Mexican dictator also, it is declared, has had it made clear to him that the shooting of Dixton at a time when President Wilson was studying the Mexican situation has caused the latter to believe that someone was trying to force his hand.

President Sees Ambassador.

President Wilson and Ambassador to Mexico Henry Lane Wilson conferred for an hour today on the Mexican situation. At the end of their conference Ambassador Wilson said:

"The conference was devoted to presenting the president with the exact facts. I did not discuss any policy. I gave the president my views and he will decide as he pleases."

Ambassador Wilson said he expected to see the president again before he leaves Washington.

Francisco Del Valle of Los Angeles conferred today with Secretary of State Bryan on the Mexican situation. Del Valle was angry because of reports that he had spied on Ambassador Henry L. Wilson. It is understood he reported to Bryan on the strength of the Mexican factions and gave details of the smuggling across the American border of arms and ammunition for the rebels.

President E. L. Brown of the National Railways of Mexico, called at the state department today. He probably will see President Wilson tomorrow.

John Bassett Moore, counselor for the state department, and Ambassador Wilson had a conference today, presumably in regard to the Dixon shooting at Juarez.

Senator Pomerene of Ohio today asked Secretary Bryan to demand the release of Bernard McDonald, the American held at Chihuahua. Bryan said he had already made the demand.

Embassy Claims Victory.

The Mexican embassy issued a statement today in which it was claimed that former Governor Carranza of Sonora was in flight with federals in pursuit. It was said that Carranza was attempting to join the rebels in northern Durango.

The statement also said that if captured Zapatistas probably would be given no quarter. One band is alleged to have been defeated with heavy losses. The statement concluded with the declaration that the Mexican federal situation is improving as a result of the reorganization of the army, and its increase from 27,000 to 54,000 men.

Federals Claim a Victory.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Mexico City, July 28.—Wireless dispatches from Monclova today say that 700 rebels were killed and 1000 wounded in an 18 hour battle which ended late yesterday in the Canon Del Carmen, Coahuila. General Maas' cavalry, it is declared, completely routed the rebels.

The battle started when the federals surprised the rebel force. They captured 80 cannon, took many prisoners and seized a big supply of stores and scores of horses. The federal loss has not been estimated.

The rebels are said to be in a condition of utter demoralization and to be scattered over a wide area with the victorious federals in pursuit.

No confirmation has been received here of the reported battle in Coahuila, and it is not denied that it possibly may be a federal hoax for the purpose of inspiring public confidence.

Rebels Take San Luis Potosi.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Eagle Pass, Texas, July 28.—Confirmation of reports that Mexican constitutionalistas have captured San Luis Potosi, a city of 80,000 population 326 miles north of Mexico City, was brought here today by refugees. It also is reported that the rebels have taken Zacatecas and Agua Calientes.

The battle at San Luis Potosi raged for two days, 200 soldiers on each side being killed. An army of 4000 rebels expects to attack Saltillo this week. Then the entire rebel force will concentrate into a single army and attack Mexico City.

Junta Denounces Ambassador Wilson

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Paris, July 28.—Strong denunciation of Henry Lane Wilson, United States ambassador to Mexico, is voiced in a statement issued by the Mexican constitutionalista committee in France.

"The declaration of Ambassador Wilson," the statement says, "regarding the Huerta government confirms rumors of strange interference in Mexican politics during the tragic fortnight ending with the assassination of former President Madero. We wish to call attention to the fact that there were meetings between government, revolutionary and military chiefs at which the betrayal of Madero was discussed and these meetings were held at the American embassy. Ambassador Wilson disobeyed the strict instructions of his government to observe neutrality."

The statement also commends President Wilson "for the recall of America's unfaithful representative, who is most intimate with Huerta and his accomplices."

Asks Removal of Edwards.

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Washington, July 28.—Congressman Smith of Texas urged Secretary Bryan today to summarily remove United States Consul Edwards at Juarez for alleged incompetency and failure to protect American refugees at Madera, Mexico. He said that 25 American women and children and 14 men were in great peril at Madera.

Edwards recently forbade a party of 50 Americans to go from Juarez to the relief of the Madera Americans. Smith asserts that Edwards favored the Mexican federals and that he is misrepresenting the situation at Juarez.

BUTCHERS' DOGS MUST WEAR MUZZLES, TOO

Mayor Jones Does Not See Why Exception Should Be Made of Them.

(Special to The Journal.)

Oregon City, Or., July 28.—With the return of Mayor Linn E. Jones from vacation, the Oregon City council will resume its usual number of meetings each week and commenced with one this morning at 9:30 p. m. A number of routine matters was discussed.

Today the recently passed ordinance compelling all dog owners either to muzzle their pets or tie them up goes into effect and Chief of Police Shaw is seeing that all persons are complying with the provisions of the law. Complaint was made by local stockbuyers and butchers that the drove herds of cattle through the city from time to time and always had to have the assistance of dogs and that these canine herders could not do their work with a muzzle on. These stockbuyers asked that the law be stretched ap oint and they be permitted to leave the muzzles off their dogs. Mayor Jones said he did not see why an exception should be made in their case as these dogs were just as apt to develop rabies as any other and he considered it a menace to the public to have them running at large without muzzles.

Chief of police Edward Shaw turned over the city jail for the inspection of the mayor and council this morning. The bastile has just undergone a systematic cleaning and repainting and is in first class shape.

INDIAN WAR VETERANS STILL SEEK PENSIONS

Memorial Sent to Oregon Delegation in Congress Asking Aid for Bill.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)

Washington, July 28. — Cyrus H. Walker, grand commander of the Indian War Veterans of Oregon, has forwarded to the senators and representatives copies of the resolutions passed at Portland, June 18, by the grand camp, Indian War Veterans of the North Pacific Coast, "earnestly urging our respective delegations in congress to aid the efforts now being made in congress to secure pensions for the veterans of the late Indian wars from 1856 to 1890, notably the Modoc war of 1873-74; Chief Joseph's Nez Perce war, 1877-78, and the Bannock war, 1879-80."

Commander Walker writes that the camp was a great success. In his annual report he said: "Great praise is due to the Pacific coast delegations in congress, who all gave a hearty support to the bill of February 18, 1913, increasing pensions from $8 to $20 per month, but more particularly to Senator George E. Chamberlain and Congressman W. C. Hawley of Oregon, to Senators Miles Poindexter and W. L. Jones of Washington, Senator W. E. Borah of Idaho and Congressman Joseph R. Knowland of California."

Boy Rescues Girl From Drowning.

A 15-year-old boy, who gave the name of Roy Rogers, yesterday afternoon rescued a girl from drowning in the Columbia river near Vancouver. The boy, who was sitting on the bank, saw that the girl was beyond her depths and rushed after her. When he reached the place where the girl was last seen, he dove and brought the unconscious form to the river bank, where she was revived by friends. She and her friends refused to give her name. Rodgers disappeared after the affair.
