Dr. G. A. Sinclair of New Lisbon, Wis., and his daughter, Miss Alice May Sinclair, were guests in the city last week. The guests of the Sinclair sister-in-law and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis, of 206 Morris street. They have enjoyed an extended trip through California and Washington, stopping at the principal coast cities. They returned home via the Canadian Pacific.

WEDDINGS

One of the interesting weddings of the week took place Tuesday night when the Rev. Mr. Standstedt read the marriage service for Miss Edith Nordstrom and Harry Hobbs both of this city. Both bride and groom are well known musicians, having played at local dances for the past few years. The bride was charming in a gown of white satin with overdress of broad lace. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss Jane Mills attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a wedding gown of white lace and embroidery and carried pink chrysanthemums. Miss Alice Larson and Miss Nylander also attended the bride as bridesmaids. The two little sisters of the bride wore flower girls and little Miss Lucile Traglo acted as ring bearer. The services were read under a canopy of shaded lights and flowers, the decorating scheme being ferns and lilies of the valley. Mr. Harold Scott was best man. Quite a sensation was caused late in the evening when the bride was kidnapped and rushed through the principal streets of the city in a machine. Mr. and Mrs. Hobbs will be at home to their friends in their new home in Irvington.

On Tuesday, August 12, at the home of the groom, 1333 Michigan avenue, Miss Etta Vollum became the bride of Samuel R. Clinton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Bowersox. Miss Mabel Borogous and H. L. Messier attended them. Present were Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Clinton, parents of the groom, with their three sons and daughter, and the Misses Lucile Carr, Hazel Kalin, Agnes Wood and Florence Nelson. For a time they will be at home to their friends at the above given number.

Edward William Schachtmayer and Miss Clara Hansen were united in marriage July 28, 1913, at the residence of the officiating minister, Rev. Dr. James Dimond Corby, pastor of the Universalist church at 802 Broadway. The young people were attended by Ray Herring and Miss Minnie Schmeer.

Miss Anna Cole and Dr. Richard Mulholland were married Saturday at St. Mark's Episcopal church before a few friends and the relatives of the bride and groom. Dr. Samuel Grant acted as best man and Miss Ora Whitmore of Bellingham, Wash., a former schoolmate of the bride, was her only attendant. Rev. J. E. H. Simpson read the ceremony. The bride was gowned in a handsome robe of ivory white crepe de chine with

HUMAN NOTE ABOUNDS IN FRANKLIN K. LANE

Secretary of Interior Champions Interests of the Whole People.

Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior.

An ability to make friends and keep them, a progressive outlook on vital affairs that ever considers their human side and a long period of service as a red blooded American citizen are three qualities attributed to Franklin K. Lane, secretary of the interior, who is to be a Portland visitor this week, by Burton J. Hendrick in the World's Work for August.

Mr. Hendrick refers to Mr. Lane as the "home secretary," a much more fitting term than secretary of the interior, since his field is solely domestic. It has to do with public lands, arid and arable, reclamation projects, Indian affairs, pensions and a multitude of things that affect the plain people and their wants.

In the 49 years of his life Mr. Lane has been a printer's devil, college student, newspaper reporter, editor, lawyer, district attorney, politician and interstate commerce commissioner, a variety of activities in which the human note abounds.

Born in Prince Edward Island in 1864, the son of a Methodist minister, he removed to California at the age of 3 years, with his parents, and his life for the most part since has been spent on the Pacific slope. Two years' attendance at the University of California were followed by work as a newspaper reporter and later as the New York representative of several western newspapers. Association with Henry George and the acquaintance with his advanced economic theories furnished Mr. Lane with a line of thought, hardly considered conventional at that time, but accepted today in full measure, which was readily reflected in the editorial policy of the Tacoma News, of which he became editor and part owner in 1892.

His Career as Editor.

This endeavor was vigorous if brief and in the short time that ensued before the panic of 1893 smote the fortunes of the News, Editor Lane had conducted with success several sensational exposures of political corruption, and this in a day when exposures were of rare occurrence.

From the northwest Mr. Lane returned to California, where he conducted an energetic campaign for the governorship in 1902—the time intervening having been spent in the practice of law and as district attorney for several terms.

It was during this campaign that he vigorously voiced what is now known as the doctrine of "conservation." He urged that the state render its water power resources and its arid lands useful to the people, he protested loudly against political activities of the Southern Pacific railroad in California—and in the end he was defeated.

But the defeat was not in vain: It brought Mr. Lane into touch with President Roosevelt who at that time was engaged in reforming the interstate commerce commission. And in Lane he found a sympathetic and able exponent and made him a member of that commission.

As Interstate Commerce Commissioner.

Mr. Lane set to work with a vengeance; the bigger the problem the harder he tackled it, and his effectiveness in dealing with the Union Pacific amalgamation and Mr. Harriman's plans for railroad supremacy started the people and the railroads themselves. His later work in the interstate commerce commission served its part in the restoration of popular government.

Mr. Lane who, by the way, is the only member of President Wilson's cabinet from the Pacific coast, comes to Portland after an extended western trip. In the last few weeks he has gained much first hand information concerning matters under his jurisdiction; he has seen many of these same natural resources which, he contends, should be developed for the benefit of all the people and not exploited for the private gain of a few.

SURPRISE PARTY WAS SURPRISE TO FATHER

A surprise party, at which the honored guest was Henry F. Marble, aged 66 years, of Twenty-ninth and Long streets, was given last Sunday at the home of Mr. Marble, the occasion being the anniversary of his birth. The party was planned by J. H. Marble, of 439 East Yamhill street, the only remaining child of a family of five, who was assisted by his mother.

The senior Mr. Marble was sent on an errand to the son's home last Saturday evening and was induced to remain over night. On his return home the next day, he found the several guests assembled at the house.

An excellent dinner was served, after which a social afternoon was spent on the lawn. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Albert, Frank Elyhart, Eva Holcombe, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Marble. J. H. Marble recently returned from Columbus, O., where he had lived for 17 years, during which time he never saw his parents.

TO LOOSEN CONVICT'S TONGUE WITH ETHER

Renewed Efforts to Make "Silent" Carson Speak to Be Tried.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Stockton, Cal., Aug. 16.—Fresh efforts by the use of ether to unloose the tongue of "Silent" Charles Carson, condemned convict, who has not spoken for two years, is to be attempted soon by the medical experts at the Stockton insane hospital, where Carson has been under observation for several months.

Carson is one of the most interesting convicts in the west. With James Finley and Francisco Quijada, Carson attempted a jail break at Folsom prison and in the dash for liberty attacked a guard. It was for this attack that Carson, Quijada and Finley were sentenced to die. Finley is awaiting execution, and Quijada was killed by Jake Oppenheimer, who went to death on the scaffold. Carson either assumed dumbness or was stricken dumb after the attempted escape.

The first test to see whether Carson has powers of articulation failed. He was given ether, but it made him sick. The physicians believe, however, that the next ether test will cause Carson to talk. If it is found that he has been shamming he will be hanged.

Three Year Old Eggs Edible.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 16.—The state board of health today released for sale from cold storage 329 thirty pound cans of broken frozen eggs, which have been in cold storage for nearly three years. This mess, the board says, is fit for human consumption.

Big Western Comedy at the Columbia

One of the liveliest photo-play comedies ever shown in this city is "Alkali Ike's Gal," which is scheduled to headline the bill opening at the Columbia theatre today. It is a two-reel production of the Essanay company, replete with thrilling and amusing situations. It is typical of a western play, with cowboys in plenty, who delight to play pranks on each other.

Alkali Ike tires of mending his own clothes and determines that he needs a wife, but there are no women near the cattle range. A matrimonial journal finds its way to camp and, looking over the advertisements, he decides to answer one of them. Three of his pals seeing the matrimonial journal determine to do likewise, and place their letters in the hands of Alkali Ike to mail. The latter becomes suspicious and determines to destroy the letters written by his pals. When only one woman arrives on the scene and she is claimed by Alkali Ike the others become jealous and there is some stirring scenes in camp. Finally there is a wedding ceremony and everybody is made jumpy.

Matt Dennis, the popular baritone, and Kate's orchestra and three additional high class reels complete the bill.

As a big feature of the bill opening next Wednesday there has been secured the big Kalgin comedy, "Breaking Into the Big League." This is a rip-roaring baseball play, in which are featured Manager McGraw of the New York Giants; Christie Mathewson, the great pitcher, and other stars of the diamond.

Mrs. E. Johnstone has just returned from a five weeks' trip to New York and eastern cities.
