

FINANCIAL REPORT OF WORLD CONFERENCE COMMITTEE IS READY

Net Balance of Nearly $1000 to Be Turned Over to Portland Commercial Club.

The report of the Committee of One Hundred of the Christian Citizenship conference held in this city the latter part of last June has been completed and is being mailed to the members of the Portland Commercial Club's publicity department.

Accompanying the report is a financial statement properly audited. According to this statement there was received through the sale of association membership tickets, $121, and from church subscriptions, solicitors and other sources, $2237.97, making the total receipts $3358.97. The total disbursements were $2358.67, leaving a balance of $1000.30. By vote of the executive committee this balance has been given to the Portland Commercial Club in reimbursement of money expended by that organization.

Purpose of Committee. In its report the committee says: "To make clear the scope of this report and the responsibility of the Committee of One Hundred, we should state that the committee had nothing to do with bringing the conference to Portland, or with the pledging, raising or expenditure of the fund of $15,000. The Committee of One Hundred was organized a year after the contract had been signed with the National Reform association. The sole work of the committee was to arrange the Portland end of the meetings; to welcome and care for delegates; to provide places of meetings, ushers, music, accommodation, entertainment for speakers, and to arrange certain features of a suitable and safe Fourth of July celebration.

"We believe that the conference demonstrated the great interest of our people in social reforms and in abiding religious ideals, and the ability of the city to conduct any conference devoted to high purposes without the aid of outside organizations.

Heart of People Sounded. "Although some ideas were advanced in this conference at variance with the public opinion of the city, it was evident that the great body of our people stand stoutly for temperance, industry, personal purity, for high ideals of family life, for justice administered impartially to all, for uncompromising integrity in public officers, for universal peace and for the spirit of Christianity in all the affairs of individual, city, state and nation.

"All this should strengthen the efforts of every individual among us who is working unselfishly for the common good. The heart of our people is sound and responds quickly to any worthy cause."

In conclusion the committee acknowledges its gratitude and appreciation of the services of those who contributed to the conference in any way.

The report is signed by William T. Foster, chairman of the Committee of One Hundred.

MAKING HOGS OUT OF CORN TO BE SUBJECT

Professor Holden to Tour State Telling Farmers How to Raise Pork.

Preaching the gospel of corn and alfalfa at the precursors of beef and pork, Professor P. G. Holden, formerly of the Iowa Agricultural college, will tour Oregon and Washington next month under the auspices of the International Harvester company and the O.-W. R. & N. company.

Entering the state from Idaho, he will make his first address at Huntington, September 22, and will speak to the farmers at Baker, Walla Walla, Le Grand, Pendleton, Arlington and the Condon district until September 26, when he will jump into Washington and make his first appearance in that state September 27 at Walla Walla.

Professors of the Oregon Agricultural college and the Washington State college will be invited to join the special train which will take the expert over the west, and assist him with lectures and demonstrations.

Traffic Manager R. B. Miller of the O.-W. R. & N. company has frequently called the attention of civic bodies throughout the northwest to the changing conditions that cause a continuing scarcity of livestock and that within a few years the United States will be importing, instead of exporting, its meat supply.

For this reason the railroad men are helping every campaign for the instruction of farmers in the advantages of livestock and cooperating with efforts to increase the varieties and yield of crops that help the stock industry.

The train will consist of an exhibit car, a Pullman and a diner. C. L. Smith, agriculturalist of the railroad, will accompany Professor Holden.

"HIGH FLYERS" BEATEN UP BY CHAUFFEUR

"Serves you right," was the only consolation an officer on the beat gave two local high-flyers yesterday afternoon, when they reported to him that a chauffeur had beaten them up. It seems that the two Portlanders, somewhat "illuminated," had been seeing the city from the cushions of a public motor-car. After the drive, the chauffeur discharged his patrons at Washington and Sixth streets, and asked for his pay. The infuriated duo refused to "kick in." The chauffeur thereupon took some anger-relieving exercise.

PHEASANTS, WATERFOWL, FOR STATE FAIR EXHIBIT

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., Aug. 21.—The state fish and game commission has advised Secretary Frank Meredith of the state fair that the commission will have at the state fair this year an exhibit of several hundred native and foreign pheasants and wild and tame water fowls. A cage covering a space of 40 feet will be built, in the center of which will be a large tank of water for the water birds. There will be 200 pheasants. The exhibit will be in charge of Gene Simpson, who has supervision of the state game farm at Corvallis.

STRIKEBREAKER FARLEY DYING WITH HORSES

Courtesy Cooperative Press. James Farley.

Yonkers, Aug. 21.—James Farley, who made a fortune as a strike breaker, is dying of tuberculosis beside his trotting horses at the Empire race track at Yonkers. His physicians wanted him to remain in bed in his room at the Hotel Astor and die there.

"You say I'll die if I go there," said Farley to his doctor. "Well, I'll die if I don't. I might as well die happy." Some of Farley's fortune went into fine trotting horses, and he loves them. They have been racing at the Yonkers track, while he was dying some miles away. So he was determined to have his bed moved out to his stable. He was carried out there and his bed set in the open. A canvas covering is thrown over him at night, but in the daytime he insists that it be removed. He has been so placed that he may see his horses enter and leave their stable and may watch them as they race. That gives him pleasure.

"So long as I am to live only a short time, I might as well live as I wish," said he. But, contrary to the expectation of his physician, he has shown some improvement since he moved to the open air.

EAST REVEALS GOOD MATERIAL FOR U. OF O.

President Campbell Finds 8 Men From Whom 3 Will Be Chosen.

(Special to The Journal.) University of Oregon, Eugene, Or., Aug. 21.—With the names of eight prominent eastern educators, President P. L. Campbell returned from the east yesterday, well satisfied with his trip. From the eight, the names of three will be selected to become instructors at the University of Oregon.

Two of the eight are representatives of the New York bureau of municipal research, associates of W. H. Allen, who recently made a survey of Portland. They have done practical survey work in cities in New York state. One of these men will become a member of the University of Oregon extension faculty, to be at the service of the municipalities of Oregon. The selection will be made in a few days.

At Columbia university he found three men, all in the law drafting department in the political science branch of that college. One of these men will be selected to become assistant under the newly established chair of political science at Oregon. The third selection will be either a Harvard or a Columbia man for assistant professor in Latin. Returning through California, President Campbell, arranged with Dr. Edward Elliott, former dean of Princeton university, brother-in-law to Woodrow Wilson, for a series of 10 lectures, to be delivered at the university in December upon "The Growth of Constitutional Development."

One Other Fullblood Mollala. Woodland, Wash., Aug. 21.—A picture of what was claimed to be the "last of the Mollalas," showing one of the old chiefs together with his cabin, was printed recently in The Journal. There is a full blood Mollalla woman living near here in the person of the wife of Louis Knighton, one of the Klickitat tribe, a well-to-do and well-behaved citizen of this community. "Indian Louis," as he is generally known, says there are a great many others who have intermarried with the Mollallas and that the tribe is not anywhere near extinction.

EUGENE BODIES JOIN IN DEFENSE OF U. O.

Merchants' Protective Association Unites With Citizens' Committee.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) University of Oregon, Eugene, Or., Aug. 21.—Resolutions have been passed by the Eugene Merchants' Protective association instructing the directors of its organization to cooperate with the citizens' committee or Eugene in the campaign to defend the university appropriation bill, which has been referred to the people. The combined efforts of the Eugene citizens' organizations make the third time the people of Eugene have come to the aid of the university in its struggles against the alleged mis-use of the referendum system.

6 MONTHS REMARRIAGE LAW OF OREGON NOT A BAR IN OTHER STATES

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., Aug. 21.—The attorney general has advised W. B. Marsh, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. church at Tacoma, that a divorced person may remarry in some other state permitting it in less than six months from the date of the divorce and then come to Oregon and have the marriage considered legal in this state. In this state a divorced person cannot remarry within six months after obtaining a divorce. The attorney general also held that a physician cannot charge more than $2.50 for issuing the marriage medical certificate which is required to be obtained by prospective bridegrooms. These certificates must be made under oath.

COMPENSATION ACT HEARING CONCLUDED

Arguments on Referendum to Be Made Next Week; Defense Is Quickly In.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., Aug. 21.—Without any evidence for the defense being offered, the workmen's compensation act referendum suit came to an abrupt close here yesterday afternoon. The arguments will be made early next week.

After taking evidence in the case in Portland Tuesday, Judge Galloway resumed the case here yesterday. No testimony was taken here. Attorney E. R. Ringo, for the plaintiff, put in evidence the referendum petition itself and the stipulation of facts agreed to by Ringo and H. K. Sargent, attorney for Wilfred E. Farrell, party defendant with Ben W. Olcott, as secretary of state. Olcott was not represented by an attorney.

As soon as this was done the plaintiff rested, and Attorney Sargent announced that the defense would offer no evidence. Ringo asked for time in which to submit a list of the names in the petition which the plaintiff alleged to be illegal and give the reason for such allegation. This list will be handed the judge merely as a guide to Judge Galloway in examining the petition.

The suit was brought by the state on relation of Gale S. Hill, as district attorney, to enjoin the secretary of state from putting the workmen's compensation referendum on the ballot for the special election to be held next November on the ground that many of the names on the referendum petition were fraudulent or otherwise illegal. Eugene Smallpox Is Extirpated. Eugene, Or., Aug. 21.—City Health Officer Boardley announces that the last case of smallpox in Eugene has been eliminated. The disease in a mild form has harassed the health officials here for several months. While there have been no deaths, the health authorities have been compelled to wash the epidemic closely to prevent its becoming virulent. Measles, which has prevailed in some parts of the city for several weeks, is also reported entirely eliminated.
