Is Also Being Undertaken With Marked Success, (Special to The Journal.) Monmouth, Or., Sept. 10.-In the vicinity of Monmouth, small farmets

are doing well with cows, livestock, hogs, chickens and cruit. The industries are constantly becoming more varied. Cows running as high as $14 milking season. The scientific application of dairying principles is length ening that period and improving the yield.

Farmers with 20 acres of land can keep six cows, raise a few hogs, chick-ens and calves and be secure from debt, enjoy a good living and not work as hard as they would in a factory Land suitable for such farming can be secured around Manmouth for from $65 to $100 an acre, ready for the plow. Hill land, which is equally good when properly cultivated and fertilized, can be had for from $40 to $75. Logge 1 off land remote from roads and costing labor to clear, can be bought for from $15 to $40, according to location

Improved farms cost more, according to value and class of improvements Lumber is cheap and transportation is improving as the elecuric lines are extended.
