CLUB CONSOLIDATION IS STILL UP IN THE AIR

No Decision Reached as Yet by Motorboat and Yacht People.

The much-talked of consolidation of the Portland Motor Boat and the Oregon Yacht Club is still in the air and is drifting higher each week, according to reports current in the boating circles. No direct reasons are given by those who have been talking of the affair and high officials of both clubs refuse to say anything that will throw any light on the matter,

A few of the officers of each club are, however, hopeful of the consolidation within a year or possibly two years. Unofficial reports are that the name of the new club is one object that is in he way of the consolidation,

No Track Games at Stadium.

Coach Johnny Mack of Yale says that there will be no track for athletic meets in the new Yale Stadium and that New Haven can never hope to hold the Eastern Intercollegiate track and field championships. The stadium is built in a natural depression and the only way to have a track would be a tunnel.
