THE TAYLOR HOMICIDE

S there due diligence by the sheriffs and police in the enforcement of the new revolver law? At Astoria Sunday, Oswald Hansel met ex-Circuit Judge Frank-J. Taylor on the street, drew a revolver, and opened fire. Judge Taylor crossed a street near the railroad depot, where he was met by Hansel.

Without a word or a moment' warning, Hansel whipped out a .32 calibre pistol and fired. The bullet struck the victim above the right eye, passed through the brain and caused instant death.

Throwing his arms to his head as if to ward off a blow, Taylor fell to the sidewalk on his face. The slayer then fired two more shots into the prostrate body, both of, which took effect.

For two years, there has been epeculation as to Hansel's sanity. He acted queerly. He had frequent trouble with his neighbors.

While in Governor West's office threats that he would kill people that he was committed to the insane asvlum.

Of all men, next to yeggmen, who long possessed a weapon.

In any event, this wholly unand police using in enforcement of with their money. the new revolver law?

How would sheriffs, constables or police defend themselves, should it education? turn out that Hansel obtained his laxity in applying the pistol law?

It is hard to say why so many people wanted to come to Oregon. suppose there were a good many reasons, but the principal reason was that most of them thought they could do better in a new country. One of our neighbors named Thorp had gone to Oregon the spring before and we had helped him That gave us the fever so next off. President W. H. Kline of the Corvallis fire department got a birthday anniversary hazing last Friday night. The boys set in to play fire horse with him, and so outraged his presidential dignity that he was just on the point of telling the entire company to go where the firefighting is always good, when up jumped the spokesman of the crew and hung a fine trap-shooting coat on him. And then he told the boys they needn't go. President W. H. Kline of the Corvallis year, in the spring of 1845, we were paid them for traveling over their land.
