

GOVERNOR WEST TELLS BANDON EDITOR THAT FEAR IS NO EXCUSE

Advises Dr. Leach to Tell Story of His Deportation to Grand Jury.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Sept. 18.—Governor West today advised Dr. B. K. Leach, the Socialist editor who was deported from Bandon, that fear was no excuse for his failure to appear before the Coos county grand jury, now investigating the deportation cases. This was in reply to an appeal made by Leach for special protection, both day and night, in case he was summoned before the grand jury. He said he feared for his life if he returned to Coos county.

"You have called upon this office to bring about the prosecution of alleged law violation through mob violence in Coos county," says the governor's letter. "The district attorney now has the matter before the grand jury and I am satisfied is making an honest effort to get all the facts before the jury. You, of course, are one of the most important witnesses, and the prosecuting attorney is entitled to your presence and cooperation throughout the investigation. I am sure that you will be permitted to go and come from Coos county without being molested. So far as this office is concerned I wish to say fear is no excuse for your failing to appear before the grand jury and offering your testimony."

The governor advised him that he would be given the protection afforded any other citizen, and that District Attorney Brown has promised personally to give him protection. Leach has been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury.

CRACK O. N. G. MARKSMEN HONORED ON RETURN TO CITY

Militiamen as they appeared on arrival in Portland, after gaining laurels in competition with nation's best rifle shots.

DECLARES EIGHT STORY BUILDING FOR FEDERAL OFFICES IS CHIEF NEED

branches of the federal government here is a formidable one," he said.

Means Much to City.
"I have it direct from the inspector of this postal division, who is now located at Spokane, that he would transfer his base to Portland at once if there was room for him. The same is true with respect to the headquarters of the railway mail service, which is now occupying rented quarters in Seattle.

"The acquisition by Portland of these departments would mean a payroll of $160,000 a year distributed in Portland in addition to the present payroll. Portland is the logical home of these divisions, but they will not come if they have to be put into rented quarters as so many other federal offices are now put.

"I want to see a 15-story office building erected on the site of the present postoffice building. By the time this can be built, the development of the postoffice and railway mail business will have practically filled the eight-story structure where the present plans call for a two-story building. United Action Urged.

"I understand that the opposition to the eight-story postoffice on the new site near the depot is not unanimous. As a matter of fact, the objection that proper light, ventilation and working facility cannot be secured in a tall building, is not well founded. Architects tell me that the same working conditions can be secured in a tall building that can be secured in a low one.

"I want everybody who is interested in Portland's growth as a center of federal government to write without delay to Senator Lane or Senator Chamberlain and urge the amendment by congress of the act which appropriated $1,000,000 for a postoffice in Portland. The amendment could be passed as an emergency and I think an emergency could easily be shown when congress is held here much each day the government is losing in rent alone because of the use of rented quarters for federal officers."

SULZER CONSIDERS RESIGNING OFFICE AND RUNNING AGAIN

present "to object to the jurisdiction of the high court and its membership." It was not expected that the objection would be sustained, but the defense did believe that by raising it and forcing a vote, the Sulzerites would be able to form some idea as to the attitude of the justices of the court of appeals, who are included as members of the court.

A majority vote will decide every question except that of impeachment, which requires two-thirds, and there is no question that a majority of the members of the court are hostile to the governor. His friends do not believe, however, that this majority will amount to two-thirds.

Having registered their objection to the court as a whole, Sulzer's lawyers objected further to the swearing in of Senators Wagner, Frawley, Ramsperger and Sanner, on the ground that they prepared and have pre-judged the impeachment case.

They had a lengthy brief ready to submit in support of their contention, but Chief Justice Cullen of the court of appeals cut the discussion short by saying both objections would be considered later.

The proceedings were of the most impressive and solemn character. They were conducted in profound silence except for the voices of those participating in the proceedings, despite the fact that the galleries were packed. A large proportion of those in the audience were women.

The members of the court were sworn individually. Justice Cullen refused members of the lower house the privilege of the senate floor.

Louis Sarsky, Sulzer's former private secretary and who was expected to be the star witness at the trial, has disappeared. Representatives of the house sent to Buffalo last night to locate Sarsky this afternoon heard that he had left the state. He is reported to have gone to Cleveland.

When Sulzer was put on trial in the ornate senate chamber at the New York state capitol today, the oldest politicians expressed doubt as to the outcome.

A month ago it seemed certain that the executive would be removed from office. As a result, however, of an energetic campaign in his behalf throughout the entire state, there has been a marked change in sentiment. All that it was possible to predict today was that the final vote on the case will be very close.

Both sides professed confidence.

"We have proof of the governor's guilt," said Assemblyman Aaron Levy, leader of the fight for Sulzer's removal, "and he will be removed."

"I believe I will get a fair trial," said Sulzer, "and if I do, I will be acquitted. The time has passed when a political boss' whim can be gratified by the removal from office of a man whose only crime is that he has served the people faithfully."

The array of counsel for prosecution and defense was the greatest ever seen at any trial in the history of New York state. The court will sit from 10 until one, and from 2 until 5.

Chief Justice Cullen has overruled the plan to have the members of the court of appeals vote first and the legislators after them. Instead, the roll call will be alphabetical throughout. This means that Senator George Ardisinger, a Republican from Rochester, will vote first, and that four Tammany lawmakers and three other Republicans will precede the first judge.

Sulzer, originally a Tammany man, broke with the organization after his election as governor, and his impeachment followed not long afterward.

The charge against him, at the outset, was that he failed to include all items which should properly have appeared in the statement he filed, as required by law, of his campaign expenses. In the course of the investigation which followed he was accused further of having used some of his campaign contributions in personal speculations.

The defense's contention is that the cases were manufactured by Tammany because the governor would not take orders.

EUROPE DRAWN INTO NEW YORK MURDER AS NEW LEADS ARE FOUND

A quantity of letters have been brought to light, signed "Helen" and addressing the prisoner in the most endearing terms.

Schmidt suddenly became sullen and untalkative this afternoon, apparently losing his former confidence.

Muret was arraigned this afternoon on a charge of carrying a deadly weapon. He pleaded guilty, but sentence was postponed to Oct. 2, as government authorities expect to hold him on charges of counterfeiting.

London reported today that Muret is not known there, but that Dr. Ernst, one of Muret's aliases, was under surveillance as a white slave agent when he disappeared.

Munich Looks Up Schmidt's Record.

Munich, Sept. 18.—The police are seeking some possible connection of Hans Schmidt, who confessed to the murder in New York of Miss Anna Amuller, with recent suicide of School Inspector Helga at Moenchsburg. Helm and Schmidt were close friends and corresponded regularly.

Fraulein Haan, a telephone operator, was murdered several years ago at Auschaffenberg and the body discovered near the home of Schmidt's parents. The police are endeavoring to trace Schmidt in connection with this case.
