INTERSCHOLASTIC MEN WILL BUCKLE DOWN TO PRACTICE ON GRIDIRON

Teams in League Will Be Evenly Matched in Games This Year.

HILL CADETS EXPECTED TO PUT UP REAL FIGHT

Lincoln's Squad This Year Looks Better Than It Has for Three Years.

Interscholastic footballers will buckle down to hard work and scrimmage practice during the coming week. Most all the teams with the exception of Washington put in five days of practice last week. Coach Earl did not have his players out until Thursday afternoon.

The teams in the league this season will be more evenly matched than ever before. The Portland academy squad, which was the lightest in the league last season, will average about 160 pounds.

The Hill Cadets, although a few of last year's regulars, returned, will put up a strong fight against the other teams of the league. More than a dozen out of town players have registered at the academy and it is expected by Wednesday that Coach Moore will have a squad of nearly 25 players.

Coach All Smiles.

Nig Borleske, the Lincoln high school coach, is all smiles when mention is made about his team. A squad of over 30 players reported to Borleske and most all of them have had from one to two years of experience, while others have been in the game for a number of seasons. Mulkey, E. Groce, H. Groce, Finke, Bush, Johns, Holt, Tannasses and Freeman of last year's regulars are back with the squad. Booker and Hanson, two backfield candidates, look like very promising material. Holt, who played guard last season, is big enough for a backfield man this year.

Lincoln's squad on the whole looks better this season than it has for the past three seasons. Borleske has his squad tackling already and will likely start scrimmage practice during the week.

Eight of last year's Portland academy team returned to Coach Hurlburt this fall. Several new players are expected to be in uniform Monday afternoon. Hurlburt is much pleased with the spirit shown by the players this year.

40 Players Turn Out.

Washington's first turn out brought 40 players, including five of last year's first team and three of the second squad. Coach Earl takes his time about looking the players over and will not place any of them until the last part of the week. Prospects for a good line are bright.

Coach Callicrate of the Columbia university team will spend most of his time during the practice season developing backfield material. Quarterback St. Marie is the only backfield player of last season's team who has returned to school. St. Marie may be shifted to a half back. Smith and Schmidt are two of the promising backfield players, while Bob Malarkey, a brother to Leo Malarkey, who captained the team last season, is another good prospect. Young Malarkey is much heavier than his brother.

A squad of 21 players reported to Coach Callicrate on the first day. It is expected that more will return.

Jefferson's hopes were given a boost skyward during the week, when Ernst Maglus registered for another term. The blue and gold squad is hoping that the Stemler boys and Versteeg will return. With these three players and the squad of new material, Jefferson will be able to put up a strong fight for the championship.

WHITMAN HUSKIES ARE HARD AT PIGSKIN WORK

Coach Hahn Finds Old Men in Good Condition for Training.

Walla Walla, Wash., Sept. 20.—One of the huskiest bunches of men that has ever answered the call for football material at Whitman college is working out daily on Ankeny field. Nine men who have had football experience at Whitman and a large number of freshmen are in suits every afternoon. The old men are in excellent condition and some of the freshmen are showing up like sharks.

Niles, the mainstay of the back field, is working with last year's men. "Tubby" is down to 165 pounds in weight and is faster upon his feet than at any other time during his college career. Captain Botts and Clark Siever are old men out after the end positions, while "Chink" Amy is looking forward to filling the position at center. George Bowers and Gale are working for quarter while Clark, Utter and Kinder are the old men looked upon as probable material for the line. It is highly probable that Harry Bowers of last year's team will enter school the latter part of the week.

The new material at Whitman is promising. Mason of Seattle, at 165 pounds is trying for the back field. Bishop at 160 pounds, the crack with Vancouver high school last season, is working with the squad and Nelswanger a tow-headed lad of 190 pounds is out for a tackle. He looks good. Hoover of Waitsburg is after a back field location, while Henderson, who formerly played with Columbia College of Milton, and Post, a recruit from Olympia, are working at quarter. Reser, also of Columbia College, Fitz of Sunnyside and Clark, a lineman from Mansfield, are others of the squad who are making a showing.

TWO FOOTBALL LEAGUES TO BE ORGANIZED SOON

Two football leagues—senior and junior—will be organized by the Archer-Wiggins people this season. The first meeting will be held Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock at 75 Sixth street. All teams desiring to enter are requested to have a representative present. The teams in the senior section will average about 150 pounds and the junior teams will weigh about 130 pounds.

GIANTS AND MACKMEN SHOULD FURNISH FANS WITH FINE BASEBALL

Polo Grounders and Shibe Park Lads of About Equal Playing Strength.

By W. J. Macbeth.

New York, Sept. 20.—The Giants and Athletics this year should furnish one of the most thrilling struggles of world's series history. Such a classic is good or bad according to whether the contestants are evenly matched. Not only are the Polo grounders and the Shibe Park lads of about kindred playing strength, but both have been so erratic the latter part of the season that almost anything may be expected in the great clash.

There never was such a world's series as that between the Red Sox and Giants last fall; at least, from the standpoint of the spectacular. There were a few pitching duels, but the great majority of the contests were slugging jubilees, in which one side or the other was put to utter rout. As a rule, there were no half measures. Either a team was very, very good, or it was very, very bad. And cropping out with the most inexcusable "bush" league stuff on every hand came a series of plays of such exceptional brilliancy as fairly knocked the spectators off their chairs.

It Went Eight Games.

This series went eight full games, including one extra inning tie, which is the very best proof of the balance of the rivals. Boston outplayed New York in the first half, and outlucked it in the second. But for an error in one of the early games, Boston would probably have won in four straight games. Finally, when the gamest sort of a fight put New York on even terms with the Red Sox, and in a position to win with the deciding game, an error blew the title. New York had the game bagged before Snodgrass' muff put the Hub in a winning mood. Fred Merkle completed the job by his failure to go after a little pop foul from Speaker's bat. Now during the series both Snodgrass and Merkle showed several wonderful plays that helped to save games at critical stages, but all this was forgotten when their faults lost the championship.

Luck played a very important part in the world's series of 1912. Mathewson, the very best pitcher on either team, so far as real work is concerned, didn't win a game, while Marquard breezed through to two easy victories. The Giants couldn't get a run for "Big Six," while they simply slaughtered the Sox every time the "Rube" took a hand. The most wonderful catch ever shown on a ball field was produced by Harry Hooper at the psychological moment. It cut a homer off Larry Doyle, and saved a championship to boot. Hooper might never be able to make such another catch. That was the ill fortune of the Giants.

It Was Always Uncertain.

It is the element of uncertainty which lends such a charm to organized baseball, and the uncertainty certainly enhanced the last world's series about tenfold. There never were two such uncertain and erratic opponents in the autumn classic as the Gotham and Hub aggregations the day they lined up for the first skirmish. Had either side played all season after the fashion of the world's series, it would not have finished in the first division of its company.

Both the Giants and Athletics have been going in rather slip-shod fashion for a month. Were they to start the big doings tomorrow, it would be a puzzle to dope it. The team with the luck would win. But before the end of another two weeks the prospective rivals are likely to settle down to real business. McGraw and Mack will doubtless bring their forces to the wire in the very best shape for a bitter fight. With both teams traveling at their best paces, the series should be a hummer, just as it would be a hummer if both were at their worst. Should either team arrive at its true form while the other maintained the erratic behavior that characterized the stretch run of the pennant races, the competition in the annual classic would very likely develop into much of a farce.

Giants Have Great Chance.

The Giants have the greatest opportunity imaginable to go round the world this winter as champions of the universe. I do not see how the Athletics can beat McGraw's bunch, if it is able to get back to the form it showed the first three months. Without a .300 hitter, McGraw went through a disastrous slump that lasted nearly two months. That speaks volumes for the pitching at his command.

Pitching is a great deal of a world's series argument. In this line McGraw lays it all over Connie Mack. The crafty leader of the Athletics has only two very much overworked veterans at his command—Southpaw Eddie Plank and Indian Bender. Both have been worked to death. Mack has a bunch of young talent, which has been very erratic all season. They may stand up under the strain of a world's series, and again they may not.

Outside of the box, McGraw can just about hold his own. Meyers and McLean are better all-round men than Schang and Lapp. The Philadelphia infield has a shade on the Giant inner works, but the Giants have the better garden trio. When the Giants were hitting to form they could hold up their end in this department with the slugging Mackmen. And what McGraw lacks in hitting power he more than makes up for in sheer speed.

SCULLER'S FRIENDS SEND $500 WITH DEFI

J. Padden, present progressional sculling champion of Australia, has challenged Ernest Barry, the world's title holder, for a match race on the Parramatta river, Australia. Paddon's friends cabled $500 to England as a challenge to the winner of the recent Barry-Pearce race, primarily to get ahead of Richard Arnt, who is expected to challenge again. In this country Frank Greer of Boston, ex-amateur sculling champion, is thinking of challenging Barry.

6-YEAR-OLD CLIPS 1 SECOND OFF RECORD

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 20—In winning the Spokane handicap and long end of $1000 purse this afternoon at Interstate fair track, Cantem, J. Umensetter's six year old gelding, cut a full second from world's record for mile on a half mile track. Cantem covered the mile in 1:40 and won running easily three lengths ahead of Engraver. Engraver set early pace with Cantem always within striking distance, yielding lead to winner at three quarters.

OREGON KID, SPEED MARVEL, WHICH SANK DURING RACE, RAISED

Captain Spencer Gets Word From East That Champion Racer Is Rescued.

OWNER ORDERS BOAT BROUGHT BACK HOME

Eye Witness to Contests Tells How Oregon Craft Ran Away From Others.

Word to the effect that the Oregon Kid, the sensational 20 foot speed boat and holder of the national 32 foot championship, which sank during the first day of the Perry Centennial regatta at Buffalo during the first week of September, was raised, has been received here by its owner, Captain E. W. Spencer.

Nothing has been heard of the Van Blerck, C. V. Cooper's race boat, which made a name for itself in a short time. The Van Blerck is at the bottom of the Mississippi river some place between its mouth and Keokuk, Iowa. This craft sank during the Mississippi Valley regatta.

The Oregon Kid sank during the fifth lap of the Chamber of Commerce trophy race on Lake Erie. The Oregon craft was in the lead when it became swamped and sank. Its crew was slightly injured at the time it sank and they were rescued by the P. D. Q., another speed boat, which sacrificed its chance to win the race by picking up the two injured men.

Ordered Returned Home.

Press reports received the next day stated that the Kid had been raised but these were false. Spencer received a letter from the commodore of the Buffalo Boat club stating the craft was raised on Thursday afternoon September 11, a week after it sank.

After hearing that the Kid had been found, Spencer wired east to bring the boat to Portland immediately. It is likely that it will be repaired immediately and entered in the Portola events at San Francisco.

"It was the greatest sight in the world to see the Oregon Kid defeat the nickle plated and polished crafts of the eastern speed boatmen," declared Al Klingbeil, who was a member of the Portland party, which invaded the east.

"When we landed at Chicago with the two boats, the eastern owners laughed to themselves and immediately began telling us how much and how far they would beat us, but I guess you know what we did to them. The Kid outclassed their boats from the start to the finish.

"It looked rather funny to see the Kid in its rough and ready style, when it scored on the starting line against the highly priced racers of the east. In one race at Chicago the Kid was forced to score four times, before the judges finally let it go. The eastern men could not see how the Kid could gain a lead as big as it did in such a short time. The loss of a few seconds in the third, fourth and fifth heats of the 20 foot class at Chicago caused the Kid's defeat. Her magneto went wrong, but at that it finished just five seconds behind the Baby Speed Demon.

Cylinder Head Blown Off.

"In the 26 foot class race, the Kid blew off one of its cylinder heads and was forced to leave the race. At the time of the accident it was several hundred feet ahead of the other boats.

"In the 32 foot race, the Oregon Kid showed its heel to all other entrants. Its engines were tuned perfectly. In the three preliminary heats, it covered the six miles in 17 minutes and 22 seconds, the second fastest time of the meet. In the final heat, its time was 18:34:02.

In the finals for the Wrigley trophy, the Oregon Kid jumped into the lead and held it for five laps, when the patches put on by an eastern boat builder, came off and forced the Kid out of the event. In the preliminary heat, the Kid made the time of 19:43:3 for 14 miles.

"After its great success at Chicago, the Kid entered the Mississippi Valley events and cleaned up everything. It won $1400 and several trophy cups. It won a special prize of $50 by making a mile in 1:15 2-5.

"The waters of Lake Erie were as rough as it is at Astoria on a stormy day, on the opening day of the regatta at Buffalo, and after being tossed around in the waves for several minutes, the repaired patch again came off and the boat sank in 20 feet of water. All efforts to raise the boat were unsuccessful up till the time that I left there on Wednesday, September 10."

VALEEN M MAKES RECORD AT ROSEBURG

Roseburg, Or., Sept. 20.—When Valeen M, 2-year-old, by Bonaday, trotted one mile in 2:26 without a break at the Douglas County Fair races today, she made the northwest record, and made Bonaday the first stallion west of the Rockies to get three colts in the 2:30 list at 6 years of age. Maroons Hold Practice.

Chicago, Sept. 20.—A drizzling rain had no terrors for the thirsty Maroon football warriors who gathered at the University of Chicago field this afternoon for the first practice of the conference season. Coach Stagg, with Assistants Pat Page and John Canning, gave the candidates a long drill in falling on the ball, tackling the dummy and catching punts. Only a few formations were tried.

With a new cylindrical oven for gas stoves which has a removable shelf it is possible to bake, roast or fry.

COUGHING FIT DISLODGES TOOTH CROWN WHICH HAD RESTED IN MAN'S RIGHT LUNG

Dentist's Patient Escapes Possible Death After Medical Aid Had Failed.

Although very near death at one time, Louis C. Coulter, 44 North Tenth street, who carried a dentist's gold crown for one of his teeth in his right lung for six months, is now almost fully recovered. Mr. Coulter attributes his recovery to a fit of coughing, so violent that after months of suffering the crown was dislodged.

January 28 of this year he was in the chair of a local dentist preparatory to having a crown fitted to one of his teeth. The crown slipped from the dentist's instrument and the little shell of gold lodged in Mr. Coulter's windpipe, later passing down to the right lung, where it rested with apparently no way of removing it.

After months of racking coughing and intense pain, 11 months confinement to his bed, and a loss of 40 pounds in weight, Mr. Coulter, in a spasm of coughing dislodged the crown from his lung, July 18 last, eight days less than six months from the day he swallowed it.

Medical and surgical science had been unable to reach it, but the jar caused by a ride in an automobile and the excitement of a ball game into which, incidentally, he had to be carried, led him into an eight day spasm of coughing.

Local physicians declare that Coulter's case is without parallel in their experience. That his finger nails stopped growing demonstrates clearly the seriousness of his condition.

Mr. Coulter is one of the pioneer baseball players of the coast. Back in the eighties he was a star second baseman on the Portland team, which set the pace for the baseball teams from Victoria to San Francisco. The late Willis S. Dunniway pitched for Portland at that time and was the father of the curved ball in this part of the country, says Coulter.

Louis C. Coulter.

CHADBOURNE'S STREAK OF HITTING HAS COME TO IGNOMINIOUS END

Star Batter Had Four Chances to Wallop Pill; His Is the Coast Record.

Chester Chadbourne's remarkable batting record—safe hits in 28 consecutive contests—was brought to an end yesterday afternoon when he failed to hit safely in four trips to the plate.

In his long string of games, Chadbourne had batted against all the twirlers of the Sacramento, Oakland and San Francisco and Venice teams. His starring started August 26 on the local field.

During the run of his string, the fleet footed Portland centerfielder lined out 45 safe hits in 120 trips to the plate, giving him an average of .375. During that time he scored 19 tallies, which placed him among the 10 leading run getters of the league.

This record is a new one for the Pacific coast. The world's record, according to unofficial reports, is held by Tyrus Cobb, who hit safely in 32 consecutive games.

AGRICULTURAL EXPERT TO TOUR WASHINGTON

Northern Pacific Makes Plans for Conducting Demonstration Car.

Plans for conducting Professor P. G. Holding, the agricultural expert, through its territory in Washington have been completed by the Northern Pacific railroad, according to advices received by A. D. Charlton, assistant general passenger agent in Portland, yesterday. The Northern Pacific will take the Holden party at North Yakima, Wash., after the Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation company has taken it through its territory southward from Spokane and along the Oregon side of the Columbia for 10 days. Sixteen lecturers will be included in the Holden party, with 15 Northern Pacific representatives and professors from the agricultural schools at Pullman, Wash., and Moscow, Idaho. The train will consist of two Pullmans, a diner, a business car and a large coach, to be used as an auditorium and exhibit car.

The party will traverse the Northern Pacific lines 15 days, with 7 days over the Great Northern.

The efforts of the Oregon Development league to secure Professor Holden for Oregon proved successful yesterday when a telegram was received from Chicago, announcing that the lecturer would be available after October 29, when he shall have finished his 40-day tour of eastern Washington and Idaho.

In the meantime, however, the Hill roads are sending Professor Thomas Shaw into central Oregon by automobile, teaching the farmers on the land tributary to the Oregon Trunk railway of the possibilities of dry farming and dairying. Professor Shaw will address gatherings of farmers at the county fairs. He will begin at Prineville.

CRAIG FUNERAL WILL BE CONDUCTED TODAY

The funeral of James Craig of Silverton, who dropped dead in the Commercial club office several days ago, will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock, under the auspices of Washington Blue lodge of Masons, from the Dunning & McEntee chapel. Interment will be at Riverview cemetery.

Mr. Craig was a well known resident of Silverton, where he had lived for many years, and was known as the father of the flax industry in this state. He had scores of friends and to the citizens of Silverton he was well known as a public spirited man and a benefactor. In Portland, he also had a wide acquaintance. The funeral service will be conducted by Rev. John H. Boyd and interment will be at Riverview cemetery. The pall bearers will be Knights Templar.

Mr. Craig became a member of Lebanon lodge, No 191, A. F. & A. M., of New York City, in 1874. He was a member of San Jose commandery Knights Templar, No. 10, of San Jose, Cal., of Oregon Consistory, No. 1, of this city, and of Islam Temple, San Francisco, of the Mystic Shriners. He was also a member of the Salem lodge of Elks.

SHERIDAN CROPS FULLY UP TO EXPECTATIONS

Sheridan, Or., Sept. 20.—Hop-picking in the Sheridan section is finished. The crop harvested this year has been the cleanest that has been gathered in many seasons. Growers are holding the baled product, awaiting higher prices.

The prune crop has been excellent and growers are optimistic regarding prices for their dried fruit.

The clover crop has been unusually heavy this year and the rains have not interfered to any extent with the harvesting and threshing of the output. Many fields have produced 10 and 12 bushels of clover seed per acre, netting the farmers an unusually large revenue. About one-fourth of the acreage contiguous to Sheridan is now in clover.

The grain and hay crop has been fully up to expectations, having been heavier than for several seasons past.

GREEK WORKMEN AT SHERIDAN DISMISSED

Sheridan, Or., Sept. 20.—Sheridan's hopes of being successful in completing the paving work allotted for this year were given a rude jolt yesterday when 50 workmen, all Greeks, were summarily dismissed as a result of insubordination and mutiny. The laborers refused to comply with the wishes of the various foremen and threatened to resort to violence. With difficulty the foreigners were overcome and sent out of the city. Fifty more men are now on their way here to resume the work left by their predecessors. To date, about 27,000 square yards of pavement have been laid. Every effort will be made to lay 13,000 yards more before the fall rains set in.

Mysore state, India, has an area of 29,475 square miles and a population of 5,806,193 persons.

MULTNOMAH BOYS TO GET SIGNAL PRACTICE TODAY FOR FIRST TIME

Team Still Shy on Ends but Otherwise Stronger Than Ever; Line Is Good.

Tandem right.
6-12-21-34 Hike.

The above phrases will be repeated many times on Multnomah Field this morning, when the club team will turn out for the third Sunday practice of the season. It is expected that every player, who has reported this season, will be on the grounds when Assistant Manager Pratt assembles the players.

Manager Plowden Stott is out of the city again and will not return till Monday. Stott promises, however, to be on hand after that, to watch his players till the end of the season.

The club is still a little shy on end players. Little trouble is expected in developing the backfield material, of which there is plenty. There will be no trouble whipping the line into shape.

The backfield was robbed of Dean H. Walker, who captained the University of Oregon team last season, when the Oregon player was elected graduate manager in place of Arthur Geary.

The second team will be on hand again this morning. As soon as a full team is lined up the players will get together and elect a captain.

2:30 pace—Major Hardy, Patton Duke, May Davis; time, 2:17½, 2:18½, 2:22½, 2:25 (four heats).

2:12 trot—Padisha won, Kenneth second, Hops third; time, 2:21¼, 2:18¾, 2:25, 2:25 (four heats).

⅝-mile dash—Ostentatious won, Doval-Ta second, Shrimp third; time, 1:04.

Special ¼-mile dash—Handsome Fuller won, Ragged Bill second, Lucky B. third; time, 0:25.

The races this year were all run under the combination system, every heat a race, division of purse after each heat.

The week's relay honors went to Frank Crimins' string of runners, with a clean sweep for the entire week.

St. Louis Keeps Huggins.

St. Louis, Sept. 20.—Miller Huggins, leader of the St. Louis team of the National league, this afternoon signed a contract to manage the club for another year, according to announcement made by the club officials.
