

THOUSANDS SEE MILK SHOW; MAY CONTINUE EXHIBIT TWO WEEKS Popular Interest Displayed in Show Exceeds All Expectations; Practical Side Told.

Wednesday's Program at Milk Show. Exhibit fourth floor, Meier & Frank store, open 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Admission free. Consumers League in charge.

Three thousand people visited the Milk show yesterday afternoon. Double the number is expected today. Popular interest has been so great that the executive committee of the show will meet tomorrow to decide whether it should be continued for two weeks instead of the six days first planned.

Many "Don'ts" Made Emphatic. The show has both taste and mind attraction. One may quaff foaming goblets of sweet, pure milk, grading high under any test, furnished free by exhibiting dairymen, and read in the Baby Home booth.

Practical Lesson Taught. And though the ice cream was most delicious for older people, it had to be taken in connection with a practical lesson in what not to feed tots less than a year old in the modified milk booth adjoining that of the dairy and food commissioner. Here are some of the things babies less than a year old shouldn't be given.

Milk Keep Barns Clean. Dr. Mack's bad dairy barn must be seen in conjunction with E. L. Thompson's model dairy.

The government pictures of correct and incorrect delivery may constitute the next lesson. The methods of pasteurization by the Portland Pure Milk & Cream company, and production of raw milk by F. M. Kiger and the Thompson Clover Hill dairies. Scientific tests to show good and bad milk under the microscope—and looking at the microscopic wonders, had been of interest to small boys—were furnished by the city, the O. A. C. exhibit and the Damascus creamery.

Congress of Mothers in Charge. Commissioner C. A. Biegel, represented Mayor H. R. Albee in the address of welcome at the opening of the milk show program yesterday afternoon. He spoke of the administration's great interest in maintaining a high standard of milk production and delivery. Dr. Joseph Ribberback discussed "Milk as a Food"; "Care of Milk in the Home"; Mrs. Sarah A. Evans; "Present Condition of the Milk Supply"; City Health Officer Marcellus; "Need and Results of Milk Inspection"; Mrs. Ethel Lyon-Beard of Galveston; Mrs. C. F. Nichols, president of the Woman's auxiliary of the North Portland Commercial club, presided.

The first hearing of protests against assessed valuations for 1913 was held yesterday afternoon by the board of equalization, composed of Circuit Judge Cloeton, Assessor Reed and County Clerk Coffey. The most important protest heard was that of George Bates & Co., bankers, and was an objection to an assessment of $50,000 capital stock on the ground that the capital stock of the company was reduced that amount as the result of the absorption of the west side bank of the company by the Lumbermen National bank. March 1 the stock was in existence, but March 4 the change had been made and it was contended that it was pending at the time of the assessment.
