

NAMES OF JURYMEN IN THE DAVIS INQUIRY ARE NOT REVEALED

Veniremen to Look Into Case of Confessed Dynamite Conspirator Are Chosen.

(United Press Last-Ed Wire.) Indianapolis, Oct. 4.—The federal grand jury venire, which will investigate the latest phase of the dynamite conspiracy revealed in the confession of George E. Davis, was drawn today on the order of Judge A. R. Anderson. The names were made public. The jury will convene November 11, and meanwhile a rigid investigation of all matters related in the confession will be made by District Attorney Charles W. Miller, assisted by Robert J. Foster, a detective in the employ of the National Erectors' association. Three new bailiffs were appointed today by Judge Anderson to guard Davis. In personal characteristic Davis resembles Orin McKinnis, whose confession helped to send the McKinnis brothers and 33 other union leaders to the penitentiary. Davis is smiling perpetually, apparently unmindful of the responsibility of answering for dynamitings of many open shop jobs.

MUNICIPAL LEAGUE IS AFTER HUMPHRIES

Seattle Civic Organization Votes to Investigate Conduct of Judge.

(United Press Last-Ed Wire.) Seattle, Wash., Oct. 4.—Without one dissenting vote among the 200 members present, the Municipal league this afternoon adopted a resolution to appoint a committee to investigate the conduct of Judge John E. Humphries of the superior court of King county, who during the past week sent 84 men and women to jail for terms ranging from one day to 11 months on contempt charges.

The action of the Municipal league, which is to receive the report of its committee next Saturday, is considered the opening gun in a general campaign against the judge.

Tonight there are six women and 25 men serving sentences in the county jail for contempt, although the three orators whose arrest for criticizing Judge Humphries at a public meeting led to the campaign intended to make a farce of his authority, were yesterday acquitted by Judge Humphries himself.

Tomorrow night a mass meeting will be held at Dreamland pavilion, at which Governor Lister will be requested to pardon all of those now in jail.

Judge Humphries repeatedly declared from the bench yesterday that he is bigger than the governor in those cases, and that he alone holds the pardoning power.

In all Judge Humphries has tried 57 cases for contempt, in only three of which he decided for acquittal. In addition, he has barred two attorneys, defendants in the contempt cases.

CHANCE TO GET FARM IN YAKIMA PROJECT

Government Will Hold Drawings for 17 Farms in Sunnyside Unit.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.) Washington, Oct. 4.—The secretary of the interior has announced a drawing for seventeen valuable farms under the Sunnyside unit of the Yakima irrigation project, Washington, applications for which may be filed November 11.

All applications must be accompanied by payment of the first installment of water right charges for building, operation and maintenance amounting to $1.16 per acre of irrigable and included in the farm unit, selected, plus land office fees and commissions. Full information and copies of the public notice may be obtained at the local land office and at the office of the reclamation service at North Yakima, Wash.

OREGON STATE FAIR WILL SHOW SURPLUS INSTEAD OF DEFICIT

(Continued From Page One.) attention to exhibiting them anyway. So the best results were not obtained. This year the products were of excellent quality, and farmers and others who have lived in the Willamette valley for many years, this week visited the state fair for the first time.

The closing day was a happy one. The winners were here in numbers from Portland and other towns of the state. The racing program developed some of the most exciting races of the week. Prizes of the fair is on every one's lips tonight.

MARSHFIELD HAS THE REFORM CRUSADE FEVER

Marshfield, Or., Oct. 4.—There promises to be a little lively campaign in Marshfield to bring about reform movements. While the "wet" and "dry" question cannot be brought up for some time those who favor prohibition and reforms are working hard to get all their followers registered for the next city election. It is said that this faction has secured workers from outside who have been campaigning and holding secret meetings.

The city council at a recent meeting made a reform move in ordering all restaurants to remove all boxes and curtains.

RETIRED COLONEL TO RESIDE IN PORTLAND

Colonel Cornelius Gardner.

Colonel Cornelius Gardner, United States army retired, will make Portland his home for the coming winter. Colonel Gardner and his family arrived in the city last week and have taken apartments at the Dandorf, Sixteenth and Taylor streets.

Colonel Gardner is well known in Portland, having been temporarily in command of the department of the Columbia during the absence of General Massey about two years ago. Previous to his retirement, September 4 last, he was in command of the Presidio at San Francisco. Colonel Gardner has been staying during the past summer on his apple ranch at Oriley, near Astoria. His two little daughters will attend Portland academy during the winter. Colonel Gardner was in the active service of the army for nearly 45 years.

As a matter of fact, most of the betting on the series appears to be on "hunches." No one has been able to pick up one good reason on which to base an opinion that would hold water as to the winner. It works in the same old circle. Conceding the Giants the best of the pitchers, the Athletics have the slugger, Plank is bettering the Giant batters. They can't figure how good the veteran is likely to be. Plank is 39 years old. He has been banded roughly at times in his own league during the season. In Marquard he will meet a pitcher who is just reaching his prime. Everything is ahead of the Ruba, while Plank long ago reached his crest. It is the question of how much of the old fire Plank may re-ignite that has the Giant backers stumped. They don't know. Possibly Mack knows. Mathewson, Marquard, Tesreau and Demaree, McGraw's big four, represent the Giants' best bet. Leaving out the Athletic pitching argument, Mack has Baker, Collins, Oldring, and McInnis, all 300 batters, and dangerous no matter what sort of pitching they are up against.

EVERY SEAT GONE FOR 'TIAL GAME OF GREAT SERIES

(Continued From Page One.) beating from the Yankees. Mack put a complete team of substitutes in the sixth inning but the fact remains that the Athletics won the American league pennant with five less victories than the Giants used in bringing down the National league flag. The Athletics, however, were not pushed as long or as hard by Cleveland as were McGraw's men by the Phillies. The Naps fell back beaten long before the Phillies gave up and finished in third place. There is, therefore, little to draw out of this to back up any hunch for a bet.

Nothing is on the Marches. As a matter of fact, most of the betting on the series appears to be on "hunches." No one has been able to pick up one good reason on which to base an opinion that would hold water as to the winner. It works in the same old circle. Conceding the Giants the best of the pitchers, the Athletics have the slugger, Plank is bettering the Giant batters. They can't figure how good the veteran is likely to be. Plank is 39 years old. He has been banded roughly at times in his own league during the season. In Marquard he will meet a pitcher who is just reaching his prime. Everything is ahead of the Ruba, while Plank long ago reached his crest. It is the question of how much of the old fire Plank may re-ignite that has the Giant backers stumped. They don't know. Possibly Mack knows. Mathewson, Marquard, Tesreau and Demaree, McGraw's big four, represent the Giants' best bet. Leaving out the Athletic pitching argument, Mack has Baker, Collins, Oldring, and McInnis, all 300 batters, and dangerous no matter what sort of pitching they are up against.

Sifting down, however, much depends on the Athletic pitching, which has aroused so many expressions of doubt. Mack's $100,000 infield in the greatest in the country and outshines the Giants' inner defense. But what good will a crack infield be if the Giants are able to "hit 'em where they ain't"?

The Giants have been showing considerable improvement in batting in the last few days. They drove out 18 hits in the first game against the Phillies. Fletcher has bloomed as a home run demon. He connected for the circuit yesterday and repeated today.

"Doping" in averages readily shows that the Athletics lead the Giants in hitting, fielding and practically every department except pitching. These averages, however, cover the entire season in their respective leagues. The question then remains, will this ratio still be held in a short series?

The chief "hunch" of the Giant backers is simply that McGraw, having failed in two attempts to take the world's title, is due to win. Nothing better than even money is offered on the strength of the bunch, however. But few are open to picking the winner; they can only argue it. The best forecast is for fair weather Tuesday, if it doesn't rain.

TARIFF BILL TO PROVE BENEFIT TO PEOPLE AS WHOLE, IS OPINION

(Continued From Page One.) true in the hosiery and glove industry. The foreign hosiery manufacturers have already increased their price sufficient to offset the tariff reduction. Some gloves probably will be slightly less.

"There has been practically no change in the tariff on items which are considered luxuries, such as toys and similar items, not considered necessities. "By many of the consumers the reduction in tariff is somewhat misunderstood. For instance, on limes, where the tariff was 10 per cent, now reduced to 25 per cent, or a 15 per cent reduction, is taken to mean that the goods will cost 15 per cent less, while this is not altogether correct. A reduction of 15 per cent applies only to the foreign cost, and actually figures less than 9 per cent of the landed cost, which will, however, mean some saving in this particular commodity to the consumer."

W. F. Olds, of Olds, Wortman & King, stated the only tariff that would ever work properly will be put in effect by a tariff commission. He said he favors the removal of all tariff questions from the pale of the senate and the house. "The new tariff is political like all others," said Mr. Olds, "and I do not think it will benefit the consumer very much in any event. The only tariff that will ever prove of real benefit will, I believe, result from the creation of a tariff commission, empowered to handle the tariff on a scientific basis, giving protection to industries in need of it, no protection to those able to go it alone, and authorized to act in such a manner that any foreign nation cannot take advantage of a lower tariff on our part to raise their export duties, or their prices. As long as the tariff is handled by the senate and house it will be governed more or less by politics of one kind or the other, and this fact cannot be explained away."

Hay Market Is "Bullish." Pendleton, Or., Oct. 4.—One of the largest sales of hay ever made in this vicinity by one person was closed yesterday when C. P. Bowman of Butler Creek sold 1500 tons to the Walla Walla Meat company at $8 per ton.

RAILROAD AND LUMBER INTERESTS LOSE MUCH IN GREAT TEXAS FLOOD

Damage to Cotton and Rice Heavy but Worst of Situation Believed Past.

(United Press Last-Ed Wire.) Dallas, Texas, Oct. 4.—With the sun setting clear over north Texas this evening, the seriousness of the Texas flood situation has begun to abate. There will be many thousands of dollars' damage to railroad and lumber industry, however, and unless dry weather immediately comes, a heavy loss to the cotton crop. Already there has been tremendous damage to the cotton in the fields. The only hope is for clear weather and a late frost date to make for a big "top crop" or after-growth. The situation in the coast country and the southwest continues serious. Reports are that the Sabine is again rising and several streets at Orange are once more under water. Only one of the saw mills there was able to turn a wheel today and that was in the planing department. It will be days before anything like normal conditions can be resumed even should the rain quickly subside. Reports from the rice fields are gloomy indeed, and while loss reports have probably been exaggerated, the figures will be high enough. The Rio Grande is rising at all points within 200 miles of Brownsville and it is out of banks at several places where fine cotton fields are under water with the staple damaged if not destroyed. Train service is seriously crippled on all lines out of Houston, and it is almost impossible to make schedules. Dispatchers are busy defouring and patching, and the time made is slow, owing to soft tracks and high water.

Concord, Or., Oct. 4.—Yesterday afternoon the Parent-Teachers' association held its first regular yearly meeting at the schoolhouse, about 15 women being present. The officers for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Mrs. James Wallace; vice president, Mrs. Brownell; secretary, Mrs. A. C. Arnold; treasurer, Mrs. Phillip Ostfield. An address on manual training and domestic art was given by Mrs. Aristone Feltz of Portland, who will be a candidate for state president of the Oregon Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teachers' association. Professor Frank Keelan of the Concord school also gave a short talk along the same lines. Miss Gertrude Lee addressed the meeting and music was furnished by Miss Mary Rice of Oak Grove. The next regular meeting will be held the first Friday in November.

WILL MEGAPHONE MAN GET WHITE HOUSE JOB?

Washington, Oct. 4.—Secretary Tumulty took a jaunt through the city today on a night seeing automobile. Passing the White House the "lecturer" announced: "There are the executive offices and also those of the president's secretary, a genial man of good looks and rare ability." "Tumulty blushed and wondered what job the lecturer was trying to get. Then he was tickled on questioning him, to discover that the guide didn't know he had the secretary as his passenger. P. S.—Tonight Tumulty re-discovered that the guide DID know him and wants a job as White House policeman.
