WILLIAM R. WALPOLE, CHARITY WORKER, DIES

of Seventy-five.

William Rufus Walpole, one time sec-retary of the Portland Y. M. C. A. and former secretary of the City Board of Charities (now Associated Charities), died at his home, 143 Bancroft avenue gesterday afternoon at the age of 75. He had been in poor health for some time. Mr. Watpole was well known as a anthropist and public-spirited citi-It was he with several others who organized and financed the first free circulating library in the city. Almost slone he made the Associated Charities a virile philanthropic organization. He first came to Portland in 1887 to take the position of secretary at the local Y. M. C. A. In 1889 he resigned to become the head of the Associated Charities, which office he held until August, 1912. when he resigned because of poor health.
He was succeeded by V. R. Manning, present head of the Associated Charities.
Mr. Walpole was born in Clinton county, New York, Jly 4, 1838. He left New York in 1864, four years after his marriage to Caroline Andrews of Port Douglas, N. Y. In 1884 he moved to southern Oregon, coming to Portland in Speaking of Mr. Walpole, Dr. T. L. Ellot, paster emeritus of the Church of Our Father said today, "He was a simstraightforward, high-minded and high-purposed man, of considerable reserve. I esteemed him very highly for I was associated with him closely many years in the work of the Associated Charittes. His work was of inestimable while in that organisation." value in that organization.

Themas N. Strong, an attorney in the Labbe building, who was president of the Board of Charities during the time Mr. Walpole was accretary, remarked this morning, on the latter's efficient work during the hard times of 1893. "Mr. Walpole," he said this morning, "organized the relief work during that is rible period and through his untiring efforts secured and distributed thousands of dollars to the poor. It was largely his idea that the city and the Associated Charities joined hands in 1892-93 and put the unemployed to work on the Jefferson street improvement. The city furnished the tools and the society the food and the clothing. Men worked food and the clothing. Men worked food and clothing and other commodities. For 22 years Mr. Walpole had the direction of almost all the charitable ik of Portland. He was an extremely

AGITATE REVISION OF DOCK BONDS CASE ARGUMENT IS MADE

Well Known Philanthropist Expected That Supreme Court Stock and Bond Companies Passes Away at the Age Decision Will Be Handed Behind Plan; Measure Is Down Tuesday.

> (Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., Oct. 9. - The Portland dock bond case, being a mandamus suit brought by the city of Portland and Henry Teal against Mayor Albee and City Auditor Barbur to compel them to sign an issuance of dock bonds authorzed by the city council, was argued before the supreme court yesterday afternoon, and it is probable that a de-cision will be handed down next Tuesday. City Attorney La Roche and Deputy City Attorney H. M. Tomlinson argued in behalf of the city and F. W. Mulkey, chairman of the dock commission, argued in behalf of the mayor and city auditor. The questions at issue are involved in an interpretation of sections 92 and 93 of the new commission form charter, one of the sections says in effect that no bonds shall be issued unless au-thorized by a vote of the people, but that this provision shall not apply to ands heretofore authorized. The question has been raised whether this means bonds heretofore authorized by the people and acted on by the city council, which has been a part of the procedure in preparing them for sale, or bonds authorized by the people only.

Mr. Mulkey argued that the section of the new charter providing that bonds must be authorized by the people is meaningless, because there was already a law with such a provision, and that it must have reference to authorization by the city council. The city attorney argued that the fact that a new law makes the same pro-vision as an existing law doesn't make it invalid. He said that this act not only declares what the law already was but in effect reenacts a provision con-tained in the old charter. He contended tained in the old charter. He contended that section 92 of the new charter and the bond selling power vested under the dock commission act are not inconsistent. He insisted that the word authorized all through the new charter has reference to authorization by the people, He said the council never authorized the issuance of bonds and has not that power.

THE BLUE SKY LAW

Preparatory to the formation of a permanent organization to agitate the revision of the Oregon "blue sky" corporation act, a score of men representing stock and bond companies met last night in the Commercial club building, discussed the proposition and elected Cleveland Hilson, a mining engineer; temporary chairman. The next meeting will convene at the call of the chair.

According to W. E. Davidsen, of Davidson & Co., and one of the leaders of the movement, the intent of the law and its operation conflict and the organiza-tion hopes its efforts will bring about evisions, "Many companies engage in legitimate business are working under hardships on account of the so called blue sky law," said Mr. Davidson today. "It is en-tirely too drastic. While all of us affected by it believe the intent of the measure is good and if properly con-structed would be a good thing, it is in its present form victous, and by deny-ing a man of the use of his own property is contrary to the constitution of the United States.

"The law is aimed at crooks but it stops 500 men working in legitimate channels to pick out one crook. The law has many weak points and for one thing gives the corporation commission-The law gives him executive and judi-cial powers not intended and places business at the mercy of his whim."

ILLNESS CAUSED BY SMOKE BASIS OF SUIT

Severe and continuous hemorrhages of the lungs, caused by the smoke and vapors that entered the coach windows and doors while the train was passing through a tunnel, is the basis of a damage suit filed this morning in the federal court by Conrad Schoech, a trained nurse, against the Southern Pacific The tunnel in question is the long one just at the summit of the Siskiyous. Schoech alleges the train stopped in the middle of this tunnel, and the crew of the train, in passing through the coach, let in so much smoke and vapor that the plaintiff became ill. Damages amounting to $30,750 are asked.

Excuses for Failing to Obey Account of Holdup Told by W Ordinances of No Avail in Court.

Mrs. Ida Phelps, 5402 Fourth avenue, gave an expressman $1 to cart her dog to the pound, but he failed to do so. The charge of not having a license was dismissed in the municipal court today, but the expressman was ordered to get a tag.
Virgil Keane, 425 Church street, blamed his wife for allowing his dog out without a muzzle. It happened that the dog catcher came along at this time and seized the dog. Keane was fined $5. Charles Mathews, 1409 Union avenue, north, was fined $3 for not securing a new license tag. J. H. Moon, 707 Reed street, secured his license this morning immediately after breakfast. The judge dismissed the charge against him. Mrs. L. E. Crashar, 6416 Seventy-first street, gave her dog away when the poundmaster ordered a tag. She had forgotten the name of the man now having the canine, but promised to ask her husband and inform the dog catcher. Mrs. E. J. Hyatt was fined $3 for not having a new license.

The dog owned by Joe Sherman, $10 Second street, got a sore nose from wearing a muzzle, so Sherman removed the muzzle. He was fined $2.

A. J. Brault, 231 Chapman street, was fined $5 for not having his dog muzzled or tagged. M. F. Markley, Center and Main streets, paid the court $2 for not securing a license on time. $3 for not securing a license on time.

E. Benson, 1507 Virginia street, paid

CHAUFFEUR ADMITS

B. Ponnay Was to Conceal Escapade.

W. B. Ponnay, a professional chauffeur, living at 894 Lovejoy street, yesterday afternoon admitted to Chief of Police Clark and Captain of Detectives Baty that he invented the holdup story told the police Tuesday evening. story was told to cover up Ponnay's experience with a married man, who caught the chauffeur with his wife. The holdup story told by Ponnay was that two men dragged him from his automobile at Twenty-first and Lovejoy streets, took some papers from his pocket and then assaulted him. Chief Clark heard the other story and began an investigation. Ponney admitted he overheard a woman talking to another woman over the telephone, the first woman stating that her husband was out of town.

Ponnay then called the first woman making an engagement for 10 o'clock at Twenty-third and Irving streets. The chauffeur was there with his employer's auto. The woman appeared around the corner. At this point her husband appeared behind a tree. The angry hus-band took Ponnay from the auto, ad-ministering an old fashioned whipping. The woman ran home, followed by her husband, who she thought was out of the city.

Ponnay left the chief's office under promise for the rest of his life to emulate George Washington.

This would have been ad news for the fat woman a year ago. She would have had to try dieting or exercise. Nowadays, however, the woman who is too fat for the styles goes to a druggist and gets a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, one of which she takes after each meal and at bedtime, and so reduces her superfluous flesh quickly.

These tablets, being made in accordance with the famous prescription, are perfectly harmless, and they are, also, the most economical preparation a person can buy, for they cost only 75 cents a large case, one of which is frequently enough to start a person losing fat the rate of 12 to 14 ounces a day. Pretty nearly every druggist keeps this tablet in stock, but should yours be sold out, you can easily obtain a case by sending to the makers, the Marmela Company, Farmer Building, Detroit, Mich.
