AND MRS. GAY LOMBARD presided at a beautifully appointed dinner dance last evening at the Waverly Country club in honor of Mr. Lombard's birthday. The 52 guests were seated at one long table in the spacious dining room, which was set with Venetian boys' laden with huge American heavy lugs. Greens and palms about the rooms made an attractive setting for the many handsome gowns worn in the corner of the ball room punch was served during the dancing. The mantle in the drawing room was also banked with the scarlet rosebuds and palms were set about in effective clusters. Those who enjoyed the Lombards' hospitality were: Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Greife, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Shevlin, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. David T. Hoesman, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. James Dougherty, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Forbes, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Owen, Dr. and Mrs. George Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Morris H. Whitehouse, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Matson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Burrell, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Honeyman, Major and Mrs. Adrian Fleming of the Army post; Mrs. Elizabeth Freeman, Miss Gertrude Talbot, Miss Bertha Tongue, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilder, Clarence Sewall, Thales Linthicum, Jordan Zan and Kurt Koehler.

Grutter Gleason Nuptials. Miss Louise Gleason made a most charming and petite little bride yesterday morning when she was married to Walter Albin Grutter at the Madeleine church in Irvington by the Rev. Father Thompson. The ceremony was read at 11:30 a. m. and was followed by a nuptial mass. A feature of the services was the singing of Miss Madeline Stone, J. Clair Monteth and Oliver B. Hughes, with Miss Mayme Helen Flynn presiding at the organ.

A fashionably gowned audience filled the church. The altars were a bevy of flowers and white cosmos being used in profusion with ferns and palms. The wedding party, taking their places in the sanctuary for the ceremony, presented a charming picture, colorful and beautiful in the soft glow of candles. The bride was exquisitely gowned in ivory white charmeuse draped in handsome lace, a combination of point de Gaze and real applique.

Her cap was fashioned of the same lace and her long tulle veil fell in filmy folds over the whole, in charming effect. Her bouquet was of lilies of the valley and orchids arranged in a shower with the lilies and tulle ribbon.

Walter B. Gleason led his sister to the altar and Miss Edna Minsinger was her only attendant. Miss Minsinger was beautifully gowned in white acordion plaited shadow lace with a drape of emerald green chiffon and a chic black lace hat. Her bouquet was of Richmond buds.

Harold Soymith of Salem acted as best man, and the ushers were William Healy, Joseph Cronin, Maurice Dooly and Walter Daly.

After the service the bridal party received at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. James Gleason, on Thirteenth and Welder streets from 12:30 until 4. Mrs. Gleason received with them. She was handsomely gowned in a mahogany toned charmeuse with draped skirt en train and lace bodice of white over gold lace. She wore a becoming hat of black with plumes.

The house was elaborately decorated with autumn leaves and Oregon grape combined with clusters of russet shaded zinnia which harmonized most effectively with the autumn tones. A string orchestra played throughout the hours of the reception from the upper hall, where they were arranged in a bower of palms and greens.

Mrs. Dan J. Malarky and Mrs. Henry E. McGinn presided at the dining table, from which a buffet luncheon was served. The table was most attractively set with center of pink Killarney buds and festoons of asparagus fern. Mrs. Malarky was attired in a gown of mole colored crepe meteor, a handsome Paquin model with coat of white lace and she wore some charming silver and amethyst ornaments. Her hat was of black velvet with plumes.

Mrs. McGinn wore a handsome gown of black charmeuse with an overdrape of black acordion plaited chiffon and bodice of white lace over pink chiffon.

MISS MARY MONKS BECOMES BRIDE OF F. S. HEALY

Miss Mary Korn and Miss Clara Marsh presided at the punch bowl and assisting about the rooms were Miss Frances Brady, Miss Helen Minsinger, Miss Marjorie Read and Miss Irene Daly.

The ring was cut by Miss Edna Minsinger and Miss Irene Daly caught the bride's bouquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Grutter left for their honeymoon trip through southern California and they will be home after November 1 at the Trinity Place apartments.

Mr. Grutter is a native of Switzerland, where he passed his childhood. He has resided in the west for the past five years. Miss Gleason is the daughter of the late James Gleason, one of Portland's best known attorneys.

Healy-Monks Wedding. This morning at 11 o'clock the many friends of Miss Mary Monks and Frank S. Healy thronged St. Patrick church for the wedding, which was read by Rev. Father Murphy, pastor of the church. Both Mr. Healy and Miss Monks are popular young people and the affair elicited much interest. Miss Monks is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Monks, a charming and attractive girl. Her sister, Mrs. J. C. Costello (Margaret) lives in the West End hotel, and the bridemaids were Miss Theresa Jennings and Miss Anne Healy. Little Mildred Seufert was the flower girl. A reception followed the nuptial mass at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Monks from 12 to 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Condon Hosts. Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Condon entertained at their home, 105 Richmond street, St. Johns, October 8, a number of friends in honor of Mr. Condon's birthday. The evening was enjoyed with music and five hundred. First honors were won by Mrs. Cochran, with Mrs. Tracy second. Later all repaired to the dining room, where a delicious lunch was served. Mr. Condon received a number of presents. Among them were several beautiful steins to add to the large collection he already has. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Worthington, Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Cochran, Mr. and Mrs. H. Windle, Mr. and Mrs. C. Kruger, Mr. and Mrs. Pray, Mrs. W. J. Royse, Mrs. L. Hamilton, Miss G. Keuching, Mrs. G. Cochran, Bumidge, Miss F. E. Weans, M. Miller, Mrs. A. Worthington, H. A. Harris, Mrs. A. Krueger, G. Krueger.

Anniversary Celebrated. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Currier celebrated their fifteenth wedding anniversary at their home, 1005 East Twenty-fifth street north, Saturday evening, October 11. The evening was pleasantly spent with cards and music. Miss Emma Walton presiding at the piano. Mr. and Mrs. Currier were the recipients of many beautiful presents. The home was artistically decorated with streamers, ferns and flowers. A dainty luncheon was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Sharkey, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wenne, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ham, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Currier, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Schmidt, Miss Bessie Walton, Miss Cole, Miss Emma Fanning, Miss Helen Currier, Miss Beulah Currier, John M. A. Laue, Thomas Banfield, Edward Fearing and Paul Hastings.

Lewis-True Wedding. A quiet home wedding took place Wednesday evening, October 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William True, 74 East Pine street, when their daughter, Miss Nora Violet, became the bride of Foss B. Lewis of Oak Grove. Rev. C. A. Lewis, the groom's father, officiated, using the beautiful ring service. Only immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. After the ceremony dainty refreshments were served, then the guests repaired to the apartment at 77 1/2 East Pine street, the future home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, where the wedding gifts were displayed. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will be at home to their many friends after November 1.

Royal Neighbors to Entertain. Oregon Ross camp, Royal Neighbors, will entertain with an informal dancing party on next Friday evening, October 17, in Royal Academy, hall, 55 1/2 Fifth street.

Society Notes. Mrs. June L. Valliant and Mrs. D. D. McGilivray left last evening for Seattle, Wash., to attend the state convention being held in that city by the Royal Neighbors of America.

The Ragtime Muse

Though dear to my heart are the scenes of my childhood
When my collection presents them to view
I'd not care to live there again in the —Amid those remembered surroundings, should you?
My health was superb and my appetite
—I ate my sowbells and greens with a zest
But I find that comestible ordeal is ended—
Such food nowadays I could never digest.
My hickory shirt and my shoes of rough
—My jeans pantaloons that could stand up alone.
My 10 cent straw hat—all my wardrobe
—together I wear it, but should be sleeping soundly. Between 6 a. m. and 9 p. m. he will now have six feedings and this schedule should be maintained until he is a year old.

Many mothers ask content physicians whether the baby should be awakened to be fed. Physicians seem to agree that a baby should never be awakened at night to nurse, and that the healthy baby will wake of its own accord to be fed once in three hours during the day. There are rare exceptions to this rule. For example, when a mother has fed the child irregularly from birth, it sometimes turns night into day, sleeping by day and fretting for food by night. If the child is healthy, normal in every way, then it must be retrained to waken during the day for nursing and to sleep by night without nursing. This very example shows the importance of starting the feeding habits aright from birth, by not nursing more than once during the night.

Another question asked by many mothers who are nursing their babies is: "May I mix the baby's food, giving him an occasional bottle?"

Doctors agree that the answer is governed by conditions. Sometimes the mother's milk is not sufficiently nourishing. In that case, under the direction of the family doctor, bottle and breast-milk may be alternated. In this way, the baby is gently prepared for weaning. Again, in certain families it may be necessary or advisable for the mother to have a certain amount of freedom from her duty of nursing the baby. The mother's milk will still provide certain elements which baby's system demands, and the bottle may be alternated with breast-feeding, always with a doctor advising as to the food in the bottle.

Many prize-winning breast milk exclusively for two or three months, then an intelligent combination of breast and bottle diet.

And this brings us to the problems of the mother who must bring up her baby on the bottle exclusively.

The scientific and successful raising of a baby on the bottle depends upon two distinct lines of care and caution—the selection of the food to be supplied and the care of the bottles. The best of food in an unsanitary bottle or drawn through an unclean nipple becomes dangerous to baby's health.

In shooting artificial food for your baby, remember that even physicians differ on this question. Many eminent American specialists for children insist that fresh cow's milk, properly modified, is the only substitute for mother's milk. Foreign authorities recommend goat's milk. And there are other recognized authorities on baby health who have found it advisable to prescribe for the baby a food which is a combination of milk and patent food. Not only must the mother consult her family physician on this question, but with the physician she must watch the effect of the food chosen on the baby.

Vomiting, restlessness, sleeplessness and the condition of the bowels all tell the tale of food that is not being assimilated. In this connection the information of recreation babies have, that there are two forms of vomiting in the young baby, or more properly speaking, there is a difference between vomiting and regurgitation, slight to be sure, but worth watching. Regurgitation is merely the overflow of milk when the baby has taken too much. It follows almost immediately upon having the breast or bottle taken away, and the milk is in practically the same condition as when it entered the stomach. But when the baby vomits habitually after feeding, and the milk is curdled or tough or sour, there is something wrong with the bottle diet.

The bowels are a sure indication of the way in which the bottle diet agrees or disagrees with the baby. When the passage is hard and bullet-like, when it shows curds or white lumps like cheese, or when mucus is present (a slimy plug), or there is diarrhea, the mother may be sure that the food does not agree with her baby and the doctor should be consulted immediately.

No medicine should be given in such cases without consulting a doctor. What the baby needs is not doing, but the right sort of food, the food its stomach will digest.

At one contest in the midwest the mother of a little prize winner told me that at 11 months, she almost lost her baby. She had changed diet time and time again, varying from certified cow's milk to a well known patent food. The baby was reduced to a skeleton when the physician decided to try not milk, but cream, diluted with barley water. The change in the baby's condition was immediate, and it continued to

LITTLE TALKS ON BABYLOGY

By Anna Steese Richardson
Director of the Better Babies Bureau of the Woman's Home Companion.

No. 8—Feeding the Baby.

(Copyright, 1913, by the Woman's Home Companion.)

THE last talk on babylogy set forth the importance of mother's milk for the baby under one year of age, and the equal importance of the mother keeping herself in good condition. A well-nourished mother means a well-nourished baby.

Next in importance to the sort of milk supplied the baby is the regularity of supplying it. How strange it is that we grown-ups who know the bad effects of irregularity in eating think that a new-born child can be fed irregularly without bad effects!

One of the first questions asked a mother at the better babies contest is: "How many times a day is your child fed?"

The variety of replies is amazing. "I don't know." "Whenever he cries." "When he wakes up." "Oh, when I get through with my work."

Naturally babies fed in this way are seldom prize winners. In studying the score cards of prize winners in a dozen states, I find that 90 per cent are fed at regular intervals, according to their age.

Babies are born hungry. For many weeks they have nothing to do but eat and sleep. A well known writer on babies says that eating is the only form of recreation babies have. Adult intelligence must decide how often this habit of hunger should be satisfied, bearing in mind that a baby will cry just as hard on an overloaded stomach as on an empty one.

The time to start a baby in regular habits of feeding is the day of its birth. The new-born baby should be nursed every two hours from 6 a. m. to 10 p. m., and once during the night at 2 a. m. This means seven feedings in 24 hours. The mother should begin nursing it only once in three hours between 6 a. m. and 9 p. m. with the extra nursing at 2 a. m. This means seven feedings in 24 hours. At four months if the baby shows a normal gain in size and strength, according to the better babies standard score card, he should not be nursed together 9 p. m. and 4 a. m., but should be sleeping soundly. Between 6 a. m. and 9 p. m. he will now have six feedings and this schedule should be maintained until he is a year old.

Many mothers ask content physicians whether the baby should be awakened to be fed. Physicians seem to agree that a baby should never be awakened at night to nurse, and that the healthy baby will wake of its own accord to be fed once in three hours during the day. There are rare exceptions to this rule. For example, when a mother has fed the child irregularly from birth, it sometimes turns night into day, sleeping by day and fretting for food by night. If the child is healthy, normal in every way, then it must be retrained to waken during the day for nursing and to sleep by night without nursing. This very example shows the importance of starting the feeding habits aright from birth, by not nursing more than once during the night.

Another question asked by many mothers who are nursing their babies is: "May I mix the baby's food, giving him an occasional bottle?"

Doctors agree that the answer is governed by conditions. Sometimes the mother's milk is not sufficiently nourishing. In that case, under the direction of the family doctor, bottle and breast-milk may be alternated. In this way, the baby is gently prepared for weaning. Again, in certain families it may be necessary or advisable for the mother to have a certain amount of freedom from her duty of nursing the baby. The mother's milk will still provide certain elements which baby's system demands, and the bottle may be alternated with breast-feeding, always with a doctor advising as to the food in the bottle.

thrive without further change of diet. On the other hand, some babies fed on this modified cream would not thrive. Frankly, feeding a baby deprived of breast milk often results in a baby who must be conducted in an intelligent manner, with the advice of a physician. Do not consult your neighbor, no matter how many babies she has raised successfully. The bottle food which was real food to her babies may be poison for yours. There are no hard and fast rules for bottle foods. Each baby is a case unto itself and requires the most delicate attention, the utmost vigilance. Even two babies in one family may require different forms of artificial nourishment, or at least different modifications of cow's milk.

Women's Clubs

To Organize Parent-Teachers Circle. There will be a meeting at the Elliot school tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock for the purpose of organizing a Parent-Teachers circle. The teachers of the school have prepared a short program, and there will also be a discussion of a playground for this school, a thing that is greatly needed. Among the speakers will be Mrs. F. S. Myers, president of the Portland council; O. M. Plummer of the school board, and Judge Vroeland.

The Coterie Will Meet. The Coterie will hold its program and business meeting tomorrow morning at the Oregon hotel at 11 o'clock. Mrs. James B. Nichols will give a piano number. Current events will be led by Mrs. Lena W. Chambers. A paper on "Child Welfare" will be given by Mrs. Newton McCoy, and Mrs. L. J. H. Barber will give a vocal solo.

Monday Musical to Banquet. Plans are on foot for a large and very elaborate banquet to be given by the Monday musical club the latter part of this month. The banquet will not be strictly a club affair, as representatives of all the musical organizations of the city will be present. A number of short speeches will be presented, and the affair is expected to be in every way a most delightful one. The date and place of the banquet will be announced later. Mrs. H. A. Heppner is president of the club and Mrs. G. J. Frankel secretary. In arranging for the banquet these women have the assistance of Mrs. Percy Lewis, Mrs. Anton Giesbach, Mrs. P. L. Thompson, Mrs. J. L. Stafford, Mrs. Herbert Garr Read, Mrs. May Nichols, Mrs. Kupper, Mrs. Masch, Mrs. Deering, Mrs. Toff, Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Baker and Mrs. Walker.

Portland Study Club Meets. The Portland Study club held its first noon at the home of Mrs. Willis Maguire, Forty-fourth and Brann streets, with a good attendance. The new officers took their chairs, and Mrs. C. J. Mathis made a very pleasing little address, thanking the women for the honor they had bestowed upon her in making her the presiding officer of the club, and asking them for their hearty co-operation toward making the club a real help to each and every member.

A very helpful parliamentary drill was conducted by Mrs. R. E. Gehr, Mrs. W. L. Johnston gave a most pleasing and instructive address on "The First Lady of the Land." The closing number on the program was "Women in Business," by Mrs. Maguire. This address brought out considerable discussion as to the advisability of girls going into business unless it is absolutely necessary, and the result was very interesting and helpful. Roll call was answered with quotations from American statesmen.

W. C. T. U. Conference. Central W. C. T. U. will hold a meeting Wednesday afternoon at headquarters. Each new superintendent is expected to be present and give a two minute talk or paper upon the work of her department. This will be followed by a discussion led by Madames Wilson and Buland.

Each one of the one hundred and fifty paid-up members of central is urged to be present, and the fifty-seven whose dues are past due are cordially requested to come in and pay up on Wednesday.

Stanfield Woman's Club. The Stanfield Woman's Study club gave a reception Friday evening in the assembly room of Reeves high school for the teachers of the public school. An address of welcome was made by Mayor James L. Kyle. A few appropriate remarks were made by W. W. Dunlap, a member of the school board. The principal, Stephen A. Doak, spoke for a few minutes on the welfare of the school, and a few general remarks were made by W. A. Ford of the eighth grade. A musical program was then rendered, after which refreshments were served. Mrs. C. W. Collier, president of the club, presided.
