COLLECTOR BURKE IS CALLED TO NEW YORK Thomas C. Burke, collector of customs for the Oregon district, has been called to attend a conference of collectors of the customs in New York city, November 1. He expects to leave Portland a few days in advance of that date. Acting upon a notice sent out by the treasury department, Mr. Burke yesterday was in conference with Deputy Collector Parker of Astoria, who went over a number of points that will be discussed at the general meeting in New York.

The object of the gathering at the main customs house is to secure cooperation and greater efficiency in economical handling of collections. Mr. Burke expects to stop at Washington on his way to the conference to visit his brother, John Burke, treasurer of the United States.

UNIVERSITY WANTS TAX CERTIFICATES VOIDED Columbia university authorities have filed suit in the circuit court to have declared void the certificates of delinquency for $403.28 and interest and penalties on the certificates amounting to $198.37. The property involved is eight lots in Melvin addition. The taxes were levied in 1907. It is alleged that the university was not incorporated at the time and that Joseph J. Gallagher, president of the institution, held them in his own name in trust. Notice of this was given the assessor, it is claimed, and he promised the assessment would not be made, as the property belonged to an educational institution. The university authorities claim no notice of the assessment or delinquency was given them until in 1911. Sheriff Word is named as defendant.

WELL KNOWN LECTURER MADE HIS START HERE B. R. Baumgardt Ran Printing Office in Portland 22 Years Ago.

B. R. Baumgardt, the well known lecturer who is in Portland to deliver eight lectures at the Lincoln High School under the auspices of the Portland Educational Association, began his business life in Portland. "Twenty-two years ago," he said at the Portland today, "I came to Portland with just four dollars in my pocket. I had left a ship at a point where Vancouver, B. C., stands now, and set out to make my own way. The vessel was owned by my uncle, and I, in the grip of wanderlust, had set out to see the world. "In Portland Mr. William M. Ladd was one of the men who assisted me to start in the printing business and when I sold out three years later the business was making a success. I moved to Los Angeles and there went into the same business. The more successful I became, the less I liked business. Despite success I realized I was not in my proper element. Wanderlust, the guiding star of my life, still held me. I studied and began to lecture and have been at it ever since."

Mr. Baumgardt arrived in Portland Tuesday from California. The first place he visited was the new Central library, which he declares is a wonderful structure and something which would have been widely advertised over the country had it been built in Boston or Los Angeles. Portland he characterizes as the Athens of the Pacific Coast.

WIDE AWAKE PEOPLE USE CLASSIFIED ADS AND MISS NO CHANCES

Four of the largest concerns in Portland were offerings post-ions to women yesterday. Two required experience, the other two did not. Nineteen positions were offered for men, ranging from tinner to experienced silk salesman. Wide awake men and women knew of these jobs by reading the Want Ads in The Journal. The Journal is not merely a scribbling event; over day it brings hundreds of buyers and sellers together through the Want Ads, by keeping readers informed of each other's wants. If you read only the news columns you miss a lot of important offers in the Want Ads. Get into the habit of reading the Want Ads—let your market include the thousands of subscribers of The Journal—don't sleep while opportunity knocks at the door.

Canadian Prairies Populous. There were approximately 19,000,000 acres of land under cultivation in the prairie province of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta in 1912. From this area it is estimated that $100,000,000 will be realized by the farmers for their crops.

CAMPAIGN IS STARTED TO MAKE OREGON 'DRY' Prohibitionist Leader From the East Arrives to Take Charge of Fight.

George C. Pendell of New York, has arrived in Portland to superintend the fight of the "dry" forces of Oregon to swing the state for prohibition in 1914 and secure the election of Prohibition party officials to administer the proposed constitutional amendment. Mr. Pendell expects to align the field workers and also handle the publicity end of the crusade.

Mr. Pendell has been a Prohibition newspaper man and editorial writer for 20 years and is regarded as an excellent political worker. That the Prohibition workers in Oregon are now in better shape than ever to win is the declaration of Mr. Pendell after a survey of the work done to date. With the other parties split, he believes the Prohibition contingent will be able to secure the requisite plurality. "Based on our computations on the increase of returns of 1912 and the natural increase of population, we estimate that 60,000 voters in the state will turn the trick," said Mr. Pendell today. "We already have about 15,000 pledged voters enrolled, and our workers are making reports that add hundreds to the number almost every day. We now have eight paid workers in the field superintending the work, enlisting local workers and instructing them how to proceed and a number of cities and towns already have enough voters enrolled to carry the next election."

REGISTRATION BUREAU WILL BE OPEN NIGHTS UNTIL MONDAY NEXT

Tonight and Friday, Saturday and Monday nights the registration bureau at the county clerk's office will remain open until 9 p. m. to accommodate voters desiring to register for the special election of November 4. After Monday the bureau will be closed until after the election. The office is located on the fifth street side of the main floor of the court house. Only those who have not registered since January 1, 1915, who have moved from one precinct to another since registering, or who desire to change their political affiliation need to re-register at this time.
