

TWO TEAMS SELECTED FROM REED COLLEGE FOR FOOTBALL GAMES

Dormitory Students and Town Men Will Play Instead of Recruiting From Classes.

The recent ruling of the faculty committee on athletics, which provides that all men entering match games of American football at Reed college must previously practice four times a week during a period of four weeks, has made it impossible for the athletic council to arrange a successful interclass schedule. Instead, the student body will be divided and teams representing the dormitory students and the students living in the city will be selected.

At a joint meeting of the faculty committee on athletics, the athletic council, and the captains of the football teams, it was decided to forego the proposed games between the classes. This decision was based on the fact that while many of the men have responded to the call and have practiced faithfully, others have failed to report regularly. This makes it impossible to fill out three entire teams in time. A second consideration is the more even division of strength that is effected by the new system. David Brace will captain the "Day Dodgers" and Arthur Hauck the "Inmates."

The addition of new material will strengthen both teams. The dormitory men will profit by the addition of Shagen, a 180-pound backfield man, who shows every sign of developing into a terrific line-plunger. For the day students Rittenberg will easily make a position at half, because of his powerful and consistent kicking. Irie is being developed into a quarterback. Although he has never before played at the pivot position his natural quickness, accuracy, and the sagacity that he has shown in practice is such that much is being expected from him. He is expected to do especially well in running back punts, as he is both fast and snifty. In addition, Peterson and Miller will add materially to the strength of the line.

There will be a strong veteran backbone to both teams. The "Inmates" will have Redman, a 225-pound hole maker, at center. Piper and Lackey will guard the ends, while in the back field Lanefield will be found at full and Hauck at half. Lanefield is a consistent ground gainer. His line plunging was a feature of last year's games. Hauck is fast and is the hardest man in the college to tackle. Last year his one weakness was his work as defensive half, but this year he will no doubt overcome this trouble. If Irie makes good as quarterback for the "Day Dodgers" Tomlinson will be given an opportunity to return to his natural position at end. With Brace and Tomlinson on the ends, the "Dodgers" will have little to fear from end runs. They will also be able to play more of an open game, depending on their ends to get down the field on punts and passes. McCoy has been shifted from half to full. He hits the line low and hard and is strong on interference. Runyan will be back at his old position at tackle. He is a star defensive player and should develop a good offensive game.

The first game will be played November 5. A second game is scheduled for the 12th. These games will be played on the new athletic field on the college campus. They are open to the public without charge.
