FIRST SHIPMENT OF AUSTRALIAN BEEF HAS ARRIVED IN PORTLAND Wheeler of Marshfield Wants

Shipment Failed to Create Any Excitement; Butchers Adverse to Handling Article.

The first shipment of foreign meats to the Portland market has been re-ceived here. A carload of Australian beef has been brought into the local market by the Union Meat company of market by the Union Meat company of this city. The purchase was made through P. Burns, the Atle king of Vancouver, B. C.

The shipment of the foreign beef into the local market did not create the expected excitement in the trade. Butchers generally were adverse to handling the stock, because it was frozen, and few of them have proper facilities for the handling of such product.

The Australian beef was quoted in

The Australian beef was quoted in the wholesale market at 3 cents a pound less than freshly killed local beef. The foreign stock was priced at 10 cents a pound, but even this lower figure failed to bring about more than a very limited demand.

While the first shipment of Australian beef arrived here in excellent condition, it is not believed that any great quantity will be brought forth in the immediate future unless there is a complete change in the trade's sentiment. Being frozen and lacking proper facilities for handling such a product, leading retailers asserted that they did not intend to purchase in the future.

They give as their reason that there is too much waste in the future.

They give as their reason that there is too much waste in the frozen product after it is thawed out and while the first price is three cents a pound less than the freshly killed home beef, still most of this differential would be ab-sorbed by the extra cost of handling and

The invasion of the Portland market by the foreign beef interests was not taken until the meat had been introduced in many other cities along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts. Portland is practically in one of the biggest cattle belts of the country and for that reason the consuming public here is more accustomed to receiving its meats hearer a fresh state than many of the other cities which are compelled to send to other points for their supplies

However, not much secret was made of the fact that the administration would rather have some other English representative in Mexico City. There was no question, it was believed, that Huerta would have been overthrown soon after his proclamation of a dicta-torship if the Briton had not bolstered him up by presenting his credentials to him just at the psychological moment, and there was a disposition to regard him, in consequence, as more than any other one individual responsible for the present critical situation in Mexico. DOUGLAS INSTITUTE WAS ENTIRELY SUCCESSFUL

(Special to The Journal.)
Roseburg, Or., Oct. 25.—What is said to be the most successful teachers' institute ever held in Douglas county closed here Friday after a three days' session. Most of the districts in the county were represented by teachers. Before adjournment the institute adopted resolutions favoring the appropriations for the state university, which fol-

"Whereas, The leading institutions of the state are materially aiding and contributing, through their able representatives, to the institute work of the state, be it resolved that we heartily commend them in their work and as teachers offer them our loyal support."

In the same resolution the institute went on record as favoring the extension of normal training in this state.

"Industrial Educational Work," L. P. Harrington, of Creswell, field worker, advocated a home garden for each child in Oregon, and utilization of the vacant lots in a city for the purpose of beautifying the city, as well for the industrial value of, such work.

"New Courses of Study in Oregon," was the subject discussed by State Superintendent Churchill. He dwell largely on a comparison of the old impractical methods in spelling, arithmetic and grammar, as compared with the new method of teaching the children things of practical every day life. He said; "Give the pupil such work as will prepare him to live better." He informed the teachers that he is now outlining a system of vocational studies for the high schools which he hopes will still further meet the needs of young men and women along the lines of practical training. 301.
