

INTERSTATE BRIDGE PLAN TO GET BOOST BY BIG CIVIC PARADE

Agricultural and Industrial Pageant Will Be Held in Portland Saturday.

Crossing three bridges in the course of its passage through the city and traversing streets on both the east side and west side, the "bridge day" industrial and agricultural pageant which will be the largest ever held in the city, according to W. J. Clemens, marshal of the day.

Automobiles containing grand marshal, bridge committeemen, Mayor Albee and city officials, waiting on Flinders street near Broadway for contingents from Vancouver and Southwest Washington, Kenton, St. Johns and North Portland, will swing in ahead of cars that will come in over the Broadway bridge. Thus, no delay will be caused at the foot of the bridge and the Portland cars will be waiting on the side streets adjacent to follow in behind the cars from across the river.

The parade, thus formed, will proceed south on Broadway, through the hotel, theater and business center, to Mill street, where it will turn east to Third. From Third street, it will turn north, proceeding to the steel bridge, which it will cross and turn into Holladay avenue to Grand avenue. On Grand avenue it will proceed south to Hawthorne avenue and re-cross the river on the Hawthorne bridge, turning south at Front street. The line will proceed on Front street as far as Mill, where it will turn west to Broadway and disperse.

In that way we shall cover the city thoroughly, says Clemens. Last night, "We will cross three bridges—rather significant for a 'bridge parade.' It will cover both east side and west side, North Portland and South Portland. Besides, it will not cross its own trail and every car that gets in the line will have no excuse to dodge out some by-street.

Arrangements will be made to allow the parking of automobiles in the downtown streets Saturday, so the owners can get into line. Mr. Clemens estimates that a majority of the members of the Portland Automobile Club will be in line, together with automobile trucks representing retail stores, wholesale establishments and factories. Members of the Musicians' union will be transported in motor trucks. Floats of varied design will be constructed by a number of business men and one from Vancouver will be a prominent feature of the line.

Marshal Clemens will appoint a dozen "spotters," who will be mounted on motorcycles to see that the long line is kept moving. He expects to select these early this week.

To Hold Meeting Monday. A meeting of the parade committee, with other sub-committees, will be held at luncheon Monday at the Commercial club, where the whole parade plan will be gone over and other features arranged for.

A meeting to boost the $1,250,000 bond issue will be held Monday night at the Atkinson Memorial church, with H. L. Moody presenting the argument. J. P. Stapleton of Vancouver will address the Portland Rotary club Tuesday noon and Tuesday night, J. H. Notta, will address the carpenters' union at Labor Temple, L. M. Lepper will address the Overlook Improvement club at Mississippi avenue and Shaver streets, Wednesday night.

The bridge committee will call on Mayor Albee to see if a half holiday for city employees cannot be arranged for Saturday afternoon and a suitable official representation of the city government in the parade effected.

FITTING MEMORIAL FOR DAVENPORT IS PLANNED

Citizens Asked to Honor Native Son; Journal Will Receive Money Donations.

The press and citizens of Oregon have been called upon by the Oregon State Editorial association to honor the memory of one of the most famous of the state's native sons—Homer Davenport, the cartoonist—by erecting a monument at his birthplace in Silverton, Oregon. Davenport was born in 1812, where he had for years fought for justice of man for his fellow man. His influence for good was wide-spread, and after his early work was ended his body with full honors, was borne back to the home of his boyhood and there buried.

Although Davenport's lifework was accomplished on the other side of the continent, Oregon has full reason to take pride in him, and now to honor him.

Thus far the citizens of the state have been backward in recognizing the accomplishments of her sons, and becoming lost in a new race to start, and the object worthy. The Journal is offering to receive all donations that will go to make up the fund to build a fitting memorial. All money so received will be turned over to the regular memorial fund committee, of which Governor West is chairman.

Up to the present, the fund totals $324. The contributors are:

The Oregon Journal	$100
W. R. Hearst	100
Tom Kay	20
L. Samuel	20
George Hines	20
Marie Erick	10
H. H. Windsor, Hood River	10
Joe Thomlinson	10
Total	$324

In addition to the contributions made by citizens, the various newspapers of the state have been called upon to pay the sum of $3 per one thousand of circulation, for one year.

THE MEXICAN ELECTION

"EVENING AT HOME" ENJOYED AT Y. W. C. A.

Company Divided Into Groups and Each Furnished Entertainment.

The first of the Y. W. C. A. "evenings at home," which are held on the third Tuesday of each month during the season, took place this week and was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. One end of the main parlor was screened off and made cosy and attractive by the use of autumn leaves and red apples. A big fire crackled in the fireplace and the girls presented a delightful picture as they grouped themselves around the piano to sing college songs or gathered in congenial parties for social converse.

During the evening the entire company was divided into groups and each group provided some stunt, all of the stunts going to make up a most entertaining program.

One of the most amusing of the stunts was an interpretation of "Mary Had a Little Lamb," just as the speakers had probably given it when children. A Finnish girl gave the old rhyme in her native tongue. Chaffing dishes were then brought into service for the making of fudge. Miss May Chapler is social secretary of the Y. W. C. A. and she was assisted by Mrs. Monteth, Mrs. Parker and Miss Marian Briggs, who acted as hostesses.

There were about fifty girls present. These "at homes" are for the purpose of introducing the new girls to each other.

POLITICAL BEES ON WING AT PENDLETON

Voters Will Determine Fate of Proposed Commission Form of Government.

Pendleton, Or., Oct. 25.—December 1 Pendleton will hold a city election to choose new officers for the coming year and to decide whether or not the commission form of government shall be adopted. If the majority vote favors this change, then the officers elected will have but a short time to serve, another election for the choosing of a mayor and two commissioners being provided for in the proposed charter.

Mayor W. F. Matlock will be a candidate to succeed himself regardless of the form of government. If he is elected December 1 and the commission form of government is also adopted, he will be a candidate under the new form. So far no one has come forward to oppose him.

The terms of four members of the council and three members of the water commission expire at the end of the year and three of the councilmen, R. F. Kirkpatrick, W. H. McCormack and N. D. Swearingen, have declared their retirement from office. The fourth member, Joe Hill, probably is a candidate to succeed himself.

All three of the water commissioners, J. T. Brown, Marion Jack and Dr. J. A. Best, will probably be candidates for reelection, as there is a strong sentiment for retaining them until the gravity water system is completed.

Treasurer Lee Moorhouse already has petitions for nomination in circulation and will doubtless be unopposed for the office.

BULLDOG AND GIRL GET THIEF WHO ADMITS HE HAS STOLEN $200,000

San Francisco Raffles Owns Handsome Home, Is Well Dressed and Well Bred.

San Francisco, Oct. 25.—After listening to the story he had to tell to them today, the police here announced that William Bastian, as he gave his name, was not a bit extravagant in his estimate when he placed the value of the property he had stolen in the past ten years at $200,000. They were inclined to think, they added, that the estimate was not high enough.

Bastian, if that is his real name, was a real "Raffles." He made an art of burglary. He is a very good looking, clean cut, polite, excellently educated and well but not loudly dressed man of 28.

He would tell the police nothing of his antecedents but it was evident that he came from a good family. The young woman who lived with him as his sister is plainly a German. Her companion may be German too, but he does not talk like one. This was why the police doubted the story of their relationship.

Pair Have Pretty Home. The pair have lived in San Francisco for five years, the so-called Bastian told the police. They did not like criminal and indeed the girl may not be one. They occupied a house, which the man bought and paid for in the most conventional possible style, in Stanyan street, on the fashionable, Parkside heights. It is a pretty house and a fine garden surrounds it.

However, there were a few queer things the neighbors noticed about them. They never could understand how the couple could live in such style in view of the fact that the man, to all appearances, never worked. It was also deemed odd that persons of such evident wealth kept no servants. Trademen noticed that they were never admitted to the house when they brought goods. Either Bastian or the girl invariably took charge of them at the door.

Didn't Like Children Around. The man, too, strongly disliked to have any one linger about the place. He objected even to having children playing in front of his house, and frequently telephoned to the police to drive them away.

To this exclusiveness, which the neighbors wondered at but for which Bastian had such excellent reasons, and to the fact that he always "worked" alone, the police attributed his long immunity from arrest or even suspicion.

Yet his capture, when it finally came, was ridiculously easy. Bastian had just "turned a $300 job" at Edward Bonnhelm's Devasadero street residence, lowered himself from a rear second story window, crossed the yard, climbed an eight foot wall and was landing safely in Ulrich Debrunner's back garden, when Miss Jennie Debrunner's bulldog Prince, seized him by the seat of the trousers and hung on.

Miss Debrunner calls Brothers. Between his teeth Prince let out a growl, and Miss Debrunner appeared. She screamed and her brother, William and Ray, rushed to the rescue. Bastian drew an automatic pistol, but had not time to use it before the brothers and the dog had him overpowered. Then came the police.

Bastian made a partial confession at once and a complete one today at police headquarters. He was too much disgusted with himself to conceal anything. "Caught by a girl and a dog after all these years," he groaned.

Find Jewelry in Home. Bastian looked up, the police visited his home, arrested the girl, who told she was his sister and searched the place. In it they found much valuable jewelry, not yet disposed of, a crucifix and other implements for reducing metals, a complete set of burglar tools, plenty of good furniture, a neat library

COUNTY REQUESTED TO PAY DEBTS OF FAIR

A request that the county pay off $629.82 indebtedness which the Multnomah county fair association incurred in premium awards, was made yesterday in a letter from H. A. Lewis, president of the association. Mr. Lewis submitted a report showing that the fair cost $848.46 and that the receipts were $218.64. Premiums paid totaled $329.82 and the county appropriated $250 toward the awards.

The matter was taken under consideration by the commissioners and representatives of the fair may be given an opportunity to discuss the question with the county commissioners. A request that provision be made in the county levy for the fair next year was referred to the budget advisory committee.

Municipal Owned Line Prosper. San Francisco, Oct. 25.—The Geary street car line, owned by the city, put $713.25 into its pocketbook today, the proceeds of three days' Portola festival business, which, but for the municipal system, would have gone to United Railroads.

Five Destroyers Made Ready. Boston, Oct. 25.—Orders were received at the Charlestown Navy yard today for haste in preparing the five torpedo boat destroyers there for departure. It was assumed that they are wanted for service in Mexican waters.
