A SPLENDID light opera has been composed by one of the popular men of the younger set, Leland Smith, and an equally clever and unique libretto supplied from the pen of another Portland man, Preston Smith. Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett Authered together about 40 guests informanly at her norms, last Monday avaning and the score was run over with Mrs. Lived Smith, Dom J. Zan, and Dr. and the score was run over with Mrs. Lloyd Smith. Dom J. Zan, and Dr. George Alnalie singing the soprano, basso and tenor parts. The name of the opera is "Waveland" and it is supposed to be laid under the sea. There is Saltine, Neptune, Coraline, Pearline and any number of other strictly watery characters. The music is catchy and of a distinctive character far above the average of light opera. There is some average of light opera. There is some hope among the society folk of produc-ing it here in the near future as a benefit for charity.

Following the business session Miss Josephine Hammond of the department of literature of Reed College gave a most entertaining and instructive talk following the same trend of thought which permeates her new book, "Everywoman's Read," a morality story of woman as a creator, worker, waster, Joy giver and keeper of the flame. Indirectly the old questions and the new aspirations of women's functions in larger life and wider experience are portrayed by means of a pageant of the famous women of history. From the portrayed by means of a pageant of the famous women of history. From the great benefit I feel it my duty to write and tell you about it. #### LEATHER LORE

By Mary Lee.

It goes without saying that shoes, given good care, will last much longer than if neglected.

than if neglected.

In the first place, heat is the worst enemy of leather. It takes all the life from it so it very soon cracks. Especially is this true of patent leather. Consequently, shoes should mever be placed near a stove to dry. Incidentally, rubber overshoes should never be kept on longer than is necessary, because this, too, destroys the strength of the leather. When shoes are damp they should be laid on their sides to dry, preferably in a draught.

Should they have been dried by a fire and so become sulff, the softness may be restored by rubbing in a good oil, as castor.

To aid the wear of shoes poulr boiled To aid the wear of shoes poulr boiled linseed oil into a pan and let the soles stand in it until they are thoroughly saturated. Take care the oil does not touch the uppers. Use neatsfoot oil for this. It will feed the leather and keep it pliable. Linseed oil dries very rapidly and has a tendency to harden leather, hence the reason why it is good for soles but not for uppers. If the soles are given an occasional coat of hard, white conal varnish this will keep out damp copal varnish this will keep out damp and also add to the life of the shoes. Milk freshens leather, so it is a good plan to wash the shoes with milk, say will neither crack nor harden. Should kid roughen and show purple the color can be restored by applying with a soft sponge a mixture of ink and the white of an egg.

The white kid uppers of shoes can be cleaned by rubbing with gasoline or benzine, using a little good white scap if thought necessary.

Leather can be made waterproof by costing it with many of the various fats. One of the best agents for the purpose is a mixture of equal parts of becawar, and mutten tallow. These should be melted and then be besten into a soft paste with neatsfoot or castor oil. It should be applied while warm.
