

VARDON AND RAY PUT UP WONDERFUL GOLF OVER TACOMA COURSE

British Marvels Beat Northwest Professionals Two Up in Best Match Played.

Tacoma, Wash., Nov. 5.—Playing the best four ball professional golf game ever seen in the northwest and declared by Harry B. Davis, the Portland star, to be better even than the great game he and Chandler Egan played against the men from Albion, Harry Vardon and Edward Ray defeated Jim Barnes of Tacoma and Robert Johnstone, of Seattle, yesterday 2 up and 1 to play. They played out the bye hole and Vardon and Ray winning and the score going to 3 up for the Englishmen.

Vardon played a wonderful game. Going over the course for the first time in the morning he carded a 71 score, two down on par. In the afternoon he went out in 34 and back in 32, putting up a new record of the course, 67 strokes. One thousand enthusiasts witnessed the play.

The start of the morning round was not made until shortly after 11 o'clock as the Englishmen were delayed by passing through the custom house and did not arrive on the course until 10:45 o'clock. They jumped out of an automobile upon their arrival, changed shoes and then mounted the teeing mat for the start of the match.

Vardon was given the honors and was followed by Ray. Both drove more than 200 yards, but were short on their second. Barnes and Johnstone were on with their second, but the Tacoma man missed his putt for a four. Johnstone sunk his and the northwestern pros were one up on the first green. In driving the second, Vardon sliced into the rough, but Vardon went on the green. Johnstone laid his approach up dead for a three and he and Ray halved the hole.

The third hole, a 200 yard creek shot, saw Vardon and Barnes both drop on the green, while Johnstone and Ray fell in the sand pit to the left. Barnes won the hole by a three, when he sunk his second putt, Vardon failing to cup the ball. The fourth hole was halved in three.

Both Vardon and Barnes held out in four on the fifth. The sixth, a 445 yard hole, saw the Englishmen pick up one. All hands got fours on the seventh and the difficult eighth went to the northwesterners with fours, giving them two up.

The long ninth, 580 yards from tee to pin, saw Barnes come to his own. A 500 yard drive and a brassie, which gave him a 25 yard pitch, allowed him to hole a four, while Vardon and Ray were held to fives. At the turn Barnes and Johnstone were three up, the best advantage they enjoyed during the day.

The difficult tenth hole, with its carry of 320 yards to the green over lofty trees, found Ray at his best. Although he had never played the hole before, he was the only ball on the green when the gallery arrived upon the scene. Ray holed a three and the northwestern professionals had their lead cut to two up. The short 140 yard eleventh gave three all around and halved the hole.

Showing Vardon Can Put.

All hands were on the twelfth in two, but Vardon holed a 25-footer for a three and the locals were then but one up. Johnstone was the only one failing to hole a three on the thirteenth, while Barnes was the only one to go over par on the fourteenth. Par golf on the part of the visitors gave them the fifteenth and squared the match.

The sixteenth, in both morning and afternoon rounds, was productive of sensations. In both of these Ray featured, there being nothing like a hole of 500 yards or better to bring out the long game of the giant Englishman.

His drive was a 500 yard tee shot, which landed him in the rough, but to the astonishment of the gallery, he took his brassie, bounced the ball over the dangerous bunkers and was 10 feet beyond the pin in two. The sixteenth is 520 yards from mat to pin. Not to be outdone by his brilliant teammate, Vardon took his mashie and dropped the ball dead to the hole for a four. Johnstone and Barnes took par fives and were down for the first time during the day. Fours halved the seventeenth and eighteenth and they went to lunch, with the English professionals holding the advantage by one hole.

All four got long drives to start the afternoon, Vardon slicing into the road that marks the boundary. It was his second out of the gravel that marked him as the really great player that he is. With a lie which would have caused any man to pick up, he dropped a mid-iron shot on the green 150 yards away.

It remained for Johnstone to win the second with a three and they were all square. They halved the third with three.

Vardon's Great Drive.

Vardon won the hole with a three, giving the visitors the advantage again. All were on the green or at its edge in two on the fifth, but Johnstone holed a 40-footer for a three, again squaring the match. The sixth halved with four. The seventh was also halved with fours. The eighth hole was halved in four.

On the ninth green, after everyone else was on in three, Vardon ran down a 25-footer for a four and again the visitors were one up. Jim Barnes made a great drive over the trees for the tenth, holed a three and won the hole.

Johnstone dropped his 140-yard pitch shot dead up for the only two of the day on the eleventh and the northwesterners were again playing an up game. The twelfth was halved with fours and the thirteenth with three, Johnstone being forced to run down a 19-footer.

They all played fours on the fourteenth. They were all on the fifteenth in two with the exception of Johnstone, but when Vardon ran down his ball after a 25 yards the gallery gasped to the realization that the match was square.

This they pressed relentlessly. Ray, driving his long ball, was in the bunker in his second. Vardon and Barnes pitched onto the green in three, but Ray entered the pit of the bunker the gallery gathered around. Lifting the ball with his mallet, he dropped it dead on the green. A long putt which barely trickled into the cup gave him the hole and he and Vardon were one up with two to go.

It was the crisis of the match and the English veterans had arisen superior to the occasion. Barnes faltered ever so slightly. Johnstone cracked.

The Seattle pro's drive was sliced and his second hooked into the woods. Pitted against the two great Englishmen, Barnes was forced to take a five to Rays four and the match was the visitors, two up and one to play. They played out the bye hole. Johnstone still unstrung, Ray, however, pressing the advantage, went on the green in two 10 feet beyond the flag and holed out in four. Barnes went down in five and Vardon and Ray were three up.

ONLY EIGHT CARS REACH PHOENIX TO GET CASH

Olin Davis Made 574.4 Miles in 18 Hours and 49 Minutes.

Phoenix, Ariz., Nov. 5.—Only eight cars out of the 26 which started Monday reached here yesterday in time to qualify in the annual Los Angeles-Phoenix automobile road race. Olin Davis, the winner, made the 574.4 miles over boulevard, mountain and desert in the official time of 18 hours and 49 minutes, nearly three hours ahead of his nearest competitor, on elapsed time for the total distance.

The order of the finish and total running time of the other seven cars follow:

- Guy Ball, Marmon car, 21:45.
- Louis Nikrent, Buick, 22:45.
- Jack Rice, Simplex, 23:53.
- Buxton, Mercer, 23:53.
- Greer, Mitchell, 24:04.
- Ellis, Buick, 24:04.
- Schnack, Ford, 24:40.
- Rice, driving Simplex No. 23, finished in fourth place after one of the most sensational races on record. His car overturned and rolled down a bluff. Calling aid, he got in, righted and started away, only to overtake Barney Oldfield, his team mate, who had broken a driving shaft. Carrying Oldfield as a passenger, Rice drove into Phoenix in fourth place.

FOOTBALL NOTES

Captain Hoge, of the Army eleven, and Gilchrist, the Navy leader, both play and.

Wagner, Pittsburg's star football player, is not related to Honus Wagner, the Pirate shortstop.

The Harvard eleven has been extremely fortunate this season insofar as injuries to players are concerned.

Charley Brickley, the great Harvard punter, is a bad punisher of shoes leather. It is not an uncommon thing for Charley to use two pairs of shoes in a single game, and then toss them aside forever after the contest.

Wilson, of the Yale squad, who was first tried at quarter, is making a brilliant showing as a running back.

Eddie Hart and "Doc" Hillebrand are working over time at Princeton trying to bolster up the Tiger rushline for the Harvard game.

In beating both Michigan and Wisconsin the Green Bay Packers have shown the best football in the middle west so far this season.

Dartmouth is in great condition for its game with Pennsylvania. The green is out to duplicate its grand work at Princeton in the coming battle with the Quakers.

Captain Henry, of Boston, received a shaking up in the Gilt Edge train accident at Westerly, Conn., recently. Henry had been on the football injured list and his experience on the "choochoo" didn't help his injured leg a bit.

ALBANY WANTS CITY HALL AND A PARK

Albany, Or., Nov. 5.—A city hall located on the Central school building site, facing Ellisworth street, the school to be situated on two blocks of the present Albany college campus, a court house in the course of several years, located on the same block as the present one, but facing Ferry street, and a city park to be laid out on the east of the two blocks between the two public buildings, with the elimination of Broadway street at that point, is the proposition considered Monday night at the commercial club.

At present the court house and the school building are located on two opposite blocks in the heart of the city. The proposition is the result of the desire of public spirited citizens to secure a city hall and public park for the city.

In recognition of the great battle Washington and Jefferson put up against Yale, Captain Ketcham gave them the football used by the two teams in their recent game.
