

FRIEND OF THE LOWLY IS ROLE ADOPTED BY LANE IN WASHINGTON

The Oppressed Flock to Oregon Senator for Help Almost With One Accord.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.) Washington, Nov. 6.—It's something of a mystery why the lowly and oppressed from everywhere seem to turn to Senator Harry Lane of Oregon for succor. The senator says he can't account for it, but he usually takes off his coat and "goes to the bat" for the forlorn and despairing, just the same. Some time ago a man in Ohio, of whom the senator never before heard, wrote a very confidential letter—yes, a most decidedly confidential secret—telling of his poverty and his ambitions, and how he would like to have the senator buy him a farm (or it might have been a little business he wanted), but that he would rather, if it was just the same to the senator, that he be given the money so he could invest it himself and so make sure that he would not come to want. The senator was sorry he was not in the plutocrat class, and it was hard to the plutocrat that appealing, almost tearful letter.

Tells Tale of Sorrow. Then, only a day or two ago, another man came to him, a man, too, who was not from his own state, and of whom the senator never before had heard, and told a tale of sorrow about being dismissed from the government printing office. It seems that it was all because the wife of the president, in her desire to be democratic and unostentatious, and to be treated like "any other citizen," had gone incognito to the big printing. When she entered the building she was met by H. E. Terry, one of the messengers at the door, who also acts as guide.

According to the story told by Terry, Mrs. Wilson gave him her name and insisted that she should be treated just as any other visitor to the big print shop. Terry was somewhat dazed and took her straight to the station of the person Mrs. Wilson wanted to see, but the said person did not happen to be there. Almost an hour later the public printer learned that the president's wife had been a guest of the printing office without his being informed of it.

Asks Sane's Help. Terry was told that he had committed a breach of discipline and was told he would be given an opportunity to show why he should not be dismissed for general inefficiency. He went to Senator Lane and tearfully told how he was supporting an old mother and had scarcely finished paying the cost of burying his father, that he still owed, in fact, $6 on account of the funeral. Senator Lane called up Public Printer Ford, who declared that Terry was inefficient and that he would not submit to dictation as to the manner of conducting his office, anyway. Then Senator Lane called at the White House and told one of the president's secretaries about it. "Until I have all the facts in the matter I cannot say what will be done in the case of Terry," said Mr. Ford today. "The matter will be thoroughly investigated. The rules demand that when any distinguished visitor, such as the wife of the president, calls at the printing office, the public printer shall be notified. It is only right that when so distinguished a visitor calls at one of the government departments or bureaus, that the head of that department should be informed so that he may show the visitor the courtesies of the department or bureau."

BUNCO RING IS HOT ON SALEM MAN'S TRAIL

Almost Got $7000 S. T. Northcott Received From Sale of Marion County Farm.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Oakland, Cal., Nov. 6.—The live savings of S. T. Northcott, an aged farmer from Salem, Ore., amounting to $7000, was snatched today when Charles A. Smith, cashier of the Security Bank & Trust company, withheld the old man's letters of credit and notified the police. The confidante man, waiting outside the bank for their prey, fled at the approach of the officers and escaped. Northcott, who is very feeble, then became convinced that he had been in the toils of a bunco ring. He said two men had trailed him from Salem and told him of a plan to make $10,000 out of his savings. When Northcott presented a draft for $1000 to the bank, exhibiting his letter of credit, Cashier Smith wired the bank at Salem and found the money was on deposit as represented. The cashier was suspicious, however, and notified the police, in the meantime withholding payment. Northcott left today to visit friends in Tennessee and Alabama, and the police in cities en route have been notified to care for him.

MARRIED THREE MONTHS BEFORE FRIENDS KNOW

Hillsboro, Ore., Nov. 6.—On August 19 Dr. Charles H. Pollock, a dentist and popular young man of this city, in company with Miss Florence Dooley, of Banks, went to Astoria where they were married by the pastor of the Methodist church at that city. The young couple returned to Washington county, and the bride continued to live at the home of her parents, while the groom kept his bachelor quarters in Hillsboro. It was only this week when Mrs. Pollock came to make her home with her husband in Hillsboro, that they told their friends of their marriage. Mrs. Pollock is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Dooley, of Banks. Her grandparents on both her father's and mother's side were pioneer residents of that section. Dr. Pollock is the son of the late Major Robert Pollock, who was in service against the Indians in the west and was for several years stationed at Vancouver, Wash., retiring from the United States army service with the rank of Captain. He was one of the first men to raise hops in Washington county. Dr. Pollock is a graduate of the North Pacific Dental college, and has practiced his profession in Hillsboro for a year.

ROSA MERLO ASKS RENT FROM CHINAMAN

Hillsboro, Ore., Nov. 6.—Rosa Reghitto Merlo has filed suit in the circuit court against Ching Sing, a Chinaman, alleging that she leased to him a tract of land in Washington county, January 1, 1904, for a period of 10 years, at an annual rental of $500. She claims that Ching has not paid her the rent for October, November and December of this year and she sues to recover $150. Mattie Daniels was married to Francis Daniels in Portland on or about May 1, 1913, she says in a complaint filed in the circuit court at Hillsboro, and in December, 1911, she alleges he deserted her. She would have the court dissolve the matrimonial bonds existing between them, and award her the custody of their three minor children. C. J. Birdsell has sued David and Maggie O'Donnell to recover $600 alleged to be due on a note made by defendants in his favor September 26, 1911. A mortgage on a tract of land was given to secure payment of the money, and he would have the court foreclose the mortgage. The Standard Box & Lumber company is made a defendant in the suit, as the land was transferred to them by the O'Donnells.

NEW HOOD RIVER JUDGE IS FOR COLUMBIA ROAD

Hood River, Ore., Nov. 6.—One of the first matters to receive attention by Judge E. E. Stanton and Commissioner Hawks and Hannum, the newly elected members of the Hood River county court, will be the matter of highways throughout the county. The work to be undertaken will be done along lines and in sections where the greatest number of farmers will be served and where the traffic is the heaviest. The work that is to be accomplished will be done with a view to making a system of permanent roads for the valley. It is reported that Murray Kay, present county surveyor, will be county road overseer in evidence at the supervision of the construction of road work for the county. Relative to the Columbia River highway through Hood River, County Judge-elect Stanton said: "On a survey of roads for the purpose of building the Columbia River road and other roads in Hood River county, the proceeds to be distributed in an equitable manner, according to the different localities. I am also firm in my opinion that the state of Oregon should assist liberally in the building of the Columbia River road, as I regard it more as a state rather than a local improvement."

WOMEN VOTED EARLY IN RAIN AT BROOKS

Brooks, Ore., Nov. 6.—Despite the rain, cold winds and muddy roads, the recently enfranchised women were out in evidence at the polls Tuesday, and of the first 25 votes cast 12 were women, most of whom drove several miles and voted before 10 o'clock, returning home in time to prepare the noon meal. Many of the women used for dancing parties were generally selected for the polls, and ample accommodations were offered to the women who took their first lessons in preparing a ballot. The judges for the first half of the day were George Finney, R. Patterson, Hugh Eldridge, and the clerks were Joseph La Follette, J. F. Aspinwall and Britt Aspinwall. The evening session Robert Diem, F. M. Lick and A. L. Belcher were the judges, and Albert Egan, Romeo Goelt and Clyde Harris were clerks.

McCusker Talks Roads.

Pendleton, Ore., Nov. 6.—In the interests of Jonathan Bourne's "Federal aid" good roads plan, Thomas McCusker has been paying this county a visit. He appeared before members of the Commercial club and good roads association and presented his plan. It met with an encouraging reception, and petitions will probably be circulated here urging the plan upon congress.

The text of the resolution follows: "Resolved, that we, as a brotherhood, regard the recent action of the board of education of the city of Portland in forbidding the reading of the Bible in the public schools as deplorable, and Whereas, we firmly believe that any community may be purified and elevated to a higher intellectual and moral plane by a better knowledge and larger appreciation of the Bible to daily life, therefore, we ask the board of education to reconsider its action and restore the

WEATHER MAN KIND TO UMATILLA FARMERS

Pendleton, Ore., Nov. 6.—The rainfall for the 10 months of the year in Umatilla county has been more than an inch in excess of the normal for a year, and has proved a boon to farmers. The precipitation for October was 2.41 inches, or 1.22 inches more than the normal for that month and the greatest October precipitation in years. The total for the year thus far has been 15.12 inches, whereas the normal for the year is only 14.06 inches. Clear, warm weather is prevailing now, just the kind the farmers require for the completion of their seeding.
