WFIGURES SHOW RESULT OF DREDGING MERSEY

With Proper Facilities Liver-: pool Handled Almost 37,-000,000 Tons in Year.

The Ports of Columbia committee has received a statement of the commerce at the port of Liverpool. The figures are being used to demonstrate the business a port can command with proper facilities. By dredging, the Mersey bar at the port of Liverpool was deepened from 11 to 30 feet at low water, and the commerce thus obtained.

A total of 36,866,528 tons, inward and outward, for 1913, is shown, an increase of 2,221,708 tons over 1912. A considerable Jecrease is shown in the number and tonnage of foreign sailing ships, but therwise the increase is general along all lines. The most effective dredging was done in the past three years. The onnage of foreign sailing vessels paying dock tonnage rates was 56,652 in 1913, as compared with 73,887 tons in 1912; the tonnage of coastwise sailing vessels, 67,942, as compared with 58,571 in 1912; the tonnage of steam foreign vessels paying dock tonnage rates was 2.207,811 in 1913, as compared with 11,-513,713 in 1912; tonnage of coastwise steam vessels, 2,191,312, as compared with 2,001,836 in 1912.

Of vessels paying harbor rates only, there were: Foreign sailing vessels, 30,895 tons in 1913 and 45,012 in 1912; of coastwise sailing vessels, 88,314 tons n 1913 and 78,643 tons in 1912; of foreign steam vessels, 2,404,008 tons in 1913 and 2,322,999 in 1912; of coastwise stea myessels, 1,386,335 tons in 1913, and

The grand total of receipts from dock rates aggregated more than $8,000,000.
