

THE JOURNAL

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER... PUBLISHED EVERY EVENING (except Sunday) and every Sunday morning at the Journal Building...

In a world in which so many people wear the same clothes, live in the same house, eat the same dinner, and say the same things...

IN FULL RETREAT

The fight in the National Conservation Congress at Washington is not a fight over national or state control, but a fight between conservation and anti-conservation.

A DIVORCE PROBLEM

Can a woman be granted a divorce against her will? This question is at issue in Seattle, where the superior court has it under consideration.

MOTHERS AS TEACHERS

Judge Seabury of the New York supreme court has decided that married teachers in that state have the right to hear children.

to clothe the board with such power would be constitutional. The law's policy favors marriage and the birth of children...

A PINK TEA INDORSEMENT

The State Bar Association voted for a non-partisan judiciary. It could have been more willing. It would have looked better for the vote to have been unanimous.

FOR PORTLAND WORKERS

In its campaign for home industries, The Journal showed yesterday that $100,000 is annually sent out of Portland for eastern biscuits.

THE PRICE OF EGGS

The Harvester trust dissolution suit Attorney General Reynolds laid down the proposition that power to dictate prices is sufficient ground for dissolution of a trust.

whether or not it is exercised against the people, is contrary to a sound public policy. It should be contrary to law.

FOR A KINGDOM

Congress should, without delay, provide funds for the dredge at the mouth of the Columbia. The project is not a local project.

OUR FOREIGN TRADE

The bureau of foreign and domestic commerce announces figures showing the volume of our export trade during the first nine months of 1913.

EQUITABLE ASSESSMENTS

Inequitable assessments of property for taxing purposes is one of the biggest problems Portland has to solve.

ments of the various lots and parcels are certain. There is wide disparity between assessments of property held by individuals in Portland.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

(Communications sent to The Journal for publication in this department should be written on one side of the paper, should be 300 words in length and must be accompanied by the name and address of the sender.)

AN ANCIENT TORY DOCTRINE

From the New York Globe. The London Spectator, representing, as it does, a semi-civilization and half-barbarism still strong in the world...

PERTINENT COMMENT AND NEWS IN BRIEF

SMALL CHANGE Carranza is a great man—in his pictures. Vincent Astor is one of the "haves," all right.

OREGON SHELIGHTS

The Herald has changed its location to quarters in the New Masonic block at Tillamook.

YOUR MONEY

In the future you who have money to invest may expect to be approached by a salesman of securities who will say to you:

IN EARLIER DAYS

"When I was 13 years old," said Captain William P. Gray of Pasco, "our family moved to British Columbia. This was in 1858. I began working with canoes and batteau on the Fraser river."
