BEAVERTON MOTHER WOULD FIND HER SON

Benoni Fenney.

Mrs. L. S. Fenney of Beaverton, Or., is seeking information about her son, Benoni Fenney, aged 16 years, from whom she has not received a letter since July 7. The last trace the mother has had of her son was a report from a friend that the boy had registered on November 1 at a hotel at Second and Madison streets. A few days ago the boy shipped his suitcase, containing some old clothes, to his home, but no word accompanied it.

The mother is very anxious to find the boy, declaring that she had planned to put him in school this winter. He is believed to have been working with some paving or building concern, as his clothes are covered with cement dust.

Mrs. Fenney asks anyone who knows where the boy is at this time, or where he may be found, to communicate with her at Beaverton, Box 28.

Fred Spoerl, manager of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph Co., announced this morning that his company had authorized three downtown service extensions to cost about $25,180.

"One is for a 600 pair underground cable from our main office to Sixteenth and Jackson," said Mr. Spoerl, "this being the second of three cables for this project, covering the construction of underground cable and aerial wire in the main district south of Jefferson street and west of Park street, which is to provide facilities for the estimated growth, and to relieve the present congestion. The total cost of this work will be about $22,000."

"The second job is the placing of a 600 pair cable underground on Jefferson street between West Park and Seventh streets. This cable is to provide relief and additional facilities in the district south of Alder street and east of Park street. The cables on Seventh street are congested, and as the new Northwestern Bank building is nearing completion, we will require more cable facilities. We estimate an increase of 260 stations by July 1, 1914, as a result of placing this cable. We estimate a gain of 1475 stations by January 1, 1915, in the district for which relief is provided by this request. This work will cost about $1800."

"The third job covers the placing of additional underground cable in the present subway on Burnside and Fifteenth streets. This is to relieve the congested condition of the underground cables over this route. This work will provide facilities for the new Northwestern Electric company's building. The estimated cost of this work is $1380. We expect an increase of 75 stations by January 1, 1914, and an increase of 625 stations by January 1, 1915, as a result of doing this work."

"The company has enlarged the central station for a mile and a half, and expects to complete the enlargement next spring. The company officials also wanted Lewis to certify that the lands were reclaimed when the canal capacity was sufficient, without measurement, as to whether the canal would actually carry the amount of water required to be delivered on the lands.

RAILROADS CHARGED WITH DISCRIMINATION AGAINST SCHOONERS

Officials of the railways mentioned in the complaint for their side of the controversy and reply was telegraphed embodying the chief reasons for discontinuing the absorption.

"We are discontinuing the absorption because it has become too burdensome to carry any longer," said F. W. Robinson, assistant traffic manager of the O. W. R. & N., today. "There is no reason why a railway company should have to stand the wharfage charges that to pay the drayage from a wholesale house to a freight depot. Business competition was at the bottom of the system in the first place, but it has gotten so now that every dock has to be served in the same way, whether there is truckage there or not."

"We are not discriminating against Portland or against the schooner lines," the railway, however, will continue to absorb the charges when cargoes are unloaded or loaded over their docks. It is pointed out by the chamber that the schooners are able to handle cargoes at less cost than the steamers because they are more easily handled in this harbor.

Would Work Hardship. Requiring them to berth at the railway docks, it is declared, would work undue hardship upon private dock owners as well as upon the schooners, which would have to be loaded with greater care to provide for unloading at the different docks.

In an effort to combat the inroads upon the Portland territory of the steam schooner lines, representatives of the regular lines on the coast, in conference here with the purpose of taking steps to retain their hold on the business.

"Those who are in Portland to work out some plan of reprisal are: H. C. Cateford of San Francisco, general freight agent of the Pacific Coast Steamship company; R. M. Summa of Seattle, general freight and passenger agent of the Alaska-Pacific Steamship company; R. J. Ringwood of San Francisco, traffic manager of the Alaska-Pacific; and G. L. Blair, general manager of the San Francisco & Portland."

The complaint is made that the schooners, by giving rates below the steamer rates, have seriously cut into the overland business.
