MARKETS FOR 1200 CARLOADS OF FRUIT FOUND BY EXCHANGE

N.-W. Apple Growers Profit by Big Gain in Business Centering Here.

An unusual example of business expansion that relates very directly to the financial welfare of northwest is furnished by the apple growers Northwestern Fruit exchange closes its season

With chief offices in Portland, the exchange will have cleared $1,000,000 through local banks and will have found markets for 1200 carloads of fruit this year. It has already marketed 1050 carloads.

"This means a business fully 50 per cent more than last year; it is the best of the four seasons we have had since establishing our offices in Portland, said W. F. Gwin, general manager of the exchange, yesterday. The way we are progressing it is safe to predict that within a few years our annual clearance will be up to $5,000,000. We have gotten this year for growers much more real money than last year, and we feel both proud and encouraged over

New Sales Policy Helps.

Part of the success of the season is said to be due to a new sales policy inaugurated by the exchange. It has been the habit to market fruit blindly and unscientifically, shipping the carloads to eastern centers regardless of whether they were glutted with fruit or Consequence frequently was that grade apples failed to sell for 131 votes. Mr. McElmurry was recently elected a member of the school board. enough to pay the freight. Determined to correct the condition, survey was conducted. It showed that in the United States there are approximately 10,000 dealers in fruits and vegetables in carload lots. A system was then devised by which every carwas then devised by which every car-load of fruit at the point of shipment would be offered simultaneously for sale to each of the 10,000. Resultant offers not only made it possible to select the best prices but gave sure proof of where the markets were dull or brisk. This plan made the distribution web center at the point of shipment rather than in some fruit congested eastern center.

To carry on such a system has entailed the perfecting of an intricate system of telegraph and telephone com-munication. Constant connection has been necessary between the Portland offices and the possible markets and correspondents located throughout the United States.

Running over his accounts yesterday Mr. Gwin said that the cost of tele phone and telegraph messages for the season has been $6037.24, and it has frequently run over $1200 a month. Payroll Is $32,149.

The payroll has been for this year $32,149; supplies, expenses, stationery and printing have totaled $6856 and SANDY HAS HOPES claim that we have demonstrated the legitimacy of a public service corporation privately owned, if its books are, as ours, constantly open to anyone to the least detail," said Mr.

It is understood that a proposal to remove the offices of the exchange to Seattle has been made by one of the officials whose home is in the Puget sition of bringing electricity to Sandy sound city, and, it is said, has met from the Bull Run station. While the with the most determined opposition on policy of the company at present is not the part of stockholders, growers and to encourage extension work, he said, others inferested, who feel that the others inferested, who feel that the disadvantages of a location in Seattle a promising field that he thinks the by location in Portland and the closer relation with important fruit growing any plan to move.

THANKS GOVERNOR FOR FINDING HIM WIFE

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Dec. 3.—"Please accept my thanks for your kindness last spring. I am married today to Mrs. L. A. Foster, who I feel is a most excellent lady, and I hope to be able to fill her expectaions. Thank you, governor."
This letter from L. J. Turney of Ajax,

Or., received by Governor West yester-day, recalled to the governor that last May Turney wrote to him, saying that he had a 320 acre wheat farm 20 miles from Condon, that since his wife died he had been hiring cook after cook and that he could get none to stay or prove satisfactory. He said he was 49 years old and had four children, two boys and two girls, ranging from 8 to 14 years

Turney said he wanted to find a good cook who would stay on the job. He said he would pay $20 a month until harvest, and $2 a day through harvest, and if everything was satisfactory by that time he would consider matrimony. Mrs. Foster, 1502 East Eighth street, Portland, replied to the article about the offer she saw in the newspapers. The summer is over; the harvest is garnered; the letter received by the governor today is evidence that Mrs. Foster, now Mrs. Turney, is an excellent cook, and capable of handling her end of the job on the 320 acre wheat farm, Governor Recognizes Need for Definite Instructions Fol-Following Recent Muddle.

(Salem Bureau of The Journal.) Salem, Or., Dec. 3 .- Recognizing the need of new registration and election laws, Governor West has appointed a commission of 11 persons to study the once to the Pacific Coast hospital at present laws and draft measures for St. Helens. submission to the people or the legislature for approval.

Since the supreme court declared the permanent registration law enacted by the last legislature to be invalid because its operation depended upon a decision of the supreme court, much con fusion over registrations has existed in every city or town holding an election since the decision was handed

This confusion need not extend to the registration for the primaries and gen-eral election next year because there will be time for legal registrations to be made under the old registration law. But it is declared the old law has been contested race in Monday's municipal proven inadequate and cumbersome.

The permanent registration feature in the 1913 law seemed to meet with general approval, and it is probable that the commission just appointed by the governor will include such a feature in any measure drafted. But it is not likely that another compulsory registration law will be attempted. In its re-cent opinion, the supreme court did not Judge Kelly's court here is seeking directly upon that feature, but indirectly it held the compulsory feature to be unconstitutional.

The 1913 law provided for compulsory registration, but it contained a section which said that in case the supreme court held the compulsory feature to be that they unskillfully and negligently unconstitutional then the use of blank attended the fracture, resulting in his A for swearing in votes on election day unconstitutional then the use of blank being laid up for nine months, during would be authorized. In view of the preparations made by the county clerks for handling permanent registrations, some of the county clerks consider the need of a new registration law of enough importance to justify the calling of a special session of the legislature to enact a law for use before the elections next year.
