that "Hofbrau," means "the King's own" or "the King's estate." From this the imperial black eagle of Germany became the coat of arms of Portland's Hofbrau-Quelle. That warlike bird appears on the red and black furniture, walls, blue banners pendant from red earved antique oak ceiling beams and even on the massive black clock that is a model of the old town hall clock at Heidelberg.

Herr Klein is critical. His decorator visited the Rhine and was the guest of a German Baron in his castle. He brought home to Portland the blue pennants of the Baron, the red, black and blue color scheme, with a combination of all the best ideas of old baronial castles. The Hofbrau-Quelle's pictures are marvelous copies of famous Rembrandts and Vandykes that hang in the Louvre and the Royal Art Gallery in Munich. Long has Portland's Hofbrau under Otto Klein's
