Judgmen for Full Amount.—A verdict for $2500, the full amount asked, was returned this morning in Circuit Judge Kavanaugh's court against T. J. Leonard and in favor of R. Adams and his wife, Marion S. Adams. They alleged that Leonard and C. O'Donovan represented to them that they owned 13.51 acres of land near San Jose, Cal., worth $5000 and in bearing orange, pear and other fruit trees with an income of 10 per cent assured. For this Adams and his wife traded three lots in White Salmon. Adams later found that the land traded for was not near San Jose, belonged to the government instead of Leonard and O'Donovan and was barren. O'Donovan failed to appear and a default for the amount asked was given against him. Leonard is under sentence to the penitentiary for swindling Dr. M. J. Denny and wife and is awaiting the result of an appeal to the supreme court.

Divorce on Grounds of Cruelty.—Margaret E. Melvin was awarded a decree of divorce this morning from Forest E. Melvin, an attorney, on grounds of cruelty by Circuit Judge McGinn. She testified that he had failed to support her. She also accused him of failing to account for $1500 she had given him to invest and with having received endearing letters from other women. Circuit Judge Davis granted a divorce to Ethel M. Cox from W. R. Cox on grounds of cruelty, and to J. T. Townley from L. Townley for desertion. Cruelty was the charge in decrees granted by Judge Gatens to Edna M. Deets from W. P. Deets and to Johanna Joyce from W. F. Joyce. Mrs. Deets was allowed to resume her maiden name, Edna M. Dieh', and the custody of two children and $25 a month for support was granted to Mrs. Joyce.

Non-Suit Is Granted.—Holding that a man who goes into a saloon without patronizing the bar is there for his own convenience and not as a guest, Circuit Judge Coke, sitting for Judge Morrow, allowed a non-suit in the suit of Louis Mittman, an aged man, against the Alder Realty company, owners of a building at Second and Alder streets, and Dahl & Penny, owners of a saloon in the building. Mittman opened a door in the saloon and in the darkness stepped into an entrance to the basement. He fell downstairs and broke several bones. Judge Coke said that a purchase would have constituted Mittman a guest and the defendants would have been obliged to use special care.

Compliment to Dr. Kerr. — George Wright Post and Sumner Post, Grand Army of the Republic, together with the Women's Relief Corps, will attend the services tomorrow morning at the Taylor Street Methodist Episcopal church, Third and Taylor streets, as a compliment to Dr. W. T. Kerr, who will be in charge of the services. Dr. Kerr has just been elected for the ninth consecutive time as chaplain of Sumner Post and the church program and music will be of a special patriotic character.

Celebrates Birthday.—Though his beard is gray, a skull cap covers his head and his shoulders are not as straight as they once were, A. B. Stuart, bailiff of the grand jury, is by no means as old as his 85 years would have him. Yesterday he celebrated the anniversary of four score and five years, and today he is looking forward to the celebration of the sixty-fifth anniversary of his arrival in Oregon, for it was in January, 1849, that he came to this country from a short stay in the Hawaiian islands on the ship Tarquinia. He came around the Horn from New Jersey to the islands first.

Damage Case Settled.—Following the empanelling of a jury in Circuit Judge Davis' court to try a personal injury suit by Fred Brandt against Brown & McCabe, stevedores, a compromise was reached and the jury returned, by stipulation, a verdict for $1000 for Brandt. Brandt was engaged in loading the ship Arna, last July when he was injured. He sued for $20,280 damages.

Lincoln Alumni Plan Excursion.—Alumni of the Lincoln high school are planning an excursion to Oregon City tomorrow. The party will meet at First and Alder streets at 12 p. m. and go by interurban to their destination. They will participate in a hike around the city and return by way of the falls.

To Speak on Aims of Leagues.—Under the auspices of the People's Government and Ownership league John L. Schuyleman will speak at 8 o'clock tonight in library hall of the new public library on the aims of the organiaztion and the reform measures to which the league's support is pledged. The league favors the enactmnt into law of the following measures: To simplify the use of the initiative, referendum and recall; a postal vote; a system of voting by mail; life insurance and accident insurance by the state at cost; an eight hour law; a municipal fruit and vegetable cannery to reduce the high cost of living; a municipal paving plant; to demand adequate street car service immediately; a seat for everybody.

Mass Meeting at Oak Grove.—A mass meeting of the citizens of Oak Grove will be held at the Oak Grove school house Tuesday, December 16, for the purpose of electing officers for the fair association. The forthcoming election was authorized at a recent meeting of the association's directors held at the residence of B. Lee Paget. At this time it was also voted to hold the association's balances intact to be used in financing a fair in September, 1914.

Only Six Beds Remain.—But six beds remain unfilled at the Multnomah farm, according to a report by Superintendent Jackson. The county commissioners authorized him to requisition such beds as are necessary to care for new patients as they are committed to the farm. Mr. Jackson was also allowed two fire extinguishers for the farm.

Road Expert's Report.—During November last, $5891.56 was expended on the Columbia river highway, according to a report by Road Expert S. C. Lancaster to the county commissioners. Prior to November 1, there had been spent $5950.73, making a total expended to date of $11,842.29. The county commissioners and invited guests will make a trip of inspection over the road.

Found Not Guilty.—William Allen, proprietor of the Golden West hotel at Broadway and Everett streets, was found not guilty yesterday afternoon in the municipal court of conducting a disorderly place. The hotel is one exclusively patronized by colored people. Two white girls were arrested for going there. A jury heard the case.

Christmas Bazaar.—The Ladies' Aid society of the St. Helens Congregational church held its Christmas bazaar in the city hall on Thursday evening. "A Night in Japan" was well rendered by pupils from the public school, and the numerous booths containing refreshments and fancy work were liberally patronized.

Wife Ran Away.—Testifying that his wife ran off with the hired man, W. L. Pearson yesterday secured a divorce from Maude J. Pearson on grounds of desertion. Circuit Judge McGinn granted the decree, as well as one to Jennie M. Zutter from Samuel H. Zutter, on grounds of cruelty. Mrs. Zutter was given the custody of her 4-year-old son.

Water for Garibaldi.—To furnish water to the city of Garibaldi, the Garibaldi Water company has been formed by Charles J. Schnabel, Newton C. Smith and J. B. Ofner. Articles of incorporation were filed yesterday with County Clerk Coffey. The concern is capitalized at $15,000.

Injured in Collision.—In a collision yesterday evening between Hoover's bakery wagon and a vegetable wagon, Joseph Connarda, driver of the latter, was thrown to the pavement, and received a broken ankle. The collision occurred at Eleventh and Sherman streets.

The Rev. John H. Boyd, D. D., will have for his 10:30 a. m. topic Sunday, "The Divine Preparation for Christmas;" at 7:30 p. m. his theme will be, "A Pre-Christmas Meditation." At the evening service a mixed chorus of 60 voices will render selections from Handel's "Messiah." (Adv.)

The Permission of Evil.—"When God is said to permit, it is not meant that he wills, but that on account of the end, which is salvation, he cannot avert"—Swedenborg. Topic of Rev. C. A. Nussbaum's lecture Sunday evening, at K. P. hall, 11th and Alder. All welcome. (Adv.)

MILLIONAIRE'S WIFE IS GRANTED DIVORCE

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 13.—Mrs. Claudine Warren, daughter of the late Judge Cotton, was granted an interlocutory decree of divorce today from Charles A. Warren, a millionaire, by Superior Judge Cabaniss. Property settlement was waived until a final decree is granted, but the court allowed Mrs. Warren $150 monthly for the support of her two children.

WELFARE COMMISSION AND HORTICULTURISTS COME TO AGREEMENT

Fruitgrowers Decide to Withdraw Resolution of Protest and Pass One of Confidence

Yesterday's conference between Father E. V. O'Hara and the Oregon State Horticultural society was a marked victory for the chairman of the Industrial Welfare committee. By sheer force of eloquence and logic, he convinced the fruitgrowers that the commission was not a menace to their industry and its allied branches, but that by cooperation the mutual interests of state and the industry would be aided.

A resolution voicing a protest against any action on part of the commission that would affect the fruit business was withdrawn, and one substituted in its place expressing confidence in the Welfare Commission's fairness. A second resolution was passed providing for a committee of the Horticultural society to assist the commission in its investigation of the fruit interests.

"There is no disposition on the part of the commission," said Father O'Hara, "to hurt an industry, but more to increase the efficiency of the worker. Our purpose is to bring the lawbreaking industry up to the standard. The commission is not a radical body and will enforce the law in the most reasonable way possible." The chief objections on part of the fruit men were based on the grounds of uncertainty of the crop and weather conditions. Fruit on the tree, it was pointed out, is not stone in the quarry. Fruit must come off the tree and be put on the market within time limits set by nature.

A large share of the afternoon was spent in passing resolutions. Among the number were an indorsement of a congressional bill to fix a national standard of size for apple boxes. This measure has received the support of apple growers in the northwest, and it is probable that C. E. Whisler of Medford, president of the society and editor of the Fruit and Produce Distributor, will be sent to Washington to lobby for its passage. The society, in a resolution, advocated a national apply day, to do away with the conflict now existing in several states. To take the place of the customary fruit show of the society, an exhibition will be held in conjunction with the land products show next year. Resolutions were further adopted condemning the practice of misbranding apples for sale.

Regret and condolence for the deaths of Dr. Samuel Robinson and Dr. O. P. S. Plummer, members of the society, were expressed in resolutions, while thanks were extended in similar fashion to the Library association for use of the building, to the public press and to the retiring officers.

The efforts of the chamber of commerce to bring trade and shipping to Portland were also indorsed. W. D. B. Doilson, trade commissioner of the Portland chamber of commerce, delivered a paper on the trade possibilities of the canal, while C. E. Holt of Eugene read a paper postponed from Thursday on the handling of by-products such as cider and vinegar in cooperative canneries.

CHANGE IN RULES NOT DEEMED ADVISABLE

Members of the Portland Chamber of Commerce have asked representatives of the western railroads to oppose any change in the rules of the Transcontinental Freight Bureau applying to the minimum weight of cars carrying transcontinental freight. The rule now in force, which eastern roads are seeking to have suspended, allows the inclusion of two cars on one bill of lading in cases where light, bulky merchandise does not weigh as much as the minimum prescribed in the rules.

The question was put up to the chamber's transportation committee, which sent out letters asking the opinion of the members. Replies indicate that the sentiment of the chamber is to let the rules alone because they had been worked out after years of study and experience and were fairly satisfactory to the shippers. If the new rule is adopted at the freight bureau's January meeting, it will mean a considerable increase in rates on commodities of this kind because the charge will be made on the basis of two cars instead of one, though the minimum weight allowed for one car would not have been exceeded.

Other minor changes in rules affecting westbound shipments are also objected to, including reclassification of weights according to length of cars and the substitution of official classification provisions for certain items now carried in transcontinental tariffs.

TRAFFIC DELAYED BY FREIGHT DERAILMENT

Traffic on the Oregon Electric line was seriously impeded for several hours this morning, due to the derailment of five freight cars near Salem, at 2:35 o'clock. A metal brake beam falling on the track was responsible for the wreck. Two cars of ties and three cars of merchandise were thrown off the track. The line was cleared for through traffic at 11 o'clock. There was no injuries.

SECRET IS ACCLIMATED SEED, SAYS EXPERT

"Farmer" C. L. Smith Sees Great Future for Oregon as Corn State.

It is not only the ears of corn, the jars of corn, ensilage, the green stalks arranged in artistic pattern that are of interest at the O.-W. R. & N. show in the Failing building this week. For there is C. L. Smith, picturesque as the high priest of the corn faith. To all doubters of the feasibility of corn in the Pacific northwest, he merely points and says, "This shows one year of corn growing. Wait till we have been at it another year."

On display at the railroad's corn show are samples from fields cultivated under almost all conditions of climate. The bleak prairies of eastern Washington have contributed stalks that make 12 tons per acre of ensilage—enough to feed four cows all winter. The Yakima valley and the Columbia river basin on the Oregon side contributed yellow dent ears fully matured and of well filled cob and deep kernel. This "Farmer" Smith declares superior to the prize corn from the shows of Iowa and Indiana.

"I have always said that corn is the most adaptable of all plants to varying conditions of soil and climate," declared Mr. Smith. "The secret is acclimated seed. As soon as this year's crop is garnered, the farmer who wants to raise more next year should select out the best ears, the ones of symmetrical shape, with regard to length and circumference at the butt, of well filled cob and grains covering both ends with well developed kernels. Lay this aside for seed and next year's crop will be found to surpass this year's manyfold. Since the O.-W. R. & N. company distributed its tons of seed corn last year, we have had most encouraging reports and this show is the answer."

Corn makes fat hogs. This is the slogan the corn apostles are shouting at every visitor. What the hog means to the farmer of the northwest is recounted at every gathering of farmers—more fertility to the soil, a wider market, greater agricultural possibilities in all lines.

The show will close tonight, when Mr. Smith and his assistants will pack up and take the exhibit to Seattle, where other farmers will be shown.

The old bugaboo of "short season and cold nights" is being scouted by the corn experts, who declare that, given suitable seed to start with and intelligent cultivation, there is no reason why Oregon should not rank with Nebraska and Kansas.

FAILURE TO REDEEM PROMISES, ALLEGED

Three suits were tried at once in Circuit Judge Davis' court, against the Hillsboro Garden Tracts, a concern which sold tracts near Hillsboro. Briefs will be submitted by each side before the cases are decided. The cases were brought by purchasers of the small tracts who alleged that the company failed to keep promises. The total amount involved is $9049.20, the money alleged to have been paid for the tracts and for improvements.

McLain Cooper, one of the plaintiffs, sued for $7289.45, the amount representing money alleged to have been spent by himself and nine others for lands and improvements in the tract. W. E. Marshall sued for $503 and Martha Henrichsen for $656.75. The details of the transactions were similar so it was decided one suit could determine all.
