MISS MARGARET MALARKEY started her most intimate friends yesterday who were luncheon with her by the announcement of her engagement to Vernon Cartwright, of London, Eng. There were covers for six arranged at a daintily appointed luncheon table centered with the pink bigonia blossoms.

Miss Malarekey is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan J. Malarekey. She is pretty and charming, one of the most popular girls of the recent debutantes. She returned last season from school in Philadelphia, where she attended The Madams of the Sacred Heart. In Portland she received her education at the Portland academy.

Mr. Cartwright is the nephew of Mrs. Herbert Holman, of this city. He will visit Portland this spring when the wedding will take place. They plan to make their future home in London.

Miss Claire Wilcox entertained Thursday evening with a beautifully appointed dancing party at the Waverly Country club. About 70 couples were in attendance and Mrs. Theodore B. Wilcox received with her daughter in the large living room of the club house. Little Christmas trees intermingled with the palms and ferns and scarlet poinsettias gave the warmth and cheer of the holiday season to the decorations, which were unusually pretty. On the mantle in the living room a jolly little old Santa stood smiling a welcome to the guests.

Supper was served after 11 o'clock and dainty tables were discovered in the dining room, each centered with a little tree sparkling with many colored lights and prettily gawgaws. Clusters of the poinsettia were used here as well, with charming effect.

Mrs. Wilcox was distinguished in an imported gown of simple, yet elegant design, made of electric blue crepe faille with touches of white maline. A handsome black butterfly mounted in Rhinestones, at the corsage, was her only ornament.

Miss Wilcox's blond beauty was accentuated by a charming toilette of black and white. Her gown was of black satin draped in pannier effect.

with a short tunic of crystal beads, white chiffon. The invitational list included: Mr. and Mrs. John C. Ainsworth, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wesley Ladd, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Kollock, Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Scott Brooke, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. L. Allen Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. L. McGregor, Mr. and Mrs. Gay Lombard, Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Washburn, Mrs. Florence Minott, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Davis Jr., Mr. and Mrs. David T. Honbrum, Mr. and Mrs. Guy W. Talbot, Mr. and Mrs. Landon R. Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Hawley Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott R. Corbett, Mr. and Mrs. George Kirkham Smith, Miss Shanna Cumming, Miss Lora Cumming, Miss Madeline MacMaster, Misses Diana and Violet Erskine, Miss Dorothy Huber, Miss Katherine Holbrook, Miss Katherine Hart, Miss Jean Morrison, Miss Evelyn Carey, Miss Hazel Dolph, Miss Margery Hoffman, Miss Margaret Hewitt, Miss Howland, of Vancouver Barracks, Harry Burnett, Frederick Behrends, Spencer Biddle, James Colburn, H. K. B. Davis, Philip Fry, Frederick Foster, Alan Green, Dwight Fullerton, Charles Holbrook, Lester Hodson, William Howe, Charles Hindman, Richard Jones, Kurt Koehler, Andrew Kerr, Roderick Macleay, Egbert Mersereau, Lieutenant Philip Fleming, A. D. Norris, Harry Reed, Ferdinand Smith, Berkeley Snow, Harold Wells, Irving Webster, William Wheeler, Aubrey Watzek, Jordan Zan, William D. Heelwright, Leland Smith, Ellis Bragg, Varnel Beach and Mac Snow.

Another engagement which has been just announced is that of Miss Nancy Stack, of Escanaba, Mich., and Walter Daly, of this city. Miss Stack entertained at her home in the east yesterday announcing the engagement and the wedding for January 3. Mr. Daly is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Daly and is well known in social and business circles. He is treasurer of the Title & Trust company and is the brother of Miss Irene Daly, John Daly and Orville Daly.

Miss Stack has been a frequent visitor here at the home of Mrs. J. R. Wiley when she made hosts of friends. She was bridesmaid for Mrs. John Daly (Marguerite Wiley) and again at the wedding of her brother John King Stack and Miss Cecile Wiley.

Mr. Daly will leave after Christmas for Escanaba for the wedding. Orville Daly, who is at Princeton will join him there to act as best man.

These Dansants at the Portland hotel will be discontinued for a few weeks until after the busy and flurry of Christmas is over. So have decreed the board of the People's institute. What with all the "shopping early" there still remains that mad rush of the few remaining days before Christmas. Much as the young people of society like the tango, the Yuletide obligations must be met and until the New Year is over they must discontinue the charity Dansants. After the first of the year the dances will again be taken up under the patronage of the same women. The coffers of the institute have been substantially enriched through these delightful afternoon dances and the popularity of the dances bids fair to continue through a busy and enjoyable season.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Edwards formerly of Hay Creek who have been frequent visitors in Portland for the last few years are planning to pass the winter here and have taken Mrs. William Jones' residence at Twenty-third and Flanders streets. They are now guests at the home of Mrs. Helen Ladd Corbett. Mrs. Edwards has just returned from an extended visit at her old home in England.

Congratulations are being showered upon Dr. and Mrs. J. N. Coghlan (Helen Guerin) on the arrival Thursday of a baby daughter.

Saturday night Mrs. E. C. Shevlin returned home after passing a month in New York, visiting friends and relatives. Her son, William Shevlin, who is in school in the east, returned with his mother to pass the holidays here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Jackson, accompanied by their son Phillip Jackson, who is at Princeton, called Friday from New York for Cuba and the Bermudas, where they will pass the Christmas holidays, returning to New York about January 10.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sharp (Margaret Morrison) have come up from their ranch at Prineville to pass about two months of the winter season here with Mrs. Sharp's parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. A. Morrison.

Mrs. G. M. Magruder presided at a bridge of seven tables Tuesday afternoon at her home in Johnson street, which was one of the most delightful social functions of the day. In addition to the guests at cards, a number called later for tea.

The following matrons poured at a daintily set tea table: Mrs. George Willett, Mrs. John Eben Young, Mrs. E. L. Hamilton and Mrs. Herman Burpee. The young girls who assisted in serving were: Miss Amy Robinson, Miss Ethel Malpas, Miss Margaret Platt and Evelina Magruder.

Mrs. Andrews (Josephine Smith), wife of Lieutenant Joseph Andrews, whose wedding last spring will be remembered as an event of interest at Fort Schofield, Hawaiian islands, arrived in the city last Sunday. A group of Portland people, who went over to the islands for the double wedding of Miss Smith and Lieutenant Andrews, and Miss Isabelle McGunnigle and Lieutenant Phil Sheridan, included Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Warren (Ruth Smith), Miss Frances Wilson and her fiancé, Gordon Forbes, and were the attendants at the wedding.

Mrs. Andrews will visit here for several weeks, dividing her time between her mother, Mrs. Milton Smith, and her sister, Mrs. Warren. The latter has recently come up from her home in Astoria to pass the winter in Portland, and is residing at 88 Melinda avenue.

The many friends of Mrs. S. B. Linthicum and her son Alexander Linthicum, are greatly concerned over the serious illness of the latter in Boston. He was in school at Pomfret, in Connecticut, when he was taken sick, and Mrs. Linthicum was called east some weeks ago. Her sister and niece, Mrs. Walter J. Burns and her daughter, Miss Louise Burns, left two weeks ago to join Mrs.

Linthicum in Boston. Miss Frances Wilson is also with her aunts and cousins in Boston. Mr. Linthicum is still in a serious condition.

Even the members of the Hunt club who participated in the private horse show at the Portland Riding academy last Friday evening found the show of unusual interest. The evening was given by the ladies of the Friday night class and a most complete exhibition was offered. Special features were offered aside from the regular exhibitions of horsemanship and horse-flesh by Lieutenant Potter and Captain Ball of Vancouver barracks, showing their horses in high jumps and their special army training. These horses were recently shown in New York at the Madison Square Garden and won place under the highest competition.

William Walter took the jumps with them, Lieutenant Potter winning first place, Mr. Walter second and Captain Ball third.

Owing to the limited seating capacity of the rink the affair was made invitational and only a few guests allowed to each member.

Flowers and other pretty expressions of congratulations are finding their way to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sharp on the arrival of a baby daughter Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Whitney left Saturday to pass the holidays in San Francisco with Mrs. Whitney's sister, Miss Mary Barron. Mr. Whitney will return the first of the year, but Mrs. Whitney will remain in San Francisco for a few weeks and later will visit in Santa Barbara and Los Angeles, spending about two months in the south.

Miss Catherine Whitmer and Ralph Jay Hurlburt were married Wednesday evening at a simple though beautiful home wedding. At 8 o'clock the bride and groom took their places at an improvised altar, a sylvan bower of cedar and Oregon grape, in the corner of the living room. The greens were so massed as to form a curtain of green on either side and a canopy overhead. Graceful potted palms and fern and standards filled with white chrysanthemums stood at either side of the raised dais, where the Rev. Henry Marcotte, the officiating minister, received them. Miss Julie Whitmer was her sister's maid of honor and Merle G. Campbell attended the groom.

Miss Whitmer was a beautiful bride, simply gowned in ivory white duchesse satin, fashioned in train, with quaint draped skirt and bodice of embroidered chiffon, studded with seed pearls. Her veil hung in filmy folds over the gown, draped from a becoming cap in Juliet effect, edged with a plaited frill of the tulle and banded with a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a lovely bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

Miss Julie Whitmer was charmingly attired in yellow crepe de chine made en train and a bodice of tulle in the same shade. She carried a beautiful arm bouquet of prima donna rose buds.

Only a few of the more intimate friends and the relatives were assembled for the wedding, and following a large reception was held to which about 100 guests were bidden.

Prior to the ceremony Miss Maureen Campbell sang, and Miss Frances Fuller accompanied her and played the wedding march.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron W. Whitmer, parents of the bride, and Thomas M. Hurlburt, father of the groom, received with the bride party.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hurlburt are among the most popular of the young people of society. Miss Whitmer is an unusually pretty girl and is possessed of a charming personality. Mr. Hurlburt is also well known in athletic circles. He was former captain of the Multnomah club football team and coach of the Portland Academy football team of the past season.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the annual Pan-Hellenic luncheon, which occurs on December 30, at the Oregon hotel. The committee in charge, Mrs. Benton Beck, Mrs. Frank Knight and Mrs. Harry M. Hendershott, are working with the president of the organization, Miss Agnes Beach, to make the luncheon a great success. There are over 100 Greek letter women in Portland, and a goodly percentage of these are expected to be present. A number of interesting talks will be given during the course of the luncheon.

One of the largest and most elaborately appointed affairs of the week was the reception and card party given at the Hotel Oregon by Mr. and Mrs. Edward R. Rood, in celebration of the pearl anniversary of their wedding. They had guests for 14 tables at 500 arranged in the Marie Antoinette suite. A musical program was rendered by Mr. Whipp, Carlotta, Miss Laura Shay and Miss Annie Matschner sopranos.

Following the game the guests repaired to the Tyslean room, marching to the strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march. Here the tables were most beautifully decked in poinsettia and holly.

The invitational list included: Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Haller, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Costello, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Fenton, Mr. and Mrs. Jay C. Olds, Mr. and Mrs. C. Lewis Mead, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Idolman, Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Coovert, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Peacock, Mr. and Mrs. P.
