Funeral of Girl Suicide to be Held Tomorrow

Discovery of Body in Brush Was Great Shock to Her Parents.

The funeral of 16-year-old Esperance Clark, whose body was found yesterday morning on the west slope of Rocky butte, where she had committed suicide on Christmas day, is to be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the funeral parlors of W. H. Hamilton, in Montavilla. Interment is to be at Brainard cemetery.

The girl had come to her death by firing a shot from a rusty .22 calibre revolver, that had been given to her brother, through the heart. The revolver was found a few feet from the body. The discovery was a terrible shock to many in Montavilla, who, misled by deception, someone there that they had seen and talked to Esperance, believed she was staying with friends, and never suspected that she had carried out her threat to end her life.

Yesterday, after the report of the discovery of a body had been reported to the mother, she and a chum of the daughter, Mrs. Emma Shultz, started to search Rocky butte, and although they walked for miles over half beaten trails and even off the beaten tracks, it was not until several hours later, when four men were carrying the body out of the woods, that the mother located the body.

Hearing persons crashing about through the underbrush, the women plunged through the woods toward them, and when she met them, she begged them to be told if the body was that of her daughter. The man knew without question that it was "Espee," as she was known, but they, fearing the mother would collapse, refused to answer her pathetic appeals. It was with difficulty that they prevented Mrs. Clark from tearing the lid off the casket, to learn for herself.

"Please tell me if it's Espee," she begged. "You know her, and you might as well tell me now as any time. I have to know sooner or later. Tell me quick."

The body was in a frightful condition on account of attacks on it by wild animals, and by the long exposure in the woods. The mother will not be allowed to view the remains.

The girl, who had a reputation of being temperamental and given to fits of melancholy, on Christmas day engaged in a tussle with her two younger brothers, Cyril, aged 12, and Basil, aged 9. Basil's body he broke down and cried. He immediately set about to arrange for the funeral.

The mother has had many bitter experiences recently. The death of her son just a year ago, while he was in the navy, was a shock to her. Before that she had been deserted by her husband, Edmond Clark, a decorator.

She had had a reputation of being temperamental and given to fits of melancholy, on Christmas day engaged in a tussle with her two younger brothers, Cyril, aged 12, and Basil, aged 9. Basil's body he broke down and cried. He immediately set about to arrange for the funeral.

ing the final construction of every part of the structure for each of the first and second parties.

To Pay Patent Royalties. The first and second parties shall pay the royalties on any patents which they may desire to use; and if they shall elect to use a vertical lift draw, patents to which are owned by the third party, they shall pay to the third party in full for the use of such patents fifteen thousand dollars ($15,000) at the time of the acceptance of the bridge, which payment shall be additional to the compensation herein-after provided.

Two New Postmasters. (Washington Bureau of The Journal.) Washington, D. C., Jan. 10.—Representative Hawley took up with the agricultural department today the establishment of an animal quarantine station at Portland, if the matter receives favorable consideration, Mr. Hawley will ask congress for an appropriation to establish and maintain such a station.

Laboratory Will Not Get Dogs. Oakland, Cal., Jan. 10.—Commissioner of Public Health and Safety Turner received an anonymous letter today referring to him as a cannibal and threatening him with tar and feathers or lynching for having introduced an ordinance Wednesday to give stray dogs to the Stanford university laboratory. The ordinance passed, but today it was rescinded, not on account of the anonymous letter, but because the S. P. C. A. protested.

White Has Two Years to Serve. Washington, Jan. 10.—Officialdom was not inclined today to pay serious attention to the report that President Wilson planned to appoint ex-President Taft to the supreme court if Chief Justice White left the bench. To go no further, they said, the chief justice did not intend to resign, and has still six years to serve before he reaches the age of retirement.

Montesano Will Clean. Montesano, Wash., Jan. 10.—Ray W. Thurber, a former student of the University of Washington, has been selected by the Hoquiam city commission to clean up unsanitary spots in this city. Prior to taking up the work he is to spend several weeks in Seattle and Portland getting posted on matters pertaining to his office.

Broker's Mother Killed by Car. San Francisco, Jan. 10.—Mrs. Agnes Wilson, mother of J. C. Wilson, stock broker, died early today of injuries suffered by a fall while stepping from a street car last evening.

INTERSTATE SPAN CONTRACT SIGNED BY THE GOVERNOR (Continued From Page One.) signed and the proposal originally made by Waddell & Harrington is that a fee of $65,000 will be paid in lump sum, instead of per cent of the total cost of the bridge, and the commission agrees to pay the firm $15,000 for the use of its patented vertical lift span if such type should be approved by the board.

A bond of $50,000 for the satisfactory operation of the bridge is also required, Harrington agreeing to pay the premium. He at first said that a bond was required under the modified contract he would ask the commission to pay it. A few paragraphs of the contract indicate the services to be performed by Waddell & Harrington and the compensation therefor. These read as follows:

1. Make a thorough study of the crossing, of all matters relating to it, and make surveys necessary to secure all data.

2. Make adequate borings to determine thoroughly the character of materials for foundations.

3. Prepare a general plan and detailed estimate of costs for all types of structures in all locations which the first and second parties may desire to consider, and give advice to the first and second parties regarding all matters pertaining to the work.

4. Prepare the required hydrographic surveys, maps and plans and make application to the war department for the right to construct the bridge, and attend at all hearings on the matter.

5. Prepare complete detailed plans and specifications for the entire structure, and every part thereof of such type as shall be determined upon by the first and second parties.

6. Prepare advertisements and invitations to tender, and furnish and send out all bidding plans and specifications.

7. Attend upon the lettings, and draw contracts, subject to the approval of the first and second parties and their attorneys.

8. Perform the field engineering work, including base-lines, triangulation work, and the surveys necessary to locate piers, abutments, approaches, etc.

9. Inspect and test the cement, and inspect and pass upon timber, sand, gravel, stone and all other materials of construction at the bridge site.

10. Inspect the manufacture of metal at rolling mills and foundries and make tests and analysis of all metal.

11. Inspect the fabrication, painting and loading of all metal work and machinery at the bridge shops.

12. Supervise and inspect the construction of every part of the foundations, superstructure and approaches; placing ample, competent staff upon the work, and report on in every detail; and giving it the close attention of the members of the firm.

13. Prepare and furnish to the first and second parties a weekly progress reports showing the condition and status of the work in the mills and shops as well as that in the field; and forming a complete record of construction.

14. Prepare monthly estimates which will constitute the basis of payments to contractors.

15. Prepare a full and complete final report, and a final drawing showing
