LINCOLN PLAYS FAST GAME AND BEATS 5 WASHINGTON

Captain Clerin Puts Up Brilliant Game for Winners-East Siders Unlucky.

Playing an aggressive and a brilliant passing game, the Lincoln High school quintet defeated their old rivals, Washington High school, in the initial game of the Interscholastic league, 28 to 22. The Cardinals outclassed their east side opponents in passing, while the fact that the Washngton players had tough luck in shooting baskets must not be overlooked. Captain Clerin of the winners was to be every place on the floor, and beat his Washington opponent to the ball on nearly every jump. Joe Lillard of the Cardinals and Schildneckt also covered a large amount of ground, and were always on top of the ball. At times Schildkneckt became a little rough in his style of play. Caesar was Lincoln's star basket shooter. Knouff and Johnson were Washington's best players. Gorman played a fair game at guard, but at times both

he and Knouff would leave their men

At the end of the first half, the score stood 16 to 13 in favor of Lin-Washington started a little in this game, but time was before they were able to make much headway. In the second period Washington began scoring at the start and then Lincoln braced and scored a few baskets.

Coach Fenstermacher changed his forwards, but his players were greatly outweighed by Borleske's five, and their chances of putting up a harder fight were slight. Washington started another rally, but the ball would not roll an inch in the east side team's favor and the players seemed to lose

FARMER AND BONDS PUT UP A SLASHING BATTLE

Wash., Jan. 16.- Frank Farmer, claimant to the light heavyweight championship of the northwest, and Joe Bonds, local college boxer, fought a slashing four round draw at the boxing show staged at Moose hall last night. It was their fourth meeting, no previous clash having produced a decided winner. Bonds may have had a shade in last night's bout, but it was not enough to warrant a decision in his favor. Both men were perfectly trained and every round was filled to the brim with red

A spadeful of sand on a bleeding divot mark is healing ointment which induces a quick growth of grass. A pinch of it in your caddle's fingers brightens up your iron while you are walking to your ball. One old golfer we played with used to dip his hands in the tee box before gripping his driver and averred that there was nothing so good as the feel of it on eather; but this procedure might not suit the softer handed generation of STRAIGHT DRIVE.

Musson slipped over a right cross to Andy Potts' jaw. Pat Dyer of Seattle and Joe Hill of Aberdeen boxed four sensational rounds, Dyer coming from behind and earning a draw in the fourth round. Harry Krieger of Portland and Harry Bishop of Tacoma put up a great scrap. Bishop gave away 10 pounds, but his great rally in the last round put him on even terms. And to look at the matter from anyou out of it; and equally, as a rule, other point of view, what a waste of you will be that one shot to the bad bad language has not this same sand against an opponent who has avoided been responsible for-language which. if used in any other conjuncture of evil circumstances, directed at any less unoffending individual than our caddie, might (we speak with deference) have achieved some useful, if not noble, purpose. It is a matter of common knowledge—painful it may be but none the less true—that a volley of oaths will effect among a crew of rebellious sailors or lazy dockers what the unvituperative eloquence of a John Bright would fail to produce-namely, work, quick work and plenty of it; but it has yet to be proved that a golf ball has shown any disposition to get out of a bunker or into a hole any quicker by reason of unparliamentary ad-

When we have played enough golf to have mastered the elements of the niblick stroke, we realize that if there had been no sand there would have been no golf-or, at any rate, no golf quite so good as that which we get on sand links. We learn, in the first place, that sand encourages a growth of grass which is peculiarly adapted

But sand goes further than this. In itself-apart from any of its effects on the grass of the links-it is a wholly desirable feature. No hazard has yet been discovered which is so free from objections as sand. It is difficult indeed to name any single

The inference was that however much European countries might profit by the exposition, the United States would profit more, and the greater the xposition's success the better for the United States, especially in Central and South America. It was pointed out that the English

So Says Eminent Specialist.

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, stomach-ache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that fermentation is taking place in the food contents of the stomach, causing the formation; of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach, and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heart-burn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural. natural, but may involve most serious consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food contents of the stomach and to by the use of a proper antacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by oisonous gas and dangerous acids.
