By Frank G. Menke. New York, Jan. 25.—Isn't it odd how certain line incidents will cause a shifting shift in opinion? ... Take the case of Joseph Burt Tinker, for instance. At the time Gary Herrmann, "boss" of the Reds, placed him on the auction block, a large number of baseball club owners lost their equilibrium and several sold their club possessions in the mad scramble for the said Mr. Tinker.

All the organized managers, at that particular juncture, had been convinced that Tinker was one of the most valuable short-stopping persons in captivity. ... The St. Louis Cardinals longed for him, and several other clubs were vying for Brooklyn. A half dozen American league teams wanted Tinker, and would have injected themselves into the battle for Tinker's services had they felt there was a chance of landing him.

But there wasn't. Tinker was on the auction block, all right, but only National league bids were recognized. ... Albany Shoot in June. England Has Pretty Idea of an Amateur The report of the recent annual meeting of the English Amateur Rowing association says that early last year letters had been received from the Melbourne Amateur Regatta association, the New South Wales Rowing association, and the Victoria Rowing association, expressing their desire that an English crew should visit Australia and offering to defray the expenses of such a crew to Australia and back.

Duffy Says Athletes Should be Controlled Arthur Duffy, the ex-amateur sprint champion, says: "Despite the fact that A. S. Robinson, the well known school boy sprinter, is one of the world's foremost athletic performers, the Mercedesburg champion is having his troubles in getting into another preparatory school. Incidentally, the changing of an athlete from one school to another brings up the fact that there should be a rule among the intercollegiate association—as is the case among the colleges—that an athlete should remain a year in the school before being allowed to represent it in athletics."
